

PUZZLE, WHO WROTE THE LETTERS?

Mysterious Threatening Case Was Threshed Out in Police Court Today

"Who wrote the letters?" was the question which was apparently uppermost in the minds of the court, attorneys, witnesses, officers and spectators who were present at the police court session this morning during the trial of Gertrude L. Wilkins, accused of threatening Ethel M. Scraggs of Clair street. A. Goldman represented the plaintiff and Attorney William Wilson appeared for the defense. It seems that Miss Ethel Scraggs had been receiving threatening letters from someone who signed "Miss Wilkins" and whose handwriting somewhat resembled the latter's. On the witness stand the complainant testified that she had received

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVANCE

Appropriate Exercises Held in Public Schools—Mill Operatives Will Enjoy Holiday

With the exception of grocery and dry goods stores tomorrow all business will be suspended throughout the city in order to observe the birthday of George Washington, who was the first president of the United States, and who by his fine administration was surnamed the "Father of the U. S. A."

The local mill employes will enjoy a holiday, as the plants will all close this evening and will not reopen again until Monday morning. The stores, however, will keep open house, as the jump from Friday to Monday is considered too much.

The law which provides a penalty of not less than $500 for any mill convict, or requiring its employes to work except in emergency, on legal holidays, was passed in 1911.

The point has been raised that under

MADERO, EX-PRESIDENT OF MEXICO, ORDERED TRIED FOR HIS LIFE

Not Permitted to See Members of Family—Wife Breaks Down—United States Objects to Execution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Francisco Madero, deposed president of Mexico will not be rushed to jail put in a mad house or summarily executed by Provisional President Huerta, according to reports today from Ambassador Wilson. Madero, the ambassador reports will be given a fair trial and possibly his worst fate will be exile.

United States Objects

Secretary Knox with the approval of President Taft had instructed Ambassador Wilson to convey to Huerta in diplomatic terms the intimation that the United States would seriously object to summary execution or sentence of Madero.

It was not felt here that the former president should be put out of the way for crimes which seemed purely political, without a fair and open trial. This view was made plain to Huerta and the fact was not concealed that the United States looked with disfavor upon the shooting of Gustavo Madero, the president's brother.

The administration's attitude toward the provisional government in Mexico was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. President Taft and Mr. Knox have never believed, it is said, that Madero was a strong president for a republic sown with revolution. They have believed, however, that he displayed many humane traits and that he is entitled to a hearing. They have no particular interest other than that of humanity in what is done with him if it is done in legal fashion.

Residents of Mexico Concerned With Question As To Extent of Trouble

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21.—The fate of Francisco Madero and Jose Pina Suarez, respectively the deposed president and vice president of Mexico, has long precedence in the interest of the residents of the capital, who are now more concerned with the question as to the extent to which Mexico is yet in a state of revolution in spite of the termination of hostilities in the capital and the establishment of a new administration.

The disposition of the fallen rulers had not been settled this morning, and was still the cause of some anxiety but in view of General Huerta's personal assurance to Senora Madero it is believed that some measures short of death would be devised for his elimination from public life.

It is probable that this point will be discussed at the first meeting of the cabinet and also in congress which convened in ordinary session.

General Pascual Orozco, according to newspaper despatches from Chihuahua, conferred at Palomares with David de La Fuente, who has been chosen from the rebel list as a cabinet minister. Orozco will accompany Senor de La Fuente it is said to the federal capital in order personally to profess his allegiance to the new government.

General Aguilar and Col. De La Llave, who have been in rebellion in the south are reported to be in accord with the new administration.

Asked to Recognize Huerta

Emissaries of Felix Diaz started today on a trip throughout the country to assure his partisans that everything had been adjusted and to ask them to recognize the government of General Huerta.

On the other hand there has been no intimation from Emiliano Zapata nor from the always elusive Genevevo De La O of their submission to the new order of things.

Beyond this reports have been received from the north which appear more serious, namely that the governors of Aguascalientes, Coahuila and Sonora have openly refused allegiance. Whether or not this will take the form of active rebellion is merely speculation, but it is expected that General Huerta today will send additional troops to these districts to check any movement in the line of a counter-revolution.

New Cabinet Ministers

The new cabinet ministers took charge of their respective departments today and made only a few changes in the official staff.

Provisional President Huerta yesterday received the members of the diplomatic corps for the first time since his selections. All of them expressed themselves highly pleased with the restoration of peace in the capital and many of them privately declared their satisfaction at the change of administration.

Francisco Madero remained all night under guard in his room at the national palace, together with Jose Suarez and Federico Garcia. Madero has not been permitted to see the members of his family.

Senora Madero, who accompanied her husband in his campaigns when he revolted against Porfirio Diaz and who had since been his closest confidante, has broken down. She has spent her time for several days interceding with officials and diplomats to save her husband from death.

Promotion of Army Officers

Provisional President Huerta has used his new power to put right what has long been considered a direct slight to the army. He has long pleaded for promotions for certain officers of the regular army, but had seen Francisco Madero's administration pass over their heads men whose only service had been as revolutionists.

General Huerta has already promoted four generals and several inferior officers of the line. The generals are Aurelio Blarquet, Joaquin Maas, Alberto Varza and Cuervo, all of whom took an active part in the recent fighting for possession of the capital.

Stern and Prompt Action Advised

All of the newspapers of the capital have made their appearance and editorially most of them comment with keen satisfaction on the governmental changes. Almost all, however, evince a slight trace of skepticism regarding the early restoration of peace throughout the republic and suggest to the authorities the advisability of stern and prompt action tempered by diplomacy.

Wholesale Slaughter

Charges not altogether substantiated have been made by the new authorities which tend to indicate that the Madero administration in its extremity was contemplating a wholesale slaughter. More than one prescription list has been found, it is alleged, and a police officer is the authority for a statement that Francisco Madero personally and verbally gave him a list of 43 deputies, several senators and all the newspapermen, including the foreign correspondents, with instructions to have them assassinated. The officer said that since this order was not in writing he did not feel obliged to carry it out. Such stories as this have created a bitter sentiment against Francisco Madero and have caused a number of men whose names were on the list to use their influence to secure summary punishment for the fallen president.

REVOLVER FOUND NEAR DEAD MAN

Testimony on Weapon Given at Trial of W. W. Dorr, Charged With Murder of Marsh

SALEM, Feb. 21.—Further testimony regarding the automatic revolver with which W. W. Dorr of Stockton, Cal., is alleged to have murdered George Marsh of Lynn on April 11 last, was given when the trial of Dorr was resumed today. Walter Anderson, shipping clerk at the firearms factory, testified that the revolver which witnesses said yesterday was found near the supposed scene of the murder was sent from the factory in the east to a San Francisco wholesaler in August, 1901. He was unable to give this information by the number on the weapon. He testified as to the number of possible revolvers and declared it impossible to duplicate the weapon so marked.

Other witnesses called during the first hour included Bellinda Hook of Swampscott, J. B. Clark, Mary E. Leary and Jennie Yorke of Lynn, all of whom testified to having seen or had dealings with the prisoners during the fortnight preceding the murder. Mrs. Leary said that Dorr roomed at her house, having an apartment overlooking the Marsh house from the first of March to the fourth of April. He lived in another house nearby until April 11.

Writing on leaves from a diary which were made an exhibit in evidence were declared by Carroll W. Brock of Stockton to be in the handwriting of Dorr. Brock testified that he was employed by Dorr as a bookkeeper for some time and that in March, 1912, he purchased Dorr's motorcycle business in Stockton. Under cross-examination Brock said that it was not unusual for men in California to carry firearms.

Testimony regarding the bullets recovered from the body of Marsh was given by Dr. Nathaniel Breed, who assisted in the autopsy, and by Arthur E. Wells, a state police officer. A rifle cleaning rod was identified by Mrs. Nellie O'Neill of Lynn as one found in a room Dorr had occupied and John W. O'Neill of Lynn expressed the opinion that the defendant was a man he had known as W. A. Dow.

BOY KILLS HIS FRIEND

Revolver Pointed in Fun
Suddenly Explodes

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Frederick L. Evans, 17, was shot and killed last night by a bullet from a revolver that accidentally exploded in the hands of Harrison D. Dugan, 15, while the two were in the tailor shop of Alla Adolph, 126 Pearl street, Somerville.

The bullet entered the center of young Evans' forehead, penetrating the brain. He was rushed to the Somerville hospital after receiving first treatment from Dr. Francis Shaw, but expired on the way. Dugan was taken to the police station and locked up, charged with murder. Frank Capozzi, who is employed in the tailor shop, was also locked up as a witness.

From what could be learned of the shooting it was purely an accident, and the father of the Evans boy insisted to look upon it as such. When the revolver exploded and the Dugan lad saw his chum Evans fall over he fainted. When he regained consciousness and realized what had happened he begged those present not to tell his mother, as she is seriously ill.

The accident happened about 8.15. Young Evans went to the tailor shop of Adolph's, where he met Dugan. In the shop at the time was Capozzi, who is employed by Adolph. The Evans boy was sitting on the table near the front window. Dugan was walking around the shop, while Capozzi was engaged in pressing a suit.

Dugan saw a revolver on the shelf to the left of Capozzi. He picked it up and, it is said, pointed it in the direction of where the Evans boy was sitting. Without the slightest warning the revolver exploded and Evans fell to one side, while blood rushed from his forehead.

Young Evans was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Evans of 6 Auburn avenue. He was in the eighth grade of the Edgerly school.

Boy Held in $1,000

SOMERVILLE, Feb. 21.—Harrison Dugan, who accidentally shot and killed his playmate, Fred L. Evans, yesterday, was arraigned in court today on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $1,000 for a further hearing on Feb. 25. Dugan is 15 years old and Evans was two years older. Dugan was playing with a revolver when it was discharged.

COOKERY FOR INVALID

Dishes That Are Very
Appetizing

Beat the white of one egg and yolk separately and then put them together and beat well, adding a pinch of salt. Pour into a cup and set the cup in a sauceman of hot water on the stove. Stir constantly until it is scalded, but not cooked. Set in the oven for a few minutes and serve. This should be cooked slowly. The egg thickens slightly, but puffs up until the cup is almost filled with a light, creamy custard.

Mutton Cutlet

Take one small cutlet from the neck of the mutton, cutting away the skin at the end, and chop the end of the bone off, so that there is just a neatly shaped cutlet. Season with salt and beef, turning it two or three times during the cooking. Serve on a very hot plate. A very little good brown gravy should be served with this cutlet.

Apple and Rice Pudding

Doll one dessertspoonful of rice in a wineglass of milk, having washed the rice well. When quite tender add a teaspoonful of sugar. Peel, core and slice one medium sized apple and put in a steamer with a small piece of butter, a teaspoonful of water and a little more sugar and stir until tender. When the apple is cooked place it in a pie dish. Beat up the egg and mix it with the rice and pour over the apple. Bake for about ten minutes in a warm oven and serve. Always remember that many invalids cannot enjoy their meals if they see a quantity of food, and they often have more appetite if their meals are daintily served to them apart from the household.

NEW LIXERS DANCED

Tripled the Light Fantastic at Grand Grange Hall—More Good Times Coming

Two dozen and one young men, who are known to their friends as the New Lixers, held a dancing party at the Grand Grange last evening. It was the first of a series of semi-monthly parties which they are conducting, and which the young people enjoyed. Last night by any criterion, it was a success. Although the floor space was taxed to its capacity, the many scores of young couples who glided over the waxed floor in every second of the dancing for Gray's orchestra was on the stage. The music with which the well known group of players regaled the young folks was selected with fine taste and rendered with exquisite rhythm. When the last note from the orchestra had died away and the last steps of the dancers had ceased, the members of the party returned to their homes with the feeling that they had passed the pleasantest evening for many and many a day.

Batiste Embroidery on Summer Dresses

White batiste embroidery will be greatly used for this season's summer gowns, made up with plain white batiste. For this purpose the embroidery comes in two distinct bandings of all widths and is made to suit the width of the dress, which is four and a half yards. In a five-inch width this costs about $1 a yard, though a ten or 12-inch width is more often chosen. It is very open in design, and the majority of patterns are conventional. It is charmingly feminine and soft and a great relief after the coarse, hard faces of last season, which were so often referred to as "cotton lace." Colored cotton embroidery patterns with apple blossom design embroidered in white are to be had for $5 each.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED

Woman Dying in Hospital Identified.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The mystery surrounding the young woman known as Grace McKnight, who is dying at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was partially cleared yesterday afternoon when it was learned that the young woman was taken to the hospital from the Charles street jail, where she had been serving a term for drunkenness.

In a semi-conscious state she is unable to give them the information they desire and as a last resort the hospital authorities have called on the police to aid them.

From the first all kinds of mystery surrounded the case. It was said that the young woman had lived in a lodging house at 31 Warrenton street.

Investigation showed that there is no

Dr. J. H. Schenck & Son, Philadelphia

31 Warrenton street.

Late yesterday afternoon it was discovered that the woman up to three weeks ago had resided in a lodging house on Warren avenue. At that time it is said she attempted to take her life by jumping from the window and was saved only by the arrival of one of the officers from Station 5. She was arrested and on Jan. 31 sentenced to one month at Charles street jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Under the advice of Dr. Cille, the jail physician, she was taken to the hospital.

When Mrs. McKnight was received at the jail her mind was not very clear as to her past life. She said that she was married and that her birthplace was Manchester, N. H.

She further stated that her father was a native of the same place and that her mother had been born in Portland, Me.

During the investigation yesterday in the South End it was discovered that a girl by the name of Whitney had married a man by the name of McKnight and that the couple separated some time ago. The husband, it is said, is at present in South America.

The hospital authorities have sent out telegrams to relatives they think might help in locating the relatives of the girl, but up to late last night no answers had been obtained.

Mrs. McKnight is about 35 years old and has worked at different times as a waitress in downtown restaurants. At one time she worked in a Boston laundry.

Chauffeurs Met

The Lowell Branch of the Chauffeurs Federation of America held its regular meeting last night with President Cote presiding and several important matters were discussed. Plans are completed for the smoke talk and open house to friends and brother chauffeurs and this event will be held on Feb. 27. Preparations are also in progress for the fourth annual ball which is to take place on April 17. Everything points to a big success this year.

A social hour and smoke talk closed the meeting last evening.

Notes From the Y. M. C. A.

The High School Bible class at the Y. M. C. A. will hold a supper and entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. hall tonight at 6 o'clock. Rev. A. C. Ferrin will be the speaker of the evening and a good time is expected by the boys.

Plans are under way at the gymnasium for a bowling league and pool tournament to be held in the near future. All members wishing to take part in either are requested to leave their names at the office.

It is expected that a good basketball game will be played at the gym tomorrow afternoon when the employed boys will play a team from the Lynn Y. M. C. A.

Grangers from Neighboring Towns Enjoy Fine Entertainment at Old Fellows Hall

By far, the grandest affair of the season by the Chelmsford Grange, was given last evening the Old Fellows hall in Central square before a large audience representing granges from all the surrounding towns. The entertainment which was open for the public was largely patronized. All were requested to come in costume, giving styles from the landing of the pilgrims to the present day. The program which was prepared by the worthy lecturer, Miss Eliza Spaulding, was as follows and was somewhat changed from the original:

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist. Buy Run, 6 ounces; Lavender Compound, 2 ounces; Marshmallow Root, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfected, add half to one teaspoonful of T-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS.

NO HEADACHE, BAD TASTE, SOUR STOMACH OR COATED TONGUE BY MORNING

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the savors and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset your feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Miss Ethel Wright: "Jerusalem, My Glorious Home," by the semi-chorus, which was led by Mr. William Ward and in charge of Mrs. John F. Parker, followed by a most interesting reading of a paper describing the pilgrims, Colonists and Puritans, their ways, modes, styles, and all concerning their life, by Mr. C. Lupien.

There was a mixed quartet consisting of Mrs. John F. Parker, Mrs. Isaac Knight, Mr. William Ward and Mr. James Byam, singing "Old Folks at Home." Violin duet, "Sweet Recollections," by Miss Blanche Spaulding and Mr. George Dumas. "Heaven and Rachel," by Mrs. John F. Parker and Mr. Frank Lupin, which was encored. Reading, "Lowell's Courtship," by Miss Susan S. McFarlin.

The "Cynical" came by the semi-chorus, followed by the encore "Potatoes." A paper was read by Mrs. Frank Cheney, describing the "Social Side of Colonial Life." Reading, "Aunt Tabitha," Miss Mabel Paterson, after which followed several dainty Colonial tableaux, "Puritan Maidens," represented by Misses Marion Downs and Esther Whitman.

"Courtship in Colonial Times," by Miss Rachel Marshall and Mr. Jesse Chapman. "Tricentennial and John Alden," by Miss Esther Whitman and E. Harris.

"Spirit of '76," Messrs. Frank Lupin, Lysses Lupin and E. Harris. All of these were in appropriate costumes and were made very artistic by the use of red flash lights. Previous to John Alden and Priscilla" Miss Esther Whitman recited a large portion of the part in "The Courtship of Miles Standish," and the handling of the mayflowers to Priscilla by John Alden, which was represented. Semi-chorus, "New Jerusalem," "Going to Washington" was represented by Miss Susan S. McFarlin and Mrs. Isaac Knight, and was much enjoyed, being encored twice.

Coffee, doughnuts and cheese were then served to each present.

At the business meeting a large number of names was presented to be voted on for the twice-a-year initiation of new members, which will be on March 6.

The party broke up after midnight with everybody happy.

Automobile Repairing A large number of Industrial school students from Chelmsford Centre attended the last lecture of the evening course in automobile repairing which was given by the instructor, Mr. Lassus at the Lowell Industrial school recently. The subject was "The Construction and Operation of the Electric Automobile." A final examination in this course was held afterwards.

A number of entertainments are being arranged by various parties who will present them after the Lenten season. St. John's Catholic society will give a drama entitled "The Lion and the Mouse" at the North Chelmsford town hall.

Several high schools in town are preparing for dances to be given. The Mothers' club will give a social at the Chelmsford Boy Scouts' headquarters.

Recently at Historical hall in the West village, the society which is becoming as prominent and advantageous in the public affairs and spirit, the West Chelmsford Debating society held another debate which was largely attended throughout the town. The subject for the discussion was: "Resolved, that the present parcel post system is unsatisfactory and of little advantage to the people of the United States." The affirmative speakers were Messrs. Ralph Bickford and Charles Logue. Those on the negative side were Messrs. Samuel Naylor and James Peck. As both sides were very well informed on the parcel post system, some very good arguments were put forth, giving many new ideas to the public. Following the debate an enjoyable entertainment was given. Miss Donnelly took part. The society is now rehearsing for a minstrel show to be given in the near future. Rehearsals are at the home of Mr. Ralph Bickford. Many people in town recently attended the lecture given under the auspices of the International Public Students' association in Grafton hall, Lowell.

Mr. Hildout of Concord Junction, the brother of the substitute in the ninth grade and high school, Miss Gertrude Hildout, was present yesterday afternoon.

that as this was not a public hearing, he would have to present his request for a hearing in regular form, when it would be without doubt, granted.

It was voted that Lowell day be observed in the schools on April 1.

Master John P. Conners, a pupil in the Edison school, was given permission, at the request of his father, to try to complete the work of the ninth grade, as he is in the eighth grade in order to enter the high school in September, 1913.

Supt. Molloy suggested that the sum of $75 be appropriated for the graduation exercises of the evening schools. He said that much would be necessary if the exercises were held in the high school hall and that more would be required if it were deemed advisable to engage a larger hall. Committee on Education said that the high school hall was too small and he thought the city might very well show its appreciation of the efforts of the evening school pupils by engaging a hall where there would be ample room for the friends of the pupils. He moved that the sum of $100 be appropriated and it was so voted.

Grammar Masters Assist

The superintendent reported that at a meeting of grammar masters, with the superintendent, the following committees were appointed to assist the superintendent in making certain recommendations to the school committee:

Examinations and course of study: Messrs. Noyes, Barry, Wood.

Text books: Messrs. Harris, Greene, Hagan.

Districts: Messrs. Bacheller, Reynolds, Mellen.

Recreation: Messrs. Callahan, Barr, Nixley and Miss Shearn.

The superintendent said that the committee would probably report progress not later than April 15.

On recommendation of the superintendent, it was voted to hold an examination for pupils of the elementary schools for admission to the evening high school, some time in March.

In response to a request from the elementary teachers, as to when the new salary schedule goes into effect, it was voted to have it take effect from Feb. 1, 1913.

The absence of Miss Mary F. Wign, of the Varnum school, was extended to the end of the term.

Resignation of Burns

The resignation of Mr. Burns, from the manual training department of the high school, and the announcement of the temporary appointment, by the superintendent, of Mr. John L. Dakin, brought out the inquiry, from Mr. Farrington, "Who is Mr. Dakin?" The superintendent said that he was for to years in charge of manual training work in the high school, a position that he left to engage in business. He had studied and worked at the Pratt Institute, and is a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic.

Mr. Farrington admitted a prejudice against Burns, outside of Lowell, for teachers. He thought there ought to be plenty of people competent to fill such positions in Lowell.

Mr. Thompson, who is chairman of the committee on high school, said that in conference with the master of the high school and the superintendent, and as careful a canvass of the Lowell field as possible under short notice, no one was found who was available. Mr. Farrington voted against the confirmation of the temporary appointment.

A letter from Miss Grace O. Delaney, chairman of the salaries committee of the Teachers' organization, expressing the thanks of the organization for raising the maximum salary of elementary teachers, was read.

RELIABLE MEDICINAL PREPARATIONS RIKER-JAYNES STORES

IT WOULD BE USELESS for us to endeavor, with any degree of success, to manufacture and place before the public a line of medicinal preparations without having their confidence in such articles, and the feeling that in purchasing them from us they were receiving the very best and purest obtainable.

The ever increasing demand for preparations bearing our label is in itself proof positive that our patrons do realize the integrity of the Riker-Jaynes stores and feel confidence in preparations bearing our name.

In the manufacture of the various preparations bearing our label, only the very choicest ingredients obtainable are used, bought direct from reliable manufacturers and tested for quality in our laboratory by critical analysis before being accepted. The formulas used are the result of the efficiency and creative results of prescriptions written by some of the world's most distinguished physicians, and are unquestionably the best of their kind. The compounding is supervised by Registered Druggists of high standing, everything being done under the most approved hygienic conditions. In fact, any such article bought at one of our stores can be relied upon as being the very best obtainable.

OUR GUARANTEE IS A VERY STRONG ONE

If a preparation does not accomplish everything we claim for it—if after a trial you are not entirely satisfied with the results, bring the empty package back to the store you purchased it from and your money will be instantly refunded.

This surely will satisfy you as to our faith in the quality and efficacy of the preparations we call attention to below.

Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil

Medical authorities all over the world agree that pure Cod Liver Oil is of the greatest value in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption and all wasting diseases. Its chief value lies in its great nutritive value and because it is so easily absorbed into the system. We guarantee the Cod Liver Oil we sell as the finest and purest possible to obtain. We import it direct from the fisheries in Aelsund, Norway. This oil has received many medals abroad, and is considered the best in the world. We bottle it in 3 sizes:

1-2 pint	1 pint	1 quart

Jaynes' Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil

Made Fresh Every Other Day

A most palatable preparation of pure cod liver oil, combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda. In this emulsion all the valuable properties are retained, and yet it is so pleasant in taste that invalids and children can take it in cases where it would be impossible to administer the clear oil. We recommend it highly for deep-seated coughs, lung troubles, for developing strength and adding flesh. Large bottle

Jaynes' Black Mixture

Sometimes Called Black Bottle

This preparation is made from the original formula of Dr. Hyndman, and has been prescribed by physicians for many years. The taste of the cod liver oil is disguised with licorice, which makes the preparation not only an extremely valuable one, but palatable as well. The cures of coughs and deep-seated lung and bronchial affections that have been effected by this old-line remedy seem almost miraculous, and we unhesitatingly recommend its trial by those who are thus affected. Put up in full 16-ounce bottle

Jaynes' Maltolium

A scientific combination of the curative properties of the best Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, together with pure Extract of Malt and the Hypophosphites of Lime, Soda, Potassium, Iron, Manganese, with a absolutely no taste of the oil it contains. It is particularly valuable in cases of Chronic Bronchitis, Stubborn Colds, Pulmonary Troubles and Debilitated Conditions. It improves the appetite and increases the flesh. Full pint bottle

Jaynes' Balsam of Tar

There has never been made a more effective or simpler remedy for the disagreeable tickling in the throat, or for coughs and colds and all lung affections, than Jaynes' Balsam of Tar. For 25 years we have been recommending it, and the ever-increasing demand has caused us to put great faith in it. If you have a cough, don't delay. Get a bottle today and cure that cough. We warrant it.

Per bottle 50c A triple size bottle 1.00

Riker's Expectorant

Has Stood the Test of 65 Years

Through four generations this sterling old remedy has held its place in many families as the one reliable, never-failing relief from coughs, colds and lung affections. No matter what kind the cough is—the hoarse, racking sort, or the tight, hard cough—or the alarming croupy cough of a child—Riker's Expectorant will relieve them one and all. It soothes the irritated membranes. It relieves congestion and hoarseness. Where there are children it is a household necessity.

Per bottle 25c Family size 60c

Jaynes' Euclol Spray

Euclol spray consists of a very fine oil, which is inhaled with pleasant antiseptic and other ingredients possessing healing properties. This oil is sprayed up into the nostrils by the aid of an atomizer, which is supplied with the treatment. We recommend it for Catarrh of the Nose and Throat, Head Colds, Inflamed Nostrils and Irritated Throat. A sufficient quantity of Euclol Spray for one month's treatment, complete with atomizer.

Jaynes' Catarrhal Cream

Cures Nasal Catarrh and Cold in the Head

Jaynes' Catarrhal Cream is particularly useful from the fact that the relief is instantaneous. The odor is pleasant and penetrating, while the effect of the Cream on the air passages is soothing and curative. Our improved package is made with special nasal tip, which makes application cleaner and easier. Convenient to carry in pocket or traveling bag. Per tube,

Jaynes' Cold and Grippe Pills

Often times the early symptoms of colds and grippe are so trivial and are very apt to be neglected, in many instances leading to serious complications of the throat and lungs. Jaynes' cold and grippe pills, if taken in time and in accordance with directions, will always give relief. 50 pills in a bottle

Jaynes' Children's Cough and Croup Syrup

Especially prepared for children under five years of age who suffer with coughs and colds and who are afflicted with croup. Useful in lessening and relieving severe choking spells caused by whooping cough. Contains an opium or narcotic of any kind and is absolutely safe. A necessity that should be always kept in every home where there are young children.

Jaynes' Asthma Remedy

A quick and sure relief for that distressing ailment known as Asthma. Also relieves and cures Phthisis, Bronchitis, Asthma, Difficult Breathing or any Stuffed-up Conditions of the Throat and Bronchial tubes. ## CUT PRICES ON STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES

We were the first in New England to inaugurate cut prices on Patent Medicines; although we today have a few imitators, the fact remains that had we not done so, you might still have to pay the old-fashioned one hundred per cent. drug store prices that were in vogue before we inaugurated cut prices.

Then, again, in purchasing these goods from us you are sure of getting them in the best possible condition. Our immense output is in itself a sufficient guarantee against any old accumulations. A glance below will show the savings that can be made by purchasing these preparations from us:

MY FOURTH ANNIVERSARY

$5.00 TROUSERS FREE

When I opened my Lowell store on the 13th day of February, 1909, I made the people certain promises. As my anniversary rolls around each year, I like to recall those promises publicly so that you may judge as to whether or not I have departed from them during the past year. I look upon my anniversary also as a good occasion upon which to renew those promises for the year to come, so that old customers have always the positive assurance of getting at least as good service as that which pleased them so much in the past. To old and new customers alike, there is always the implied promise of the additional improved service that time must bring to every progressive business.

AS I START MY FIFTH YEAR in the city of Lowell, it is gratifying to me to know—

That I have stayed in Lowell four years at least, with further indefinite stay guaranteed, as I promised.

That I did not fizzle out in three months, six months or a year, as my competitors predicted from time to time, as I outlived their first and shorter guesses.

That I am still a live advertiser, able to use and able to pay for the same generous space I used when I opened in Lowell.

That the time did not come when the people would be so painfully aware of the impossibility of my promises, as predicted by competitors, that I could not get enough responses to pay for the ink the publishers used in those advertisements. I believe every merchant should be a newspaper advertiser. The bigger newspaper I help to make, the bigger city I help to make Lowell. I shall continue to do my share in making bigger newspapers.

That I am still giving the same beautiful worsteds, style and quality, that competitors said four years ago I would give only a short time, to get the people coming to me.

That I still have such confidence in my ability to fit you that I still can afford to make you a new suit every time my help make a mistake on anything you buy in my store.

AS A TOKEN OF MY REGARD—AS A MEMENTO OF THE HAPPY OCCASION OF MY ANNIVERSARY—AS AN INDUCEMENT TO THE OLD CUSTOMER TO FORCE HIS ORDER EARLIER, AND TO THE NEW CUSTOMER TO GIVE ME A TRIAL, I WILL GIVE EACH CUSTOMER ORDERING A SUIT THIS WEEK

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

mentary teachers $100, was read by the superintendent.

The applications of Katherine C. Early and Mary C. Flemings, to be placed on the list of teachers for Lowell, were referred to the committee on teachers. They passed the examination in a previous year, and have since had experience in teaching elsewhere.

Her Work Finished

Mr. Molloy read a letter from Principal Irish of the high school, notifying him that the teaching of delinquents, for which Miss Quirbach was appointed, is finished.

Mr. Thompson thought that the matter needed no action. Her work having been completed, it was the duty of the superintendent to drop the teacher from the list.

Mr. Farrington protested, and called for the reading of the records of the October meeting.

It was shown by the records, that Miss Quirbach was appointed by Dr.

O'Connor, then chairman of the high school committee, a temporary teacher in the high school.

Mr. Thompson moved, and Mr. Campbell seconded, that the superintendent be instructed to drop the teacher in question, inasmuch as the work for which she was appointed has ceased.

Mr. Farrington objected. He said he thought Miss Quirbach was appointed to take care of delinquents, and also to teach backward pupils. If, out of 1300 pupils, there were no backward ones, he thought our high school an exceptional one.

Mr. Thompson said that there are backward pupils, and neither the master of the high school nor the superintendent had said there were not. But Miss Severance, an elected teacher, is taking care of the backward pupils.

Mr. Farrington maintained that Miss Severance was not elected for that purpose, and that up to a week or two ago she has not done that work.

Mr. Molloy, being called upon, explained the schedule of work so far as he was able, and on the motion before him, it was voted to instruct the superintendent to drop the teacher, Mr. Farrington alone voting no.

Some New Suggestions

The superintendent put before the committee some of the matters which the committee of grammar masters will consider. They include a definite plan for the housing of school children for several years to come; a system of penmanship in the schools; and the teaching of cooking, and girls' hand-work.

Mr. Molloy recommended a corps of elementary grade teachers to be gotten together, who may be regarded as experts along the line of teaching writing. A special instructor in writing, he said, is not a necessary part of the plan, as the work will be done by the regular teachers. He also recommended a similar plan in the system of teaching sewing or other hand-work to girls. He thought, too, that a beginning might be made in cooking, and in some kind of hand-work for boys. In the cooking department, the plant at the industrial school could be used for the instruction of a corps of grade teachers. He hoped that the committee would be able to take up the matter of penmanship, especially so that the system could be organized and go into general operation in September.

Elections Unanimous

Under new business the committee then proceeded to elect a successor to William H. Doolley of the industrial school, and to advance Mr. Seede to Mr. Fisher's position in the High school, as principal of the manual training department. The vote on these matters was unanimous, without discussion.

The proposition, made by Mr. Thompson, for putting the old typewriters in the High school in use in grammar schools, was referred to the committee on supplies.

Mr. Farrington raised the question of the possession of a certificate by Mr. Dakin, appointed temporarily to the advancement of Mr. Seede and it was voted to issue to Mr. Dakin the necessary certificate.

FIVE ALARMS FOR BOSTON FIRE

40 Streams Played on Burning Building—Elevated Tied Up for 3 Hours

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Boston's fire department had its hardest fight in months last night in the fire that gutted the big warehouse of Brannan, Dow & Co. at the corner of Causeway and Medford streets in the lower part of the city.

The damage will probably not exceed $50,000, being confined to the one building, but to limit it to that required five alarms, bringing no less than 19 engines and three fireboats, and the flooding of the building for more than three hours with great quantities of water.

This made the fire the biggest in point of apparatus, if not the hardest, since the Albany street fire of nearly three years ago.

No serious injuries resulted to the firemen, though one ladderman sprained his ankle in a fall, and Lieut. Thomas H. Hines of Engine 2 and three men were overcome by smoke. All five were taken to the Relief station.

Forty Streams Required

More than an hour and a quarter after the first alarm was sounded the flames, bursting through the roof, so seriously threatened the buildings across Medford street that the fifth alarm was ordered by Chief Mullen, and for a time the firemen were obliged to turn a large part of their efforts to shielding those other buildings with a curtain of water.

It was not until nearly 10 o'clock, when the fire had been raging for three hours, that it was really got under control. Though water was poured into the building from all sides by fully 40 lines, time and again the flames would break out on every floor from top to bottom.

Opposite the Causeway street side of the building is the elevated structure, and from 7:15 to 10:15 no trains were run past it, thus causing the suspension of service in the Washington street tunnel for the longest time in its history.

Oil and Oakum Feed Flames

The building is a five-story brick structure, about 150 feet long and 85 feet deep, covering 13,250 square feet. It is owned by the James P. Thorndike estate, C. B. Wheelock and other trustees, and its assessed valuation was $54,000.

The Brannan, Dow company, otherwise called the Boston Steam & Gas

Pipe Works, is composed of Henry A. Barrett, Harry W. Barrett and Frank M. Sheldon, who is general manager. They would not estimate the value of their stock on hand, but they carried insurance of $300,000.

The stock consisted largely of iron, steam and gas pipe, plumbing supplies and the like. There was a good deal of oakum and white lead in the building, and the woodwork was generally saturated with the oil used in connection with the machine work. To this is attributed the rapid spread of the fire and the great difficulty which the firemen had in meeting it.

The fire apparently started in the cutting room on the first floor. About 6 o'clock the last of the employees, who number some 70 in all, had left the building. At 6:50 Harold J. Lefko, son of the proprietor of a little tobacco store at 23 Causeway street, in the shadow of the big warehouse building, saw flames on the first and second floors.

Elevated Train in Danger

He ran to the fire alarm box at the corner of Causeway and Holyoke streets and met Joseph A. Verkamper, who sounded the alarm.

That was at 6:52. Five minutes later, Chief Tabor, who with Chief Mullen, Chief Fox had responded to the first alarm, sounded the second, and in another minute came the third. Chief Tabor also called up the Boston Elevated and notified them to cut out the service on the elevated structure on Causeway street.

At that time the fire had mounted high up through the building, and great sheets of flame were belching out in Causeway street. There an elevated train was standing, waiting for the signal to take the switch to the track to Charlestown, and the flames, coming so near an almost to scorch the paint, terrified the passengers and rendered some of the women almost hysterical.

Not until 7:30 was the fourth alarm given. In the meantime the firemen had been pouring water in from lines of hose on Causeway and Medford streets and from two water towers on the latter street. They had also taken hose up to the elevated structure and by long ropes had raised lines of hose to the roof of the tall Kearney Square building across Medford street.

Flame Nearly Crosses Street

From Beverly street roofs, from the building at 20 and 22 Medford street and from the roofs of the tall factory buildings across Causeway street they poured water on the flames.

Needed reinforcements came with the arrival of the fireboats—Engine 44 first and then 47 and 31, which tied up near the Warren bridge, and from which big lines of hose were carried to the fire.

The back of the building and the end on Medford street were protected with 24-inch high fire walls, and through these there was no danger of their spreading.

The firemen were able to drive the flames back from the windows on Causeway and Medford streets, so that there was at first little fear of spreading on those sides either, but the interior of the building was all flame, so that the firemen dared not faint it on the inside but had to be content with holding it from without.

The greatest danger came when at 8:15 the flames burst through the roof. Until then, though the streets were thick with smoke, there was little flame to be seen, and it appeared almost as if the fire were under control. Then it blazed high. The wind drove the flames half way across narrow Medford street and sparks rained down on the buildings opposite.

Many Buildings Wet Down

On the other side of the street was the nine-story Kearney's building, and next to it the lower building occupied by Thomas Ward, dealer in paper stock. Although both of these buildings are of brick, the Kearney's building also having a tar and gravel roof, the firemen covered the fronts of both with water, and only some of the corners were burned. A large ladder truck and some other apparatus was forced out of Medford street by the outburst of flames.

On the other side of the buildings, however, on Beverly street, the buildings were of no such durable construction. Next on Causeway street came a wooden one-story structure, occupied as a tobacco store, and on the corner of Beverly street was another wooden building, also used as a tobacco store.

On Beverly street is the wooden stable of Joseph Myers, and next to the wooden hay and grain store of the Willey Gibson Company. Next to that come two brick loft buildings, the first occupied by the Triumph Cough Syrup Co. and other concerns, and the second by A. E. Kenney & Co., and other firms.

Although the wind was happily blowing the other way, the firemen kept the roofs of all these buildings, and especially of the wooden buildings, well soaked with water.

Next to the burning building on Medford street is a brick building occupied by G. W. Buckland, the Kensington Engineering Company, the Paris Paper Box Company and the J. G. Chase Confectionery Company. The roof of this was also well wet down, but there was comparatively little danger.

Sparks Fire Roof of Gasometer

The only fire caused by the sparks was on the roof of the old gasometer on Causeway street, at the foot of Hull street. This was sighted by the commander of the U. S. S. Chicago, and he sent his orderly with the information to Chief Mullen. A chemical engine was dispatched to the gasometer and the fire quickly disposed of.

The occupants of the Kearney square building, though for a time in great danger, suffered no fire loss, but did suffer heavily with water. The engine room in the basement, as well as the rooms of the state forester, of H. B. Smith, dealers in radiators, and of Sullivan & Daley, plumbers' supplies, were filled several feet deep with water.

Other concerns on the Medford street side of that building, which lost more or less from smoke damage, were the King-Petres Company, electrotypers, in the top floor; the Touraine Confectionery Company on the eighth; Tichnor Bros. on the seventh, the municipal printing plant on the sixth, the New England Raincoat Company—one of the firms of which the employees are now on strike on the fifth; the Emerson Apparatus Company and other firms on the fourth; the American Water Supply Company on the third and second, and Sullivan & Daley on the first.

Water damage, however, was widespread, for the flood of water poured into the building came out into the street in such quantities that the sewers could not take it away and filled Causeway street above its sidewalks for a block, besides flooding adjacent cellars on Medford and Beverly streets.

Roofs and Floors Crash Down

At 8:45 the roof of the building fell in and from that time on the fire was largely under control, though still so dangerous as to keep all the apparatus occupied. During the next hour one floor fell after another, crashing down heavily with its great weight of iron and brass fixtures.

The press of engines, the dense smoke, the falling glass and the greater danger of falling walls made it necessary to hold the crowds back, and Causeway street was roped across from the sides of Beverly street and Washington street north farthest from the fire. Medford street, Beverly street and Washington street north were closed between Causeway and Traverse streets, and the operation of the surface cars as well as that of the elevated was thus impeded.

Fully 100 police officers were employed guarding the fire under command of Sergeant Donagan and McTiernan of the Hanover street station. From that station every man available was summoned, and there were details also from stations 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 13 and 16.

MAN PERISHED IN FIRE GIFTS TO TAFT AND WIFE

James Long Was Burned to Death

One Man With Suffragists
CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Only one man aside from the train crew will ride on the special which will carry the Illinois suffragists to the March parade in Washington. The women hesitated for some time before making this concession but finally were convinced that there would be some duties to perform which would require the services of a man. The man will be utilized to shine shoes and perform all the menial tasks necessary. Girls will take the place of porters on the sleepers and in the dining car.

Reception at the White House Tonight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A magnificent set of pearl buttons for President Taft and a diamond necklace of pure white stones for Mrs. Taft will be presented to them at the White House tonight as guests of the White House entertainers at the White House, a dinner, to be followed by a musical and the presentation will be made then.

Thomas to Meet Sullivan
Joe Thomas, of this city, has been matched to meet Tommy Sullivan of Lawrence in the main bout at next Thursday night's meeting of the United States Athletic Club in the city club in Lawrence. The bout is scheduled to go 12 rounds. Thomas is in great condition and feels confident that he will stop the Lawrence boy before the limit is reached.

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVANCE

Continued

The said law talks might remain open without requiring their employees to work, but some of the mill men are of the opinion that the fact that mills are open is evidence that employees are required to work, and in order to avoid all possible conflict with the law it was deemed advisable to shut down.

The law affecting mills and factories is Chapter 151, acts of 1911, which reads as follows:
Section 1.—No employee shall be required to work in any mill or factory on any legal holiday, except to perform such work as is both absolutely necessary and can lawfully be performed on the legal day.

Section 2.—Whoever violates the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Postoffice
The clerks and carriers at the local postoffice will be given a half holiday tomorrow. The office will be open from 8 to 4 p. m. while the carriers will make one delivery in the forenoon.

School Programs
In order to impress upon the minds of the school children the qualities of George Washington as a statesman and a warrior, exercises were held in all the local schools today.

Some of the programs were quite elaborate.
At the Green school exercises were carried out in each room, as the hall is divided into two class rooms; like-wise the Greenwald, Bartlett and other schools. Fine programs were carried out and enjoyed at the Washington and Varnum schools. The programs:

Tolman School
The exercises for Washington's birthday were held in the class rooms, each teacher having prepared an interesting and instructive program of patriotic songs, recitation and stories of Washington.

Washington School
The following program was carried out at the Washington school at 2:15 this afternoon:
Song, "Star Spangled Banner," Recitation, "Washington's Birthday," Harold Gordon
Song, "We Are Little Soldier Men,"
William Merriam, G. Coelane, Clifford Anderson and Antonio Silva

Song, Howard Gable, Edith Vincent, Oscar Culver, Marion Condon and Benjamin Harrison Singing (a) "Nancy Lee," (b) "The Rose of Alameda," Grade VIII and IX.
Declaration, "Our Flag," Charles Brown
Singing, "America," Entire School and Audience.

The chorus was under the direction of Miss Esther Greene and Miss Laura Greene was the accompanist for the exercises.
At the close of the exercises the pupils of the ninth grade held a very successful food sale, the money to be used in the purchase of the class gift to the school.

Varnum School

SEVERAL HEARINGS HELD

Before the Legislature This Morning

There were several important hearings before the legislature in Boston this morning. Bill number 1157, relative to dental work in schools, on which unfavorable report was returned last week, was up for rebuttal today. Many speakers were heard in opposition to the passage of the bill. It was brought out that in many instances unlicensed dentists were engaged to do the work and the speakers urged that a bill be passed making this a misdemeanor.

A hearing on a bill relative to old age pensions was given. A committee appointed by Gov. Foss made an interesting report. Many speakers were heard and at the conclusion it was the opinion that favorable action was very doubtful. Several Lowell men were present.

OLD TIME ACTORS DEAD

Irving and Dickerson Asphyxiated

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Old Bob Irving and Charles Dickerson, old time actors and each one the other's only friend in Chicago, were found dead together in a North Side lodging house last night. The room was filled with gas.

Irving, years ago was considered a clever character impersonator. He started in New York and had played with Sidney Drew, Harry Carey, Joseph Holt and more recently with Lincoln J. Carter. Later he lost his power to amuse an audience until finally he was obliged to take to the nickel shows. He was playing in one of the latter up to the time of his death. Dickerson left the stage years ago and recently had earned a precarious living at paper hanging.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION

Eighty Cities and Towns Represented

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Several hundred boys representing eighty cities and towns in Massachusetts and Rhode Island attended the 23rd annual meeting of the state boys' conference which opened today and concludes next Monday.

"Doing worth while deeds" was the general subject discussed at the conference arranged by the Young Men's Christian Association. Among the prominent speakers were Dr. Charles R. Brown, dean of the Yale divinity school; Lemuel H. Murfin, formerly of Baker university, Kan.; Col. Hallock U. S. A. (retired); and Rev. James Frances of Boston.

25 INDIANS ARE INVITED

To Attend Inauguration of Wilson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A special invitation to attend the inauguration ceremonies March 4 was sent today by the inauguration committee to the 25 Indians now in New York attending the laying of a corner stone of an Indian monument in New York harbor. If the red men accept they will be provided with mounts and given a special place in the procession. They include representatives of Sioux, Crow, Chippewa, Cheyenne, Flatheads, Gros Ventres and Mandans.

Plans for the civic section of the procession were formally approved at a meeting last night and the order in which the civic organizations will march was drawn up and forwarded today to Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., as grand marshal of the parade. General Wood declined to make public the program until he would consult with his aide, General James Stewart of Chicago, who will be the marshal of that division.

Formal announcement also was made that the marine corps would not be represented in the line because of the sudden summons for possible duty in the Mexican troubles. It had been intended to have 1000 of the sea soldiers in the procession.

Suffragettes Continue On ELKTON, Ind., Feb. 21.—Refreshed by its night's rest here, General Rosalie Jones' army of the Hudson left at midnight this morning on the march to Washington. A stop for luncheon will be made at Northwest, Md. The hike is expected to reach Havre De Grace about six o'clock this evening but their way lies over 15 miles of the worst road between New York and Washington.

Tomorrow Enjoy Freedom from RHEUMATISM Sciatica and Neuritis

The grinding pains of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis cannot long stand before the proof we furnish of the work being done through the country by "Nurto," the prescription in powder form which is a positive antidote for uric acid poison.

It is a physician's prescription, pharmacologically compounded, without a trace of opiate, narcotic or any harmful drug. Reputable physicians all over the country are prescribing it as a long needed remedy and the news of their success is traveling. It was this news of the universal success of "Nurto" which lured us first to bring it to this city.

At last here is a prescription—not a patent medicine—which will positively and under a sufficient guarantee, permanently and quickly relieve every case of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis. It is pure negligence, entailing a continuance of your suffering and the news of their success is traveling. It was this news of the universal success of "Nurto" which lured us first to bring it to this city.

MAGNATE HAS WIFE IN NEW YORK

Manicure Girl Interrupted in Wedding Plans by Hall's Wired Confession

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 21.—Miss Sallie Louise Smith, the blonde manicurist of the Hotel Taft, is searching New York city for Frank E. Hall, the retired business man, who promised to marry her next week and take her to his orange farm in southern California for their honeymoon.

She received the following telegram yesterday noon:

"New York, Feb. 20.
"Am just leaving for Chicago with my wife. Am heartbroken. Can you forgive me?"

Selected Wedding Gown
Miss Smith had spent the morning picking out the material for her wedding gown and in doing so she was interrupted by the arrival of the telegram.

Her frame of mind was disturbed and her meeting with the relatives of Hall promised anything but harmonious dialogue and action. Till she received the telegram she had no reason to doubt the sincerity of Hall in offering her his hand.

Her mother, Mrs. Henry Smith of Whately avenue, and her brother, Milton Smith, said last night that Hall visited her home with her and last week announced his engagement to her. He gave a formal banquet Monday evening at which all of her family and several of his friends were present.

New Haven business men were present. On this occasion the engagement was formally announced and Hall received the congratulations of the guests.

Hall remained here till Wednesday morning. He spent Tuesday buying necessities for the approaching wedding and arrangements had been partially made for the ceremony to be performed at the home of the Rev. Frederick Saxton, rector of the Episcopal church in Westville. Mr. Hall begged the need of going to New York city to settle his business affairs and arrange for the proposed honeymoon trip to his southern California orange farm.

While Miss Smith was shopping yesterday morning her brother Milton says that he called up Hall at the Elks' club of New York city. Smith says of this interview:

"Hall had called up from the Elks' club before I knew that he made his New York headquarters there. I asked him about the wedding plans, and he said that he was busy settling details, but the ceremony might be deferred several days because of the fact that he was making elaborate preparations for the trip west. He said he would know more definitely tomorrow."

Miss Smith received his telegram an hour later.

Heard of Wife
Hall has become well acquainted with prominent members of the Elks' club here during his recent visits. An official of the club said last night:

"I have known Hall but a year. He was a member of the New York club and called frequently at the local club. He was a companionable fellow, a liberal entertainer and was often at our club. He always met his financial obligations and was a generous companion. When I heard on Monday that he was engaged to Miss Smith it occurred to me that I had heard Hall speak of having a wife. I met him on Tuesday and refreshed his mind in this matter. He replied that he had had a wife, but had been divorced for several years. I apologized for having misunderstood him, as I thought. Last evening, however, after the announcement of the engagement had been made in the evening newspapers and after he had given his engagement banquet, two or three of us members of the club compared notes and we all recollected that he had definitely heard Hall speak of his wife in New York city."

Phoned to Club
"We called up Secretary Carroll of the New York Elks' club and asked him about the matter. He stated that we were right and that Hall had a wife living. We started to notify Miss Smith today and learned that she had started for New York city with blood in her eye. At the Elks' club we always called Hall the man of mystery."

"I cannot understand him, but he had many admirable traits. I think, however, that it is a case for the alienists to investigate. I firmly believe that Hall, in his peculiar mental state of the past few weeks, believed himself single and became engaged to Miss Smith in good faith. I imagine he had a rude awakening when he reached his home in New York city and that he will wind up in a sanitarium."

Renominated for Third Term
BATH, Me., Feb. 21.—Frank A. Small was renominated unanimously for a third term as mayor of the democratic caucus last night.

WILD CARS WERE STOPPED

Brakeman Averts Wreck of Express

FRANKLIN, N. H., Feb. 21.—Six runaway freight cars, speeding down a half-mile incline toward an approaching express train threatened scores of lives yesterday, and but for the quick action of Station Agent L. J. Sellers of Mills, who telegraphed to sidetrack the express at Gerrish, a serious collision would probably have resulted.

Brakeman William G. Vallia, who boarded the runaway cars when they broke loose from a siding at Franklin, brought them to a stop at the foot of the incline, just before they reached the station, by applying the brakes.

Brakes Frozen
The brakes had been frozen and refused to work when Vallia first boarded the cars, but knowing the danger ahead he kept tugging with all his strength. Almost frantic when he heard the whistle of the express, he hurled himself upon the brakes and succeeded at last in getting them to work.

The passengers on the express were kept unaware of the incident, and not until an extra engine was procured to shove the cars on a siding did they know of the narrowness of their escape. The cars, heavily loaded with pulp, had been backed on a siding at Franklin on the Franklin & Tilton branch of the Boston & Maine railroad and hardly had the engine been detached before they started down the incline.

Vallia quickly jumped on the rear end of the cars and when the runaway section passed the station at Mills, Agent Sellers saw that Vallia was unable to stop the rushing cars. He hurriedly sent the message to Gerrish, which reached the station shortly before the express arrived there.

VENETIAN BLIND CORDS

Suggestions on How to Mend Them

The cord of the venetian blind is mighty apt to break at a crucial moment when one wants the room in which it is placed to look particularly well. A woman in whose house an accident of this kind happened, realizing that there was no time in which to send for a workman to mend the blind, seized a pair of steps and went up to discover for herself what was wrong. To her joy she found the business of mending a simple matter.

Venetian blinds are only screwed to the top of the window sash and are easily undone with a screwdriver. The screws which hold the hand cord to the window must be unscrewed. The blind can then be laid gently on the floor. To take the old cord out undo the two pieces of broad tape which are nailed across underneath the bottom lath and you will find a knot under each. Cut off these knots and draw out the old cord. You can then measure how long the new cord should be, allowing three inches for the knots. In withdrawing the cord you will have seen in the top plank four little pulleys. Take the two ends of your new cord and thread them up through the holes containing wheels 1 and 2. Then take the first cord over wheel 1 and along to wheel 3 and down through the laths, making a knot at the bottom of the blind.

Take the second cord over wheel 2 along to wheel 4, over it and down through the laths, knotting it as you did the other one. Repeat the piece of tape over the knots and the blind is ready to go up again.

When it is in place pull both cords as tightly as possible so that the blind goes up straight; then if you like, knot the cord so as to make it easily and evenly lowered.

The laths are held in place by being laid on little strips of tape and laid across from the two main pieces that run up the front and back. If any laths have fallen out of place you can easily readjust them.

While the cord is out of the blind it is the earliest possible thing to remove the laths, wash them and lay them back on the tapes again, ready for re-threading.

THE SAGO-LOWELL SHOPS

Banking House's Inquiry Answered

The following from the American Wool and Cotton Reporter is of local interest:

A well-known banking house has recently asked us for information concerning the Textile Securities company. It will be remembered that about four months ago, the Lowell Machine Shop, of Lowell, Mass., and the Saco-Pette company formed a combination and incorporated under the name of Saco-Loewell Shops. Before this reorganization the Lowell Machine Shop had $1,250,000 in par value of stock, and the Saco-Pette company had $1,000,000 in par value of stock. The stockholders in the Saco-Pette company received one share of Saco-Loewell stock for every share of Saco-Pette stock, and in addition, retained their Saco-Pette stock, the capitalization of which was reduced from $1,500,000 to $800,000, divided into 16,000 shares of a par value of $50.

Retained Certain Assets

The name Lowell Machine Shop was changed to Saco-Loewell Shops, and this new company took over all of the assets of the Lowell Machine Shop. The new company also included the plants of the Saco-Pette company. Both these located in Maine and those of Lowell, Mass. The Lowell Machine Shop, which consisted principally of mill shares owned by the Saco-Pette company, were not given over to the Saco-Loewell Shops, but were retained by the old Saco-Pette company. In order to avoid confusion, which would have undoubtedly arisen had the name of Saco-Pette been retained, this company's name was changed to the Textile Securities company, and as already noted above, the capital stock, without par value, of $50, of the Textile Securities company is the same as for the Saco-Loewell Shops. Henry S. Shaw is president and treasurer of the new company.

We give below the approximate statement of the Saco-Loewell Shops, including the plants of the Saco-Pette company. The financial statement of the Saco-Pette company, as of February, 1912, shown the assets and liabilities in process valued at $244,211; cash and debt receivable of $1,510,000; and securities of other corporations amounting to $52,000. This is a total of $1,806,211 for gross net assets. The same report shows a floating indebtedness of $225,000, leaving a net quick assets, as of February, 1912, of $1,581,211. Referring to the above approximate balance sheet, it will be seen that the quick assets acquired from the Saco-Pette company are placed at $1,581,211.

Approximate balance sheet of Saco-Loewell Shops at date of organization:

ASSETS
Plants (including Lowell and Saco-Pette plants of Lowell and Saco-Pette)	$2,500,000
Net quick assets (Lowell Machine Shop approximately $1,581,211, and acquired from Saco-Pette approximately $1,581,211, all assets of Saco-Pette and current indebtedness of both companies having been deducted)	2,130,000
Total	$4,630,000
LIABILITIES
Capital stock
Preferred (outstanding preferred of Lowell Machine Shop)	$1,250,000
Surplus (over and above indebtedness)	1,330,000

Business of Lowell Shop

If you want to get on well with people do not devote into a "person with a grievance." Your friends naturally cannot take quite so much interest in your wrongs as you do yourself, and you must not expect too much sympathy, especially if your "little tragedies" are numerous.

Make a point of always being as amiable as possible. The French have a true saying, "One extends more with honey than with vinegar." Train yourself to look on the bright side of everything and everybody and you will find that you will be the gainers a thousandfold.

Make a point of always carrying out anything you promise to do. If you do not perform what you have undertaken your friends will be disappointed in you and will no doubt resent your neglect. It is far better not to promise if there is any danger of your not being able to perform.

If Mothers Only Knew!

By Dr. Free

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms!

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomach and pin worms. Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets, nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pale skin and irregular body may be hot and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. Free's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. Free's Kidney, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worm life, expels worms from the body and makes the child healthy again. All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

Chiffon Veil in Square Mesh

A new kind of chiffon veil has a square of shadow lace veiling placed so that it just covers the face, the chiffon quite surrounding it. This allows the wearer more air and easier vision. The veil measures one and three-fourths yards in length and may be made in pale blue chiffon with white shadow insertion, or in taupe with white, or in all white shadow insertion. These cost $1.75 each, but the chiffon is of a poor quality, and the veil, though it may be useful, cannot be said to be truly artistic.

Washing Bedspreads

Before washing a white bedspread or blanket remember to mark all spots that need extra rubbing with a stitch or two of colored silk. It is often hard to find the spots after the article is wet, but the silk is easily discovered.

CAPTIVATING FIGURE IS NOW POSSIBLE FOR EVERY WOMAN

Tells How to Give Nature Proper Help So Form Will Quickly Develop

"An unattractive figure," writes Madame More in Fashion Quarterly, "is due to underlying tissues not receiving proper nourishment. When these are aroused they quickly expand and suppleness and angular lines vanish, hollows round out and the form assumes the plumpness and symmetry which Nature intended it to have."

A method of treatment that seldom fails, can be prepared in the privacy of the home by making a syrup with one and one-half cups of sugar and a pint of water, to which is added one ounce gallol. The dose is two teaspoons before meals.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES

Held in Dracut Grange Hall Last Night

The republicans of Dracut held their caucus last night in Grange hall, Dracut Centre. There were four candidates for selectmen, with a choice of three to be made, and the result was as follows: Walter F. Corbitt, 149; Fred E. Pollard, 127; Percy Smith, 124, and Victor Clark, 72.

Enoch Mills, who was seeking a re-nomination for road commissioner, was again chosen against Charles Fox. The two men receiving 58 and 79 votes respectively. The remainder of the ticket is as follows: Town clerk, Paul A. Stevens; assessor, George E. Pollard; constable and tax collector, Arthur W. Colburn; school committee, Arthur Haywood, Hiram E. Lincolnton, Paul Scott; trustees of the public library, Harry Moxley, Thomas Varian; town warden, William S. Plinacum; cemetery commissioner, John W. Peabody.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular business session of Elgin lodge, N. E. O. P., was held last night in Veritas hall and a large number of members were present. There was considerable routine business transacted and afterwards a social hour was enjoyed.

Lowell Court, M. C. O. P.

Lowell court, No. 125, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, met in regular session in Knights of Equity hall last evening and transacted important routine business. Several candidates were initiated and numerous applications were received. It was decided to organize a degree staff and a committee was appointed for this purpose. Worthy Chaplain Denis F. Murphy gave an interesting talk on "Modernism as Viewed by Pius X." He was given a rising vote of thanks.

Butler Women's Relief Corps

The regular meeting of the B. F. Butler Women's Relief Corps took place last evening in the hall of the B. F. Butler. The address was very interesting and highly enjoyed by the members. A whist party will be held at 12 Midland street on Saturday night.

Post 185, G. A. R.

At the regular meeting of Post 185, G. A. R., held Wednesday evening last, the members of the Post of Concord, N. H., and the members of the Post of Lowell, Mass., were present and addressed the gathering.

Loyal Excelsior Lodge

Loyal Excelsior lodge, M. U., held its regular meeting last night in G. A. R. hall recently. Two candidates were initiated and one proposition was rejected. The evening was spent in social enjoyment and entertainment to be held at the lodge room in March.

James A. Garfield Relief Corps

James A. Garfield Relief Corps, No. 33, held its regular meeting last night in Post 125 hall, Mrs. Lucia E. Parker, residing at 125 Central street, was held in afternoon. Mrs. Fife, matron and Mrs. Cheney and Mrs. Killpatrick, assistants, reported on the Eastern sale. Services will be held at the next meeting for the deceased members.

Lowell Lodge, K. of P.

Lowell lodge, No. 21, Knights of Pythias, held a well attended meeting last night and transacted quite a large amount of business. The members were invited to attend a rally meeting of S. H. Hines lodge on Tuesday evening, Feb. 25. The evening after the meeting will be spent in games and a general good time. The members are cordially invited to attend.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Opera House

American plays have grown so lustily during the past few years that each one seems stronger, braver, wittier and more authoritative than the last, yet the general consensus of opinion is that the Washington-Wilson play, "The Man From Home," which the Lowell Players are presenting at the Opera House every afternoon and evening this week, far and away beyond all of the splendid efforts of the American dramatists who have successfully provided outbursts of Americanism for the stage. It is American to the core. With a literary force and a vitality in expression, a splendid moral courageously pointed and a story rich in humor, delightful in romance and satire. The Man From Home has an intense appeal for every sort of amusement seeker from the frivolous to the thinker, from the scoffer to the patriot.

Next week this company will be seen in "The Virginian," a play made famous by Dustin Farnum and which will be given its first local presentation next Monday night. Seats for all performances are now on sale.

"Milestones"

The purpose of "Milestones," which Klav & Erlanger will present at the Opera House on Feb. 27 with a company of distinguished English actors, is to show the tendency of the new generation to revolt when it reaches the marrying age. It shows how elderly persons might forget that they themselves once were young and, perhaps, headstrong and grow reproachful when they see themselves over again in their own children. The scene is London and from first to last in one room. The first act is in 1559, the second in 1883 and the third in 1912. "Milestones" is by Arnold Bennett, the famous novelist and Edward Knoblauch, the author of "Kismet" and other brilliant plays.

Merrimack Square Theatre

"What Happened in Holland" is the title of the offering to be given by the People Players at the Merrimack Square theatre next week and in this the popular company will make their last bow to Lowell audiences. It is a quaint story with quaint characters and quaint settings, but nevertheless one that should leave a lasting impression. Marjorie Carroll has taken considerable pains in making a surrounding bill of merit and the whole bids fair to please even the most critical.

Daily delighted crowds through the Merrimack this week for the bill given there is a good one.

The Playhouse

"Young Mrs. Winthrop," a four-act drama, written by Bronson Howard, is to be the attraction at the Playhouse next week, the first presentation being Monday night. The piece is a companion piece to "The Man From Home," which was given with marked success a few weeks ago. In some respects "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is said to be superior to "The Man From Home" for it is characterized by the efforts of the members of this company in most of their performances. The play also has a lot of rich comedy value and is sure to give added pleasure to the patrons. Miss Bertha Mann, the new leading lady of the company, whose work in this week's presentation of "Mrs. War-

Invalid Men and Women

I will give you FREE a sample of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets that have brought health and happiness to thousands—also a book on any chronic disease requested.

During many years of practice I have used numerous combinations of curative medicines for liver ills. I have kept a record of the result in case after case, so that my staff of physicians and surgeons, at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., are able to diagnose and treat cases at a distance with uniform good results.

But for the permanent relief of blood disorders and impurities, I can recommend my "Golden Medical Discovery" a blood medicine without alcohol or other injurious ingredients.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Nature's Way Is The Best

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherry bark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has the endorsement of many thousands that it has cured them of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

"In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption, the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The 'Discovery' is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken."

Sold in tablet or liquid form by all principal dealers in medicines, or send fifty one-cent stamps for trial package of tablets.

ren's Profession" has been so satisfactory, will appear in one of the principal roles, and Mr. J. Anthony Smythe will also be pleasantly cast. Grace Young, Miss Laura Hinkle and Mrs. Byers will be included in the cast, as will Mr. Sidney M. Dillon and the others. The scenic effects of the play will be one of the many pleasing features of the offering.

Only four more performances of Mrs. Warren's Profession. Get your seats early for Saturday's performance. Tel. 811 or 610.

Keith's Theatre

"The Antique Girl," a miniature musical comedy, sponsored by Jesse L. Lasky, and with book by William Le Baron and music by Robert Hood Powers, will prove a sure fire winner at the Keith Theatre next week. Ten very clever persons will contribute to the success of the very classy little musical play, which has been specially put together for a season over the B. F. Keith circuit. George M. George, a competent comedian, will be seen in the role of "Jonathan Finney," keeper of an antique shop, while Dorothy Van Court will be the "Sally," the girl who lived in a cave and whose wonderful voice charmed all those who came to look at the porcelain. Other characters will be assumed by the following: "Taddy Randolph," Earle R. Mountain; "Henry," Jack Dick, and "Anne Greeley," Ruby Bailey. The chorus consists of Misses Betty Lorraine, Helen Berkeley and Rose Delamater, and Messrs. Rick, Allison and Favor. Six charming musical numbers, with the prettiest of tinkles to them, will be sung by this splendid company. These who heard "Court by Girls," a few weeks ago, will find a worthy successor in this production. Dooley & Parker are two of the finest men in the business, as will readily be seen next week. Direct from one of the most important receptionists ever accorded vaudeville funmakers, they come to this city and their work cannot fail to convince local vaudeville lovers that there still remain a few good things that they have not seen. Dooley is an imitator of Harry Lauder and he sings "Is My Daisy?" admirably, while Parker is a tenor of wonderful range and sweetness. Warren & Connolly, a man and a woman, have a splendid singing and talking specialty, and come here very highly recommended. Will & Kemp are balancing hand-to-hand acrobats and Ray Conlan is a ventriloquist comedian who has made very rapid strides in his particularly quality of entertainment. The Musical Van Dykes, a man and a woman, have gorgeous trappings and give a splendid entertainment, and Miss Swanson, the Swedish nightingale, will give grand opera, very highly recommended. Howard Martin is a novelty dancer. Tuesday evening the Masons of this city will have a gala performance at this theatre, and in addition to the regular bill, will put on two more acts, the Harmony Girls and Matthews & Shayne. This will be the biggest variety bill this city has ever known. Sunday afternoon and evening the special entertainments which have become so popular will be continued.

The Kaskin

"How many falls are there in the course of a day's skating?" asked a patron of the Kaskin the other day. On learning that there are many seasons in which the big procession never meets with interruption of this kind, the interrogator was somewhat surprised. "Why," I have been told that it had been a common thing to see three or four people losing their balance," she said, "and perhaps that is why I have seen a little thing about skating without an instructor." As a matter of fact, the Kaskin skates and the Kaskin surface present a combination which is as nearly proof against tumbles as possible.

OUR WINDOWS DO NOT LIE

Every Suit or Overcoat you see in our windows you can buy inside our store for $10 or $15 in just the size that will fit you best. If our windows were twice the size we could not show all of our exceptional values.

This isn't a sleight-of-hand clothes shop. We don't show you one thing, and then say "Presto-change" and sell you something else. The P. & Q. Shop does not "juggle" prices—throw them up high one week and let them drop down the next.

The P. & Q. Shop IS ON THE LEVEL. YOU can buy here just as cheaply as any other man. Every suit and overcoat is marked either $10 or $15, and each one is PLAINLY marked, so that you can see it for yourself without calling a salesman to read the "funny figures" on the price ticket.

This is worth remembering just now when so-called "Bargain" Sales, "Marked Down" Sales, "Pre-Inventory" Sales and other hokus pokus stunts are being advertised around town.

A. O. H. ANNIVERSARY

Division I Held Observance Last Night

The 46th anniversary of Div. I of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held last night in the A. O. H. hall with a large number of members present. President Daniel E. Hogan was in the chair.

A large amount of business was transacted at the meeting and it was voted to take part in the parade to be held in this city on March 29. The Spindle City band will be engaged by the division for that day.

After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed by the members in honor of the 46th year of the division. The division which was organized in 1857 is the oldest in this state and all records of the society from its organization are in the hands of Secretary James A. Sheehan. On the business meeting a member of the order in 1869, two years after it was organized, gave a very interesting talk on the early history of the society. Speeches were also given by Brother John O'Hair and Vice-President Michael Casey. The latter talked on the history of the society from 1901 to 1913. At the time Mr. Casey joined this division it had a membership of only 26, but with the help of Brother Henry Smith they succeeded in bringing the membership near what it is today. A recitation by Treasurer McCann concluded the program.

The division now has a membership of about 200 members and it is their wish to have a big celebration in 1917 in honor of their 50th anniversary. The officers of the society recently elected are: President, Daniel E. Hogan; vice president, Michael Casey; recording secretary, George Stewart; financial secretary, James A. Sheehan; treasurer, Thomas J. McCann.

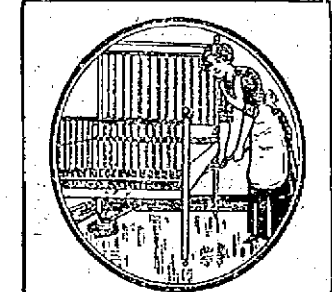

Miss Lena Lalumiere of 226 Merrimack street and her milliner, Miss Irene have gone to New York, to look over the spring style of hats.

Boils Disappeared

"I was afflicted with many boils on my back and neck, causing me so much trouble I was hardly able to work. I knew of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier, and decided to take it. Gradually it purified my blood and the boils diminished and disappeared. It did me more good than anything else I have ever taken. I gladly recommend this good medicine." Monroe Wilson, Garland, Texas.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In liquid or tablets called Sarsatabs.

To Relieve Rheumatism

the body-waste producing uric acid must be gradually arrested and the blood purified.

Correct diet is essential. Abstain from tea and anything containing alcohol; eat meat only once a day and take SCOTT'S EMULSION after every meal.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is rich in blood-making qualities and makes new blood free from the poisonous products which irritate the joints and muscles; its wonderful powers relieve the enlarged, stiffened joints; and more, SCOTT'S EMULSION replaces body-weakness with sound body-strength by its concentrated nourishing properties.

Physicians everywhere prescribe SCOTT'S EMULSION for rheumatism.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Bloomfield, N. J.

since upon him devolves the duty of keeping the army prepared for warfare and making plans for its use in case of war. He is not called the commanding general of the army, since that title was abolished in 1903, when the general staff was established, with the chief of staff, the last "commanding general of the army" was Lieutenant General Young, now retired.

Some time ago it was reported that President Wilson had decided to name as head of the general staff Major General Thomas H. Barry, one of the best known officers of the army. He has been in command of the department of the east, in succession to the late Major General Frederick D. Grant, before succeeding General Grant as Governor of the United States military academy at West Point. He has an army record extending back from West Point.

In one sense, the incumbent of the office of chief of staff of the army is a personal appointee of the president, quite as much so as is the secretary of war or any of the other members of the cabinet. The term of the office of the chief of staff terminates automatically on the day after the inauguration of a president.

There is another provision that if at any time the chief of staff considers that he can no longer sustain toward the president and the secretary of war relations of absolute confidence and personal accord and sympathy it is his duty to apply to be relieved.

Of course President Wilson may decide to re-detail General Wood, in which case he would serve until July 16, 1914, the end of his four years' term.

Should President Wilson decide to appoint another general officer as chief of staff he is not limited in his choice, but may detail any major general, or brigadier general on the active list.

General Barry will not reach sixty-four, the age of retirement, until 1919, so that he has some years of good active service left. He had a long and honorable record in the army before 1907, but that year brought him most prominently before the world as commander of the army of pacification sent to Cuba.

Besides having the distinction of having been the first major general to command at West Point, General Barry is known as one of the handsomest among the good looking officers of the army. He is not very tall, but he is well built and has the military bearing that goes well with the title of general. He has iron gray hair and mustache and a complexion that tells tales of many years of service in the west, in Cuba and the Philippines. He is a strict disciplinarian, as some of the students of West Point learned when they tried to get around the regulations of the academy.

There happened to be no gold spoon looking for a convenient resting-place in some one's mouth when Barry was born. That event happened in 1855 in the lower west section of New York city. As his name betokens, he is of Irish descent. He won his appointment to West Point from the hands of Congressman Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of the former president, by proving his scholarship.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

On Work of Massachusetts Organization for Prevention of Cruelty to Children

A large number were present at the Palace Street Baptist church last evening to listen to a lecture by Ray S. Hubbard of Boston on the activity of the Massachusetts organization for the prevention of cruelty to children.

Mr. Hubbard has had a wide experience in the work of the society and consequently is well versed in the topic. His lecture last evening was most interesting and beneficial to all who heard it.

The address was illustrated with a number of slides which portrayed in an excellent manner phases of the talk that words were insufficient to picture. The great work of the society in regard to looking after the interests of the children, protecting them from evil environment and abuse has been remarkable and the good results of the activity of this humane organization are evident.

The society, Mr. Hubbard said, was first organized in New York city, 35 years ago in conjunction with the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. The Massachusetts branch was founded about four years afterward and has flourished since that time.

Description of the various forms of abuse and neglect to which many children are subjected formed a large part of the speaker's address. The cruelties of the human parents, the delinquencies brought on by whipping, the illness resulting from want of proper food and innumerable others calculated to arouse the pity and ire of honest people. The care of the society for these poor children, and how they are made happy was then described.

Mr. Hubbard in closing dwelt on the importance of the activity of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children in the social life of the country. The lecture was a very instructive and impressive one throughout.

WHO WROTE THE LETTERS?

the letters and that she was afraid of Miss Wilkins because of the threats which the missives contained against her. When asked what motive the defendant could have had for threatening her, she replied after several questions that some time ago a young man had been keeping company with Miss Wilkins and that afterward she (Miss Scraggs) had claimed the attentions of the young man. This, she said, might have been a motive for the threats. Miss Scraggs said that she and the defendant had for a long time been the best of friends.

Mrs. Thomas George Scraggs, mother of the plaintiff, took the stand and testified to the receiving of the letters. Some of them, it was said, had been handed to Miss Scraggs by another girl named Albert Scraggs and the latter who is said to reside in Moody street, could not be located. A newsboy is also said to have delivered some of the communications to the plaintiff. Mrs. Scraggs testified that she had warned the defendant to stop writing the letters.

The statement of the defendant, Miss Wilkins, on the stand were to the effect that she had not written the letters and she denied all the material allegations made against her. Mr. Walter W. Cleworth, assistant cashier in the Traders National bank, was in court as a handwriting expert and qualified as such by the court. He examined all the letters and as it was of the vertical style, said that in his opinion it could easily be imitated. Miss Wilkins was required to write at the dictation of one of the attorneys and afterward her writing was compared by Mr. Cleworth with that in the letters and he said that they were very similar. He said that the writing might be copied by another person.

On the stand, Miss Wilkins said that she had no hard feelings against the plaintiff at all and that they had been the best of friends. She denied that she had ever threatened to "get even" with her for anything at all.

The mother of the defendant took the stand and said that her daughter had not written the letters for it was not her handwriting. She said further that her daughter had never uttered any word or threat against Miss Scraggs to her knowledge.

At the conclusion of the testimony, Chas. C. Rothfuchs, M. D.

Judge Enright said that he would continue the case to try and locate the Miss Levesque who was mentioned in the trial. It is thought that she can throw considerable light on the facts of the case and so straighten matters out. The case was therefore continued until Wednesday, March 6.

Breaking and Entering

Thomas J. Burns and Martin F. Dunn were arraigned in court again this morning after having had a continuance yesterday of their trial for breaking and entering and larceny. Another complaint had in the meantime been registered against Burns, namely it was alleged that he broke into the home of Roman Van Dupe and stealing a sweater, a watch and $2.50 in money. Burns pleaded not guilty.

On the other charge of breaking and entering and larceny from a Mr. Dubois, Judge Enright found probable cause and ordered each of the defendants to be held in $500 for the superior court.

Two Charges Against Him

The two charges against John F. Blood were drunkenness, and larceny of a harness from Harry S. Hires. Mr. Hires, who is a general manager of the Salvation Army Industrial home, took the stand and testified that he had "killed" the defendant recently for being drunk. He later missed the harness and said that he had heard that Blood had tried to sell one. Witness identified the harness in court this morning.

A Mr. Robitaille testified that Blood had sold him the harness at the S. A. barn and this testimony was seconded by another who had been present. He said that he had paid $15 for the harness and had also paid the defendant to sell him a chicken.

Defendant stated that he did not sell the harness and that if the other man got it, he took it and did not buy it. Previously Officer Ganley had testified that the man had been staggering drunk. The man was found guilty and sentenced to three months in the house of correction for larceny. The drunk was fined against him.

Charged With Non-Support

Charged with neglecting to support his minor children, Arthur Elhier was arraigned today. His wife testified that when the man worked he "drank all his money." Elhier received a sentence of four months in the house of correction and 50 cents per day will be paid his wife for the man's labor.

Being the custodian of two children and failing to send them to school, Robert H. Barrows was brought before Judge Enright today. His trial was continued to Wednesday and he was held in $200.

Aliened Worthy Vagrant

William Brandon, the man who claims to be part heir to a Connecticut estate, was charged with vagrancy and his case was continued to Monday.

For drunkenness Martin Swanswick was sentenced to the state farm.

DANDRUFF
GERMS MUST GO

In America the dandruff germs most go. The war of extermination has been declared. The battle intelligent and already chosen. The dandruff germs have permanently rid themselves of this filthiness.

Today it is no more necessary for a man to have dandruff in his hair than to have tartar on his teeth.

Dandruff can never be cured until the scalp is clean, and the dandruff germ is conquered and destroyed.

And millions of dandruff germs have been destroyed, thanks to the great scientist who gave to the world Parlan Sage, the only real dandruff cure and hair grower the world has ever known.

If you have dandruff, Parlan Sage will cure you in two weeks, or your money back.

But besides ridding the scalp of dandruff, Parlan Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It is not a dye. It is a prime favorite with women of refinement. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and is not sticky or greasy.

THE ERDMAN ACT

The danger of the firemen's strike on the fifty-four eastern railroads, has been averted, and the tense situation which has existed for weeks has been relaxed. Concessions were demanded by the firemen, the justice of which in part was allowed by the railroad management. The point of contention was difference of opinion as to the method that should be pursued in adjusting the difficulties. Finally it was agreed to arbitrate. The railroads wished to have a board of arbitration composed of six or seven disinterested men of national importance. The firemen, on the other hand, stubbornly held to the determination to have the difficulty arbitrated under the Erdman act which was enacted in 1898 to meet such an emergency. By the terms of the act the arbitration board is to consist of three—one from each contending side and a neutral man selected by these two.

The railroads were determined in their opposition to the measure. They claimed that the Erdman arbitration becomes simply a question of the judgment of one man, whose vote can swing the decision in either direction. They parried and met the arguments of the firemen who were equally insistent that if there was to be arbitration it was to be under the Erdman act. Neither side showed any signs of weakening. Finally the leaders of the firemen called for a vote to determine how many of the men were ready to strike. The answer was quick and almost unanimous. Over thirty-four thousand men were ready to go out at the command of their leader.

Not until the strike became imminent did the full significance of such a danger dawn on the public. Suddenly from all sides the voice of the press and the people arose in protest against the stubbornness that threatened to cripple business, bring suffering and privation on thousands, empty the factories, cause food famine, scarcity of milk and coal, and in a hundred ways prove the most serious obstacle to industry and prosperity that this country has had to deal with for years. It is not the east only that would have been affected. A strike on the fifty-four eastern roads would mean cessation of traffic, blockades, and congestion at junction points that would have been felt through the whole of the United States. Facing this situation, therefore, the people, who were to be eventually the greatest sufferers, exerted their influence with the result that at the eleventh hour the railroads gave in to the firemen's demands and agreed to arbitrate under the Erdman act, protesting, however, to the last against its unfairness. The railroads have acknowledged being swayed by public opinion, saying in their statement, "the public would not tolerate a strike."

Though there seems to be some justice in the contention of the railroad managers that the Erdman act is defective, it is singular that such a law has been in existence for five years without an effort having been made to amend it. It was intended to be a means of peaceful settlement of disputes between corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employees. As such it has been resorted to effectively in past disputes and it is too late to cry "inadequate" and "defective" in the time of a great emergency. Both the railroads and the firemen stand on their merits before the bar of public opinion. Both sides have now agreed to arbitrate under the Erdman act. The decision of the board of arbitration must be final. The next step should be such changes or amendments in the Erdman act as will make it satisfactory to employer and employee, so that in future the unoffending public may not be in danger of extraordinary privation because of objection to a law enacted to promote industrial peace.

WASHINGTON

As sometimes in the musical compositions of the masters, the theme grows in magnitude and grandeur until all the minor harmonious chords are gathered into one wonderful burst of triumphant melody, so in the passing of the years do all the tributes to America and things American, swell into a grand poem of praise for our first great idealist—the father of his country—George Washington.

The marble shaft that points to heaven in the capital city of his name is a symbol of our veneration. It typifies in stone the acclaim of a nation's reverence that accrues to his memory from the hearts of the remnant millions of this country for which he has done so much. Memories of other great men bring an atmosphere of unrest. They cannot be separated in thought from the burning issues that made their lives a turmoil. In the case of Washington it is different. The cause of his greatness, the magnitude of the struggle, the strength of purpose, are being gradually forgotten, and he takes on the aspect of sublime serenity. He ceases to be the Washington who established this Union by suffering and by rugged warfare. He becomes an ideal. He is not so much regarded in our hearts as the man who made America possible; he is its highest type of manhood.

Even in his own day the person of Washington was surrounded by this charm of nobility. In England where the war of independence was a sword-thrust to the heart, no shadow of suspicion ever rested on the motives or character of Washington. In that age when the world was seething after the unrest of the French revolution, when plot and intrigue crumbled the earth in a network of treachery, the splendid figure of our founder stood out mentally and physically great, in breadth of vision, in nobility of soul. His light was not for fame or personal gain. He fought for the liberation of the spirit of a nation—he fought for abstract right, for the freedom that has since served as a beacon light to the rest of the civilized world.

The America of today is not the America of Washington. Instead of the one great fight against foes from without, the ideal democracy he founded is fighting corruption that has grown within. The principles enunciated in his farewell address are being disregarded in high places. Oppressed millions have swarmed from all the ports of the world to seek liberty and prosperity under the flag he raised. They are being taught by violent leaders to abandon the path he made plain, the path of loyalty and devotion to duty. But through all our agitation and social unrest, the underlying spirit of the people is still the spirit of Washington. His memory is our greatest heritage. Cherishing that, our laws will gradually quell internal disturbances, harmony and prosperity will take the place of selfishness and distrust, and in the coming era of enlightenment a happier and more united America will still hold as her highest ideal the name and the fame of Washington.

A FEW PRESIDENTS

This is indeed a strenuous time for presidents. In America President Taft is getting his household effects ready preparatory to moving out of the White House. The democrats refuse to sanction his list batch of appointments to office; he is being caricatured and labelled "a man of straw." His troubles indeed are many, and he must be anxiously looking forward to the comparative calm of private life where he can teach his college students respect for the laws he has seen broken so frequently during the past four years.

Down in Mexico Madero has sunk in the quicksands of revolution. He tried to keep his head above the surface by standing, now on the one foot of appeal to loyalty, and now on the other, resource to arms. Both have proved unavailing, and the waves have closed over his head. Poet and idealist, he succeeded an iron-willed despot, but he has failed by weakness where Diaz failed by severity.

Over in France Poincare has written his name in the book of gold and has moved into the Elysee palace to take up the burden of the French presidency. For him, too, there are great problems to be faced. His country once went through the throes of a revolution beside which the horrors of Mexico are like the warfare of children. It is not so very long ago, and France has not yet forgotten. Thinking of that, Poincare probably breathes a sigh of regret for Madero and faces the future calmly but thoughtfully.

There is still another president very much in the public view just now—a scholar, a teacher, and a dreamer. He hands President Taft his cap and gown, and accepts in exchange the reins of government. As a student of monarchies and systems of government, he is thoroughly familiar with the plight of Madero and the problems of Poincare. In his own country he will face in part the difficulties of each. May Woodrow Wilson be wise enough to understand them and strong enough to overcome them.

CIVIL SERVICE PROMOTION

Our civil service laws, if not complied with, are worse than useless. Such a system was inaugurated to eliminate petty graft and favoritism, and to establish instead a system of promotion on merit alone. It is the nearest approach to direct legal supervision of appointments we possess, and breaches of it are a reflection not only on the parties responsible for such offences but, in a wider and more comprehensive sense, on the institution as a national issue.

From the viewpoint of the young man or woman who takes civil service examinations, breaches of the regulations that govern appointments are grossly unfair. The young people who seek to profit by such examinations are usually those who, possessed of ambition, were denied the means of attaining to high positions because of lack of opportunity. Many of them make sacrifices to educate themselves and secure a place on the civil service list. Having succeeded in their laudable desire they are frequently doomed to disappointment and disheartening failure because of the heartless unfairness and absolute disregard for honor and duty shown by those who make appointments.

If it be true that in our municipal government clerks are appointed to offices without a civil service standing, and over the heads of those who have taken the examinations and proved their worth, the matter demands immediate investigation. It is a situation in which the right and the wrong are so clearly defined that anyone with a sense of fair play can decide the issue justly.

Two of the names most persistently mentioned for the new cabinet are: William Jennings Bryan and Louis D. Brandeis. As men who have figured in public affairs it is to be expected that both have violent enemies, who make no secret of their dislike. Enamies of Bryan declare that he has always shown a tendency to stir up faction, and has an utter incapacity for understanding questions of finance and economics. On the other hand Mr. Brandeis, though active, has been too much of the student of economics and too little of the politician to suit a certain section. For our part we think that much of the criticism directed at Mr. Bryan is unjust and as for Mr. Brandeis he cannot be regarded as Mr. Bryan's class.

Thus far the only Americans killed in the Mexican uprising have been killed by accident or by stray bullets not intended for them. Let America intervene and a great many will be killed deliberately. "Even so," you say, "our dignity is worth the sacrifice." Nothing is to be gained by this policy. Intervene, and the sacrifice of life, money, and domestic peace will be in vain. The revolution in Mexico is like the spontaneous combustion in a dark mine. It will eventually burn itself out.

Canada is now preparing to submit a parcel post measure to parliament. It is singular that though a parcel post system has worked successfully in England for years, it is to be introduced into Canada only after public opinion in America has sanctioned the measure. Even though reciprocity was so overwhelmingly defeated it may be that American opinion is more potent in the Dominion than Canada cares to confess.

Miss Zelle Emerson, a rich Jackson, Mich., girl, has been arrested in England for a militant suffrage outrage, in assaulting a policeman and using insulting language in public. She has been sentenced to two months at hard labor. Zelle will regret during the next few weeks that she did not cast her lot with her American sisters and work off her surplus enthusiasm by marching onward to Washington, instead of helping her misguided English friends to break windows.

March, they say, comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Possibly wise people will be able to symbolize these qualities in the persons of two distinguished personages who are to change places on March 4th—one going in, and the other coming out. But who will be madder than a March hare on that date? Three guesses—you're right the first time.

Seen and Heard

Here is one that was launched by Senator Groome, illustrating the fine lines of distinction: "Out in Dakota," said the senator, "there were glad some joy bells with a wedding cake as big as a half acre, and great was the happiness, but in less than a year the happy domestic clouds began to darken the nuptial sky."

"You don't care for me any more than you care for that knodder," declared the husband during one of the little disturbances. "You know that you married me only because I had money."

"Nonsense," was the prompt rejoinder of the wife. "My reason for marrying you was that I had no money myself."

Senator Cummings was reminded of the experience of a maiden lady in Iowa. "The lady," the senator said, could not see to see negligence. Dust was an abhorrence, and lint, or anything that marred a suit or even almost drove her to distraction. At church one Sunday evening while kneeling in prayer the good lady saw a small raveling protruding from the collar of the man in front of her. Everybody was praying. Nobody was looking. It would be so easy to do it, and at the same time it would be performing a kindness for the man who did not suspect the raveling's presence.

In another second she had held and was drawing gently, but it was longer than she had supposed. Before she could realize it she had two yards of slack hanging over the back of the pew, and the ends were not cut.

Said Hans, "I'll write the firm, I think, How people here enjoy our drink 'Dear Sirs,' he wrote, 'From North to South, Our Rona is in every mouth! Through all this land, from East to West, The children vow it is the best! A great success, it's proved to be, Yours truly, 'Hans Across The Sea.'"

No gasoline, carburetor, engines or other things that go to make the automobile an expensive vehicle are used by 17-year-old James P. McGovern of Brooklyn to make his sail wagon, Flying Dutchman, a success. All he requires is wind to enable him to speed along country roads at from 20 to 40 miles an hour, according to the New York World.

The triangular body is of ordinary lumber, with two bicycle wheels at the "bow" and one at the "stern" for steering purposes. McGovern and his chum, Richard Kallman, 12 years old, have been traversing the roads of Kings county for some weeks in the machine, the envy of every small boy who sees them.

"I call the Flying Dutchman my aeroplane wheel," said McGovern. "It's a wonderful success. Dick and I have set more crickets out of it than we would out of an automobile. We get up early mornings, raise the eight-foot sail, a gust of wind comes along and away we go."

McGovern has patented his invention and he says that within a year it will be sold in sizes to accommodate boys of any size.

SOMEWHERE

"Somewhere the wind is blowing," Said I, and toiled along In torrid heat of noontide. The fancy made me strong; Somewhere the wind is blowing.

"Though where, I gasp and sigh, No cloud of air is stirring, Nor gleam in burning sky."

Somewhere the thing we long for Is on this earth's wide round. Somewhere the day is breaking. When winter locks the ground. Somewhere the flowers are springing. Somewhere the corn is brown. Ready unto the harvest. To feed the hungry town.

Somewhere the twilight gathers, And weary men lay by. The burden of the daytime. And wrapped in slumber lie. Somewhere the day is breaking. And storm and darkness flee. Though storms and barks are tossing. Somewhere's a placid sea.

And thus I thought, 'tis always In this mysterious life: There's always gladness somewhere Spite of the pain and strife. Somewhere the sun and sorrow. Of earth are known no more. Somewhere our weary spirits Shall find a peaceful shore.

Somewhere the things that try us Shall all have passed away. And doubt and care no longer hinder the perfect day. O, brother, 'tis the darkness Over thy soul be cast. The path is leading onward, And light shall come at last. —Selected.

Within the parlors of No. Chelmsford's Victoria, a kind of Fitzgerald, and hard by the residence of Perringe Stenwell, J. Fitzgerald, Veronica Lucinda, the parent, run the cars of the street railway which weld the good town of N. C. to the bustling metropolis of Lowell. Now the racket naturally arising from the passing back and forth of the trolleys—a racket which is all the more pronounced because of the peace and quiet which forever and ever prevails in that sequestered community—has many a time disturbed the sleep of Veronica Lucinda as she lay in her bed near the window of the sleeping chamber on the south side of the house. But Veronica Lucinda—being a patient, sweet tempered little girl, a distinguishing trait of all the girls, little or big, of N. C.—does not mind the occasional racket of the trolleys as much as she does the stirring about in the next room of her big brother, Benjamin Augustus, a young gentleman who has recently formed the habit of visiting Lowell on certain particular evenings each week and of prolonging these visits each and every night until the time for the last car to North Chelmsford. It seems that the spirit of Benjamin Augustus is perturbed when he reaches home. At any rate he makes a deal of noise during these nocturnal hours which floats in from the next room and disturbs Veronica Lucinda. And being a very, very young lady, Veronica Lucinda has often wondered why Benjamin Augustus has grown so unaccountably fond of Lowell, why he stays there till such a late hour, and why he grows confused and sometimes nettled when her sisters (who wear long skirts) ocularly comment on this fact between themselves when the family are eating their hot roast beef at dinner. However, Veronica Lucinda, having other cares to occupy her attention, never bothers to inquire into the reason of the table bantering when Benjamin Augustus casually remarks that he "is going over to town." She is the next to the smartest pupil in one of the lower grades of the local grammar school. And, being an ambitious little miss and so eager to wrest first honors from the high mark holder she never fails to shoot up her hand when Miss Priscilla Parkington suddenly asks the pupils any question. Friday afternoon Miss Parkington entertained the little boys and girls by reading to them the story of Cinderella. All the children were deeply interested. Particularly Veronica Luinda, Miss Parkington, to test the pupils' memory, asked after the end of the story: "Children, what was the reason that made Cinderella so anxious to leave the ballroom at midnight?" Silence prevailed for a moment. Then a small hand shot eagerly into the air. It was Veronica Lucinda's. "Please, teacher, so that she wouldn't miss the last car."

BACK TO THE SENATE

Agricultural School Bill
Gets Second BumpAND NOW IT IS A CASE OF A HARD
FIGHTMiddlesex School Hitting the Same
Hard Road Traversed By the Essex
Agricultural School

The committee on education, yesterday, for the second time, returned the Middlesex vocational agricultural school bill to the senate with its leave to withdraw, but this time with four dissenters—Senators Samuel Ross of New Bedford, who is chairman of the committee and Dennis E. Halley of Lawrence, with Reps. Chas. H. Morrill of Haverhill and Charles S. Lawler of Ward 24, Boston.

The bill providing for an agricultural school in Middlesex county was introduced by Rep. Williams of Billerica and it will have to buck the tiger just as hard as the Essex school bucked it. The Essex school bill went to the governor four times and was three times vetoed before it was signed by Gov. Foss.

Committee Reports

These committee reports were read in the house:

Fisheries and game—A bill providing that the open season on gray squirrels shall begin on Oct. 12, instead of Oct. 15.

Municipal finance—Leave to withdraw on petition of mayor of Cambridge asking that the city be permitted to tax the Boston Elevated for use of squares, etc.

Legal affairs—Leave to withdraw on bills providing that state election and primary days shall be legal holidays.

Street railways—Bill to extend the corporate powers of the Boston & Providence Interurban Street Railway Company until Jan. 1 next.

Education—Next general court on bill providing that all text books used in the public schools shall be published by the state board of education.

Labor—Leave to withdraw on bill to establish a state board of labor and to require arbitration of industrial disputes.

Federal relations—Resolutions asking congress to empower the commission on commerce and industry to regulate the price of coal.

Military affairs—Bill to extend the law relative to soldiers' relief to veterans of the war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection.

Education—Bill authorizing Boston to establish an independent agricultural school.

The Stevens order, asking for an investigation of the publicity campaign in connection with the Western Trolley bill, was referred to the joint committee on rules.

Military Affairs—Reference to next general court of petition of Little Falls for an appropriation of $5000 for compiling the record of Massachusetts privateersmen in the war of 1812.

Social Warfare—That the committee be discharged on these bills and that they be referred to the committee on public service; petition of Peter J. Donaghy to establish a minimum wage; petition of the American Federation of Labor, Massachusetts branch, for the establishment of a minimum wage.

Street Railways—Leave to withdraw to Leah H. Underwood on his petition that the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company shall guard its third rail.

Public service—A bill on Mayor Fitzgerald's petition that Boston lamp lighters, losing appointment without fault may be appointed as laborers or skilled laborers in the labor department. The committee has cut out as "mechanic or craftsman" from the bill and applies it to any person "at present engaged" in lighting lamps.

Municipal finance—A bill to authorize Sherborn to pay a note of $1373 made payable to the trustees of Swain academy, also a bill for restoration by Sherborn of certain funds for perpetual care of cemetery lots.

Federal relations—Resolve to ratify the proposed amendment of the federal constitution for a national income tax.

Other Hearings

Giving the fact that 27,000 votes were cast at the recent election in Kansas by persons not in the state as an argument in favor of his bill, Representative David F. Sullivan appeared before the committee on election laws in support of his measure for voting by proxy of persons absent from their home towns at election times.

The bill to amend the law regarding ice cream vending licenses for Sunday by providing that such licenses may be granted at any time but shall expire on the 30th day of the ensuing April was advocated by Rudolphus A. Swan of the New Bedford Licensing Board before the committee on legal affairs. The bill was opposed by Martin J. Kneeland of the Sabbath Protective league.

Two bills relating to the use of firearms were heard before the committee on legal affairs. John F. McCarthy will be given an opportunity to be heard later on his bill to penalize persons under 16 who carry in public places firearms whether openly or concealed. A number of prominent persons opposed the bills as being too sweeping.

OWLS AND THEIR LADIES

Pleasant Gathering in Elks Hall Last Night

The Owls took possession of both halls in Elks building last night. The business meeting was held in the upper hall, and commenced promptly at 7 o'clock. President J. W. Bowers called to order. There was considerable business of importance. Several candidates for membership were introduced, as there is to be a large class initiation at the first meeting of the Next in March.

Committee reports were heard, correspondence read, committees appointed, etc. Everything was hurried through and the business meeting brought to a close about 8:15 o'clock. Then the Lowell Nest of Owls showed their lady friends how they could entertain.

The program for the evening consisted of a most delightful musical and literary entertainment, whist, and refreshments.

Vice President MacCallum, chairman of the entertainment committee, was the toastmaster of the evening, and all agreed that he more than filled the bill.

After a few well chosen words of welcome to the guests of the evening, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the Owls, who were dressed as "Owl-women" or "Owl-ladies," the toastmaster called upon Mr. Joseph Burley, who rendered several most pleasing piano solos. Mr. James Mulvaney then sang selections and was encored. A violin solo was given by Miss Kittle Burke, with Miss Margaret Kiernan as accompanist. These young ladies charmed all who heard them, and must have been tired out when they were finally allowed to take their seats.

Finally Mr. "Bitty" Looney, comedian with "Prof." Emerson as accompanist, then entertained, and was a whole team for a while. Miss Margaret Moran sandwiched in a vocal solo, and it proved to be a very appetizing sandwich, too, for all enjoyed it immensely.

Mr. Patrick Halloran gave a delightful solo and proved himself to be a master of the instrument. Mr. M. J. Mahoney, in his characteristic style, entertained with recitations that brought out much favorable comment. Miss Helen Smith delighted all with her sweet voice, and was a great favorite. Miss Mary Cowdry gave a reading that set all the Owls "a-booming." Miss May Rynne, in a most pleasing manner sang several songs. She was ably assisted on the piano by Miss Evelyn Barry.

His Honor, Mayor O'Donnell was to have spoken but was detained at home by sickness, and President Bowers gave a brief address.

At the close of the concert whist was enjoyed, for the remainder of the evening and several high scores were made and the prizes, 15 in number, donated by members of the Nest, were presented by Chairman MacCallum.

Refreshments, consisting of cake, coffee and sweets, were then served under the direction of Mrs. Ladue.

The event was one of the most successful, of its kind ever conducted by the Lowell Nest of Owls.

This committee in charge: J. E. MacCallum, chairman; J. P. McManus, Wm. Hollingsworth and Cornelius Harrington. The committee was ably assisted by several ladies.

ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Woman Guilty, But Judge
Finds Solution

FITCHBURG, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Hilda Conner, who was in court before Judge Gallagher yesterday on the charge of bigamy, said that she married a second time because after her husband had deserted her she received a letter saying that he had been drowned when attempting to escape from the army barracks in Florida.

This letter came to her when, after he had failed to support her, she instituted divorce proceedings against him and at the time the divorce was pending. She then met her present husband and became married to him when she had no means of support and was without a home.

After listening to the woman's story the judge found her guilty and she was held in the sum of $500 to appear at court a year from today. During the year she was ordered to stay away from Conner and the marriage would be annulled and when she has obtained a divorce from her first husband, Frank J. Smith, she can then remarry Conner.

SEVEN HURT IN CRASH

Passenger Train Hits
Freight at Bondsville

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 21.—Seven persons were hurt, none seriously, when a south-bound passenger train on the Atchafalaya branch of the Boston and Albany railroad ran into the rear of a freight train at Bondsville yesterday.

Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. Lillian Bogue, both of Pittsfield, Me., suffering from cuts about the head and from shock, were taken to the Springfield hospital.

The others injured were: Frank St. Aubin, New Bedford, slightly bruised on head.

A. Bernstein, Springfield, bruised.

H. H. Whiting, Springfield, slightly bruised.

Conductor T. J. Lanley of passenger train, bruised.

OUTBREAK OF MEASLES

Has Appeared in Town of Tewksbury

The residents of Tewksbury are on the alert these days, for measles has broken out in the town, and as a result several houses have been quarantined. None of the cases, however, are reported as being of a serious nature.

By all due care is being taken and the disease will be checked immediately if possible. There are also two cases of scarlet fever reported in the town.

The ice crop on the various ponds in the village are reported as being of the first quality. The Oblate fathers at the novitiate have housed their supply for the year, having cut from Long pond, but despite that fact Henry Morris and Marshall & Smith, the two local ice firms are cutting their supply on the same pond. The ice there is about eight inches thick and considered fine. On Mill pond at the base of Prospect hill the ice is 11 inches thick and in a few days the three houses will be filled with the winter stock.

Mrs. Larabee, wife of Dr. H. M. Larabee, and their son, Herbert, are visiting relatives and friends in Portland, Me.

The many friends of William Parley of the Avery Chemical Co. of Waverst, who recently underwent an operation at the Lowell General hospital for appendicitis, will be pleased to learn that he is on the way to recovery.

Mr. W. P. Oliver and family have removed from Lee street to the Chandler household, and a vacant house is now being occupied by Mr. Louis Gibbons and family, the latter's home having been turned over to John Gerish and family who are now occupying it.

Dr. H. M. Larabee has had his Buick automobile overhauled and is now using it again.

What a tragedy of West Tewksbury has accepted a position with F. H. Farmer in the Centre village.

The Ladies Aid society will give a colonial party in vestry hall on Feb. 21. In connection with this party an entertainment will be provided by the Embroidery club. Supper will be served from 6 to 8 p. m.

A. Moore has retired from the grocery business and has sold out his establishment to his son, A. B. Moore.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Turkish Folly

Fall River Globe: Owing to the fact that war correspondents have been rigorously denied by both the Turks and the allies from being at the front with the troops, the accounts that are reaching the public from unofficial sources regarding the result of the fighting are apt to be as unreliable as they are meagre. The general tenor of them, however, would seem to indicate that as was the case before the armistice, the Turks are getting the worst of it in nearly every instance, illustrating the folly of making the madness of their determination to continue the war and cause the further sacrifice of blood and treasure rather than accept the terms of peace proposed, which were probably more liberal than will again be offered them.

President Taft

Utica Observer: The toast characterizing President Taft as "the worst liked, least sore and best liked of all our presidents," is about the nearest turn in the way of condensed description of a big subject that we have seen in many a year.

Official Matrons

New Bedford Standard: Miss Frances Curtis, a new member of the Boston school committee, thinks there should be official matrons for dance halls, a proposition to which the mayor of Boston enthusiastically agrees. Possibly she had a good idea. Surely she has a good idea for making a few more salaried places, though if the right sort of women were appointed, maybe no objection would be made to the cost. The proposition, however, illustrates the prevalence of the tendency to suppose that morality can be built up by the means of machinery. Whatever of benefit might accrue from the establishment of dance hall matrons, the springs of evil would scarcely be touched by the device.

Problems

Salem News: Of course President Wilson will have his "problems" and they will present themselves the moment he comes upon the scene in the discharge of his official duties. Every president has had his problems. The people have had them ever since their forefathers threw off a foreign rule and established a republic. And if a survey be made, the fact must be conceded that the people of the United States have done tolerably well in settling issues.

Light at Last

Fall River Herald: On the great day when all mystery is explained and the motives and purposes of men are revealed in a light that illumines them, at least, we shall know why under the sun so many people want to be made city constables, barring the jury-jumpers.

Jail Sentences

Lynn Item: So long as offenders against the Sherman law could be settled by the payment of fines, the trust system did not bother about it. The fines were paid and the work went forward very much as before. But when the penalty is imprisonment, and it is enforced, the affair assumes larger proportions. Twenty-nine defendants were sentenced to prison on Monday for violation of the anti-trust law. The president of the cash register trust was among the number. They will appeal their cases to the supreme court, and they may escape imprisonment. It does not seem possible, however, that the Sherman law is not a useless statute, a dead letter. It has force and energy, and the trust managers who have been accustomed to escape with the payment of fines have been given to understand that a penalty can be imposed which will cause them to be more careful after their terms of imprisonment have been served out.

Loose Bill Rejected

Foster's Democrat: Of course the house of lords rejected the Welsh church disestablishment bill, just as it did home rule for Ireland. That's what the peers are for. Supporters of the Asquith bill are confident that both measures will become law during the life of the present parliament. They must be passed twice more to have that effect, but the liberals are sure they have the votes. As it looks now they will have.

When Diaz Comes

Manchester Mirror: Old Porfirio Diaz threatens, if the United States intervenes, to return to Mexico and lead an army against us. The plot, thickens. That ought to insure peace if nothing else does. What would we do against such an old warrior as the man who ruled Mexico with an iron hand so long? However, we've got a few lively ones ourselves.

There is Hobson and Blease and John L. Sullivan and the irrepressible Teddy, whom we could send to the front, and when they began to yell about their favorite hobbies, if Diaz wouldn't break and run, he's got poorer judgment than we credit him with.

MANY HURT IN BOSTON STRIKE

Two Thousand Workers, Police and Sympathizers in Clash—Several Arrested

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Striking, scratching, kicking and hitting, unmerciful of the cops and brutes on their faces, and of the cops in their pockets that exposed bare knuckles to the blows of their adversaries, 2000 angry men and women made the second day of rioting in the present workers' strike in East Boston so chaotic that it took all the reserves of the East Boston station and all officers on duty to restore order in Central square yesterday afternoon.

Three men two of them suffering from concussion of the brain, and one with his hand nearly severed from his wrist by being thrown through a plate glass window by a mob of rioters, are at the hospitals today. Scores of others are nursing broken heads and cuts and bruises in the East Boston police station.

Electric Cars Held Up

Cars of all kinds, motor, of lead pipe, bottles, bricks and other missiles filled the air during the height of the riot. Electric cars were stalled while policemen, strikers and rioters rolled between the wheels, fighting madly.

Women and children were compelled to leave the cars and seek places of safety as the desperate mob surged across the center of the square.

The streets from Central square to the two East Boston bridges were the scenes of desperate running fights between the rioting strikers and the police.

The three men most seriously injured are Max Schlegel, 21, of 181 Chelsea street, East Boston, at the East Boston police hospital, suffering from a punctured wound in the head, fractured ribs, and probable concussion of the brain; Morris Zatz, 25, of 68 Salem street, at the same place, suffering a fractured head and probable concussion; and Kokos Donahoe, 22, of 12 Athens street, South Boston, is at the Haymarket square relief station suffering injuries from being thrown through a window. His right hand was nearly severed from his wrist.

At the East Boston police station Wolf Spillman, 22, of 11 Mount street, West End, and Salvador Pasciano, 21, of 23 Dwight street, were treated by the police surgeon for severe scalp wounds and then placed in cells.

Start of Trouble

The trouble started shortly after 1 o'clock, when 2000 marching strikers, sent out from Boston to picket the factory of R. H. Evans at 95 Border street, met the special guard of thirty police drawn up in front. For a minute there was confusion, for the police would allow none to enter. Then a moving picture line was formed, and up and down the street the strikers, many of them women and girls, paraded.

Suddenly two small boys discovered an enormous mob under the coat of one of the strikers. They raised the cry and he broke and ran, pursued by the police. After a short chase and a sharp tussle he was captured.

For a short time there was quiet.

BEST CATARRH DOCTOR

Has Benefited Thousands—Will Do the Same for You or Money Back

This is the HYOMEL Inhaler, the little doctor that has cured many thousands of sufferers of catarrh, sniffles, bronchitis, coughs and colds.

It's easy and pleasant to cure yourself with HYOMEL. Just pour a few drops in the inhaler, and breathe it in. The healing, soothing and antiseptic air will reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat; will stop the irritation almost immediately; will allay the inflammation, drive out the foul odor; kill the germs and banish the disease.

My wife has been using HYOMEL for two months for catarrh and pulmonary trouble. She has received more relief and benefit than from any other treatment." E. S. Parrett, Jeffersonville, O.

HYOMEL has cured me of terrible catarrh and huzzling in the head. I would not be without it in the house for a single night." Mrs. S. P. Fuller, Columbus, S. C.

Druggists everywhere sell HYOMEL (pronounced High-o-mel). A complete outfit, including inhaler, only costs $1.00, and an extra bottle, if afterwards needed, is but 50 cents. Carter & Sherburne guarantee it.

When the shutting down whistle blew the strikers congregated in front of the factory to meet the fifteen girl operatives. The police and about forty friends and relatives formed about the door and surrounded them as they came out, started to escort them to Central square. They were followed by the strikers.

Just as the square was reached a man in overalls was seen to strike another. The man behind him raised a club, and as he fell the one in front of him, he was felled in turn. In an instant the whole square was a seething mass of angry fighting men and women.

Police Reserves Called Out

Scores fell, and the fighters surged across the central grass plot, onto Remington and Meridian streets, where they encountered and stalled several electric cars. Reserves of police were called up and in less than ten minutes the patrol wagon had made two trips to the station, by a mob that seemed to have sprung from nowhere, the strikers retreated to the factory. Near the building one was thrown through the window and rescued by friends who carried him to Haymarket square.

Smart Dressing Gown

IN ROSE COLORED FIGURED FLANNEL

Here is a kimono that is not a kimono—a contradiction in terms, to be sure, but one in this case that justifies the means. The salient point of the model is the kimono, the difference showing itself in the shaped underarm seams and general close line of the garment, which, however, has the real kimono sleeve.

The material used is a lightweight flannel in a lovely shade of rose. Cream satin ribbon binds the square neck and bell shaped sleeves.

HOW TO BATHE BABY

Water Should Always be Tested

When you bathe baby see that the temperature of the room is not under 60 degrees F. To undress and bathe an infant in a cold room is a risky proceeding.

Always test the water carefully before putting the baby into it. The best thing to use is a bath thermometer, which can be bought for a small sum.

If, however, you have to do without one, bare your elbow and try the heat of the water with that instead of with the hand, as it is more sensitive than the latter.

For a young baby the water should feel comfortably warm to your elbow. For a newborn baby the temperature of the bath thermometer should register 100 degrees F.

Before undressing the child have everything necessary for both bath and dressing ready by the side of your chair, so that you need not be obliged to get up to look for anything while the child is undressed.

Remember the importance of expedition in bathing baby. Colds and chills may be the result of dawdling over this business.

Always lock the door before undressing the little one, and do not unlock it until the child is dried and clothed again. Very serious chills have resulted through drafts from the opening and closing door striking the baby in its bath.

A screen to inclose mother's chair and shelter the bath is a very useful piece of nursery furniture.

Always put some cold water in the bath first, then add the hot.

This should be a standing rule in nurseries where there are toddling children, as serious accidents have happened when the nurse, having poured boiling water into the bathtub, has gone to an adjoining room to fetch cold water to add to it.

Never use highly colored or strongly scented soap for washing babies or young children. The skin is very sensitive in early childhood, and what would not affect an adult may very seriously affect the skin of a child.

Highly scented violet powder should not be used for dusting babies' bodies.

The safest thing to use is a mixture of two parts either of starch powder or fuller's earth and one part of boracic powder.

These should be sifted together so as to be thoroughly mixed.

The whole can be scented by pouring

Locomotive Engineer Has Remarkable Experience

I have been thinking that word from me would benefit those who may be suffering as I was before I began taking your Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I am a locomotive engineer, employed on the Tyrone & Clearfield Branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Three years ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble so bad that I was compelled to lay off duty from my engine and was in the care of two doctors. However their medicine did not benefit me. One day, I noticed your advertisement, to send name and address for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root. At this time my trouble had reached a serious stage. I sent for the sample bottle and in three days received a small bottle of Swamp-Root, which I took according to directions, and by the time I had taken the contents, I could pass water more freely. I was so pleased with my experiment that I sent my wife to the drug store of W. H. Millick, Phillipsburg, Pa., and secured a one-dollar bottle. I continued taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I was entirely cured. Now whenever I feel any pain or soreness after being exposed to bad weather or hard work, I take a dose or two of Swamp-Root. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly, especially to brother engineers who are more or less troubled with their kidneys (more than any other class of men).

Yours truly,
T. J. VAN SCOYOC,
1205 Lincoln Ave., Tyrone, Pa.
State of Pennsylvania,
County of Blair.

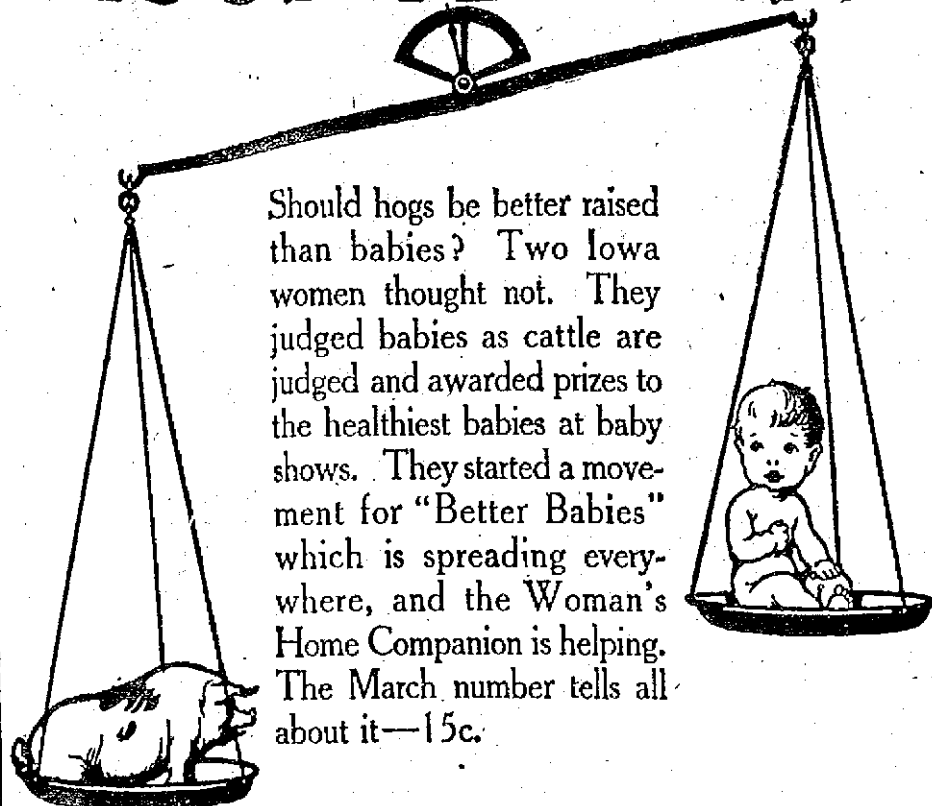

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, T. J. Van Scoyoc, who being duly sworn, doth depose and say that the foregoing statement is true. Sworn and subscribed to before me this 15th day of July, A. D. 1903.
H. B. CALDWELL,
Notary Public.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Lowell Sun. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

HOGS or BABIES?

Should hogs be better raised than babies? Two Iowa women thought not. They judged babies as cattle are judged and awarded prizes to the healthiest babies at baby shows. They started a movement for "Better Babies" which is spreading everywhere, and the Woman's Home Companion is helping. The March number tells all about it—15c.

Save Your Money Traveling to the West

A lot of money is wasted traveling just because people don't know the ropes. Now I can tell you about the railroad company to be of service to you. I can tell you about cheap special tickets, about the most comfortable way to go and how to see most on your trip. I will give you maps and plans of the country without cost, and if there is some information about your trip that's lacking, I can probably get it for you, and be glad to do it. That's what I'm here for. Why not make use of me? Just call at the office, or write and let me know what is wanted. It makes a whole lot of difference if you start right, and a little friendly help from reliable people is worth while.

Alex. Stocks, New England Passenger Agent, U. B. & Q. R. R., 264 Washington St., Boston.

IF YOUR CHILD NEEDS A PHYSIC.

If Cross, Feverish, Tongue Coated, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean the Stomach, Liver and Bowels

Look at the tongue, Mother! It coated. It is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged up with purifying waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When your child is listless, drooping, pale, doesn't sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of delicious figs, senna and aromatic. It cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed. A little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

pratt until full are washed. Silver may be drained in a pitcher or similar receptacle. All scraps should be removed from the dishes, plates, saucers, etc., and they should be stacked systematically before beginning to wash them.

Whist Social

A very enjoyable whist party was held last night in the school hall by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Patrick's church. The affair was well patronized and the returns will go to aid the charitable work of the church. The winners of the prizes were the following: First prize, for women, Miss Winifred Lyons; second prize, Mrs. J. Monahan; third prize, Mrs. J. P. Noble; first men's prize, G. Mullin; second prize, G. H. Hobden, and third prize, M. J. Monahan; men's booby prize, John Hogan; women's booby prize, Mrs. J. L. Cronin.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES.

Time It! No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin"

If what you just ate is: souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will probably cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspepsia troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need laxatives or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

ECONOMY IN THE HOMES

Have Color in Your Cheeks—Be Better Looking—Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-go feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after-effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

HIGH STREET CHURCH

W. C. T. U. Will Hold Jubilee Tomorrow

Middlesex County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will observe the fortieth anniversary of its existence tomorrow, Saturday, with a jubilee, in High Street Congregational church, this city, the meeting opening at 10 a. m., and continuing all day.

The leading speaker will be Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens, the president of the National W. C. T. U., who will take for her subject, "Temperance Jubilees of Today, and Their Significance."

This is the first time Mrs. Stevens has spoken in this city, and there is much interest manifested in her for that reason.

The vice-president-at-large of the National will also be present and speak; she is Miss Anna A. Gordon, for so many years the companion and secretary of Frances E. Willard when she was the National president.

There will also be prominent speakers from our own state, among them Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, president of the Mass. W. C. T. U., Mrs. Susan S. Prescott, former president, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, acting president while Mrs. Stevenson made her trip around the world in 1909, and others who are well known to Massachusetts.

Hon. J. B. Lewis and Prof. John Nichols are expected, also Rev. Alfred Noon of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society and Arthur H. Davis of the Anti Saloon league.

The first meeting of the temperance women of Middlesex county was in Ayer, February 22, 1873, thus antedating the Crusade a few months, and from this meeting the W. C. T. U. came, and the first convention was in the same church in which this jubilee is to be held to celebrate the fortieth anniversary.

There has been but one president during these years, this being Mrs. Abby F. Rolfe, of Concord, who has ably filled the office. The secretary

EARLY TEACHING OF FRENCH

Credit is Given to Catholic Missionaries For the First Teaching of French in America by Bureau of Education

Credit is given to Catholic missionaries for the first teaching of French in America in a bulletin on modern languages just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. Dr. Handeschin, author of the bulletin, shows that even before the English settlements were fairly started, the Jesuits were bringing their language and civilization into the valleys of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi. In Louisiana French was first taught by the Ursuline nuns, who came from Rouen, France in 1727. In their convent schools they anticipated the demands of present day language teachers by inventing a method of teaching French and English but not only in theory, but practice, the pupils being required to converse daily in both languages.

French was a favorite subject in the private schools of Colonial days and later. Thomas Jefferson studied French in the school of a certain Mr. Douglas. In Franklin's "Academy of Philadelphia" it was taught as a private outside study until 1754, when a professor of French and German was appointed. In 1750 "The Boarding School (in Bethlehem, Pa.) for the Education of Young Misses" offered instruction in French, stating that "a lady well versed in this language, has arrived from Europe with the intention of giving lessons in the same." An extra charge of "five Spanish dollars per annum" was made for French.

In New England the early academies also taught French; frequently as an incidental study with a special fee attached. The numerous Ohio seminaries

MORE COMFORT STATION MONEY

Action Taken by Council—Nothing Doing on Estimates—Experts Bid on Auditing Job

In the absence of Mayor James E. O'Donnell, who is quite seriously ill at his home in Mt. Vernon street, Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett, president of the municipal council, presided at a meeting of the council held this afternoon. Because of the mayor's illness and the absence of Commissioner James E. O'Donnell, who went to Buffalo, N. Y., two days ago, to attend the funeral of a relative, the department estimates for the year were not taken up, though the meeting was originally called for that particular purpose.

The council took action on order to borrow $6,000 to complete the work on the comfort station and Commissioner Barrett submitted a list of bids from expert accountants for the examination of the financial books of the city.

Meetings of the municipal council, as a rule, begin anywhere from thirty minutes to one hour, and thirty minutes behind schedule time, but today's meeting was an exception and it was only a few minutes after two o'clock when Commissioner Barrett appeared to order.

The first business before the meeting was a petition from A. B. Wilson to keep and store gasoline and a hearing was set for March 15.

Personal Injury Notice

Lizzie O'Brien, through her attorney, gave notice of personal injury received by a fall opposite the Central fire station in Middle street. The matter was referred to the commissioner of public safety.

A petition from the Lowell Electric Light Corporation to attach its wires to poles of the N. E. T. and Tel. Co. opposite Linden street, was referred. A similar petition from the same corporation to attach wires to poles of the Bay Street Railway Co. in Varnum avenue was also referred.

Comfort Station Money

Michael Kilmartin petitioned the council to have the assessments on the property in Varnum avenue abated and the matter was referred to the commissioner of streets and highways.

The following sidewalk assessments were read and confirmed: Floyd street, 230; Fremont street, $77.60; Pine street, $91.93; Pawtucket street, $105.35 and Sawyer street, $105.35.

An order to borrow $20,000 and appropriate the same to complete work on the comfort station in Paige street, the bid sum to be paid in 10 annual payments and interest, was presented and on motion of Commissioner Cummings the city clerk was authorized to give the notice, and a hearing was set for March 1.

Accountants Name Terms

The annual report of the board of health for 1912 was received and accepted and placed on file.

Commissioner Brown presented a list of bids from expert accountants for the auditing of the city's books. He said Mr. Rex's bid was the lowest and at his point Commissioner Barrett asked him if he favored having the work done by Mr. Rex to which Mr. Brown replied that Mr. Rex was the lowest bidder.

Commissioner Barrett suggested that

MADERO, EX-PRESIDENT OF MEXICO, ORDERED TRIED FOR HIS LIFE

Not Permitted to See Members of Family—Wife Breaks Down—United States Objects to Execution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Francisco Madero, deposed president of Mexico, will not be rushed to jail put in a madhouse or summarily executed by Provisional President Huerta, according to reports today from Ambassador Wilson. Madero, the ambassador reports, will be given a fair trial and possibly his worst fate will be exile.

United States Objects Secretary Knox with the approval of President Taft had instructed Ambassador Wilson to convey to Huerta in diplomatic terms the intimation that the United States would seriously object to summary execution or sentence of Madero.

It was not felt here that the former president should be put out of the way for crimes which seemed purely political, without a fair and open trial. This view was made plain to Huerta, and the fact was not concealed that the United States looked with disfavor upon the shooting of Gustavo Madero, the president's brother.

The administration's attitude toward the provisional government in Mexico was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. President Taft and Mr. Knox have never believed, it is said, that Madero was a strong president for a republic sworn with revolution. They have believed, however, that he displayed many humane traits and that he is entitled to a fair trial.

COMMITTING TERRIBLE ATROCITIES

Christian Population of Tchatalja Massacred by Turkish Troops—Many Flee From Homes

SOPIA, Feb. 21.—The Turkish troops are perpetrating massacres and committing unspeakable atrocities on the Christian populations in the diocese of Tchatalja since the withdrawal of many of the Bulgarian troops from the front of the Turkish fortifications, according to a despatch from the Greek metropolitan of Tchatalja to the Bulgarian government today.

The prelate declares that the surviving Christian inhabitants are fleeing in great numbers from their homes. Telegrams have also been received from the dean of the consular corps and from the Greek metropolitan at Silivri announcing the massacre of over 100 men and women in the village of Konamnio.

FLIM-FLAM ARTIST IN LOWELL

Said He Was Soliciting Funds for Police Relief Assn. and Collected $25

Mr. John Scholes, a reed manufacturer in Hule's court, Lowell, was the victim of the wiles of a deceptive gentleman who gave the name J. A. Harris and who said that his address is 57 Pinkney street, Boston; and when the intercommunication between Mr. Scholes and the flim flam artist had ceased, the local manufacturer found that he was just $25 out and that the loss of the money had not even purchased that satisfaction which is generally supposed to accrue to him who contributes to a worthy cause.

A short time ago this Mr. Harris called upon Mr. Scholes and saying that he represented the Police Relief Association of Massachusetts, asked the gentleman to contribute something toward that organization. He left this address given above and suggested that Mr. Scholes mail a check for whatever amount he thought he could afford. Later when he received no reply and of course no contribution to the relief association of which he averred himself a representative, he once more called on the manufacturer and succeeded in performing an operation on the latter's pocketbook to the extent of $25.

The police of the city are puzzled over the affair and are endeavoring to gain some information regarding the work of the "skin game." They are of course aware of the fact that the relief organization does not authorize any one to go about soliciting for them. It is thought possible that the man may have "done" other Lowell people in this way, although no new complaints have as yet been registered.

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVANCE

Appropriate Exercises Held in Public Schools—Mill Operatives Will Enjoy Holiday

With the exception of grocery and dry goods stores tomorrow all business will be suspended throughout the city in order to observe the birthday of George Washington, who was the first president of the United States, and who by his fine administration was surmised the "Father of the U. S."

The local mill employees will enjoy a holiday, as the plants will all close this evening and will not reopen again until Monday morning.

The stores, however, will keep open house, as the jump from Friday to Monday is considered too much.

The law which provides a penalty of not less than $500 for any mill convicted of requiring its employees to work, except in emergency, on legal holidays, was passed in 1911.

JOHNNY DOHAN INJURED

His Match With Gilbert Gallant Called Off

Owing to the fact that Johnny Dohan of New York, who was scheduled to meet Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea in the main bout at tonight's meeting of the Lowell Social and Athletic club, met with an injury to his ankle while training, the match has been called off.

President Jimmy Gardner was notified of the accident today, and rather than substitute an inferior man and disappoint the members, he postponed the bout indefinitely.

The prelate declares that the surviving Christian inhabitants are fleeing in great numbers from their homes. Telegrams have also been received from the dean of the consular corps and from the Greek metropolitan at Silivri announcing the massacre of over 100 men and women in the village of Konamnio.

BOY KILLS HIS FRIEND

Revolver Pointed in Fun
Suddenly Explodes

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Frederick L. Evans, 17, was shot and killed last night by a bullet from a revolver that accidentally exploded in the hands of Harrison D. Dugan, 15, while the two were in the tailor shop of Adolph, 126 Pearl street, Somerville.

The bullet entered the center of young Evans' forehead, penetrating the brain. He was rushed to the Somerville hospital after receiving first treatment from Dr. Francis Knapp, but expired on the way. Dugan was taken to the police station and locked up, charged with murder. Frank Capozzi, who is employed in the tailor shop, was also locked up as a witness.

From what could be learned of the shooting it was purely an accident, and the father of the Evans boy is inclined to look upon it as such. When the revolver exploded and the Dugan lad saw his friend Evans fall over he fainted. When he regained consciousness and realized what had happened he begged those present not to tell his mother, as she is seriously ill.

The accident happened about 5.15. Young Evans went to the tailor shop of Adolph's, where he met Dugan. In the shop at the time was Capozzi, who is employed by Adolph. The Evans boy was sitting on the table near the front window. Dugan was walking around the shop, while Capozzi was engaged in pressing a suit.

Dugan saw a revolver on the shelf to the left of Capozzi. He picked it up and, it is said, pointed it in the direction of where the Evans boy was sitting. Without the slightest warning, the revolver exploded and Evans fell to one side, while blood rushed from his forehead.

Young Evans was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Evans of 6 Auburn avenue. He was in the eighth grade of the Edgerly school.

Boy Held in $1,000

SOMERVILLE, Feb. 21.—Harrison Dugan, who accidentally shot and killed his playmate, Fred L. Evans, yesterday, was arraigned in court today on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $1,000 for a further hearing on Feb. 25. Dugan is 15 years old and Evans was two years older. Dugan was playing with a revolver when it was discharged.

COOKERY FOR INVALID

Dishes That Are Very
Appetizing

Beat the white of one egg and yolk separately and then put them together and beat well, adding a pinch of salt. Pour into a cup and set the cup in a sauceman of hot water on the stove. Stir constantly until it is scalded, but not cooked. Set in the oven for a few minutes and serve. This should be cooked slowly. The egg thickens slightly, but pulls up until the cup is almost filled with a light, creamy custard.

Mutton Cutlet

Trim one small cutlet from the neck of the mutton, cutting away the skin at the end, and chop the mid of the bone off, so that there is just a neatly shaped cutlet. Season with salt and broil, turning it two or three times during the cooking. Serve on a very hot plate. A very little good brown gravy should be served with this cutlet.

Apple and Rice Pudding

Boil one dessertspoonful of rice in a wineglass of milk, having washed the rice well. When quite tender add a teaspoonful of sugar. Peel, core and slice one medium sized apple and put in a steupan with a small piece of butter, a teaspoonful of water and a little more sugar and stir until tender. When the apple is cooked place it in a pie dish. Beat up the egg and mix it with the rice and pour over the apple. Bake for about ten minutes in a warm oven and serve. Always remember that many invalids cannot eat for their meals if they see a quantity of food, and they often have more appetite if their meals are daintily served to them apart from the household.

NEW LINERS DANCED

Tripped the Light Fantastic at Draught Grange Hall—More Good Times Coming

Two dozen and one young men, who are known to their friends as the New Liners, held a dancing party at the Draught Grange last evening. It was the first of a series of semi-monthly parties which they are contemplating conducting, and, if the good time which the young people enjoyed last night be any criterion, it was a success. Although the floor space was taxed to its capacity, the many score of young couples who glided over the wax floor pleasure in every corner of the dancing. The music which was on the stage. The music with which this well known group of players regaled the young folks was selected with fine taste and rendered with exquisite rhythm. When the last note from the orchestra had died away and the last steps of the dancers had ceased, the members of the party returned to their homes with the feeling that they had passed the pleasantest evening for many and many a day.

Bathrobe Embroidery on Summer Dresses

White bathrobe embroidery will be greatly used for this season's summer gowns, made up with plain white bathrobe. For this purpose the embroidery comes in two distinct bandings of all widths and is mostly sold by the strip, which is four and a half yards. In a five-inch width this costs about $1 a yard, though a ten or 12-inch width is more often chosen. It is very open in design, and the majority of patterns are conventional. It is charmingly feminine and soft and a great relief after the coarse, hard lines of last season, which were so often referred to as "curtain lace." Colored cotton crepe dress patterns with apple blossom design embroidered in white are to be had for 45 cents.

Woman Dying in Hospital Identified

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The mystery surrounding the young woman known as Grace McKnight, who is dying at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was partially cleared yesterday afternoon when it was learned that the young woman was taken to the hospital from the Charles street jail, where she had been serving a term for drunkenness.

In a semi-conscious state she is unable to give them the information they desire and as a last resort the hospital authorities have called on the police to aid them.

From the first all kinds of mystery surrounded the case. It was said that the young woman had lived in a lodging house at 31 Warren street.

Investigation showed that there is no

Despondent Women Made Cheerful

When a woman who is subject to sick headaches improves her general health the sick headaches disappear altogether. Anything which tends to lower the "tone" of the body operates to bring on an attack when the system is "tired up" the attacks lose their severity.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure sick and nervous headache by toning up the system. When the thin woman gains in weight, gets color in her cheeks and lips, when her appetite improves and a hearty meal brings no remorse, she need not fear sick headache. This is what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. They build up the blood and should be used as a tonic between attacks.

As a rule a sufferer from sick headache can tell hours, sometimes days, in advance, when the headache is coming on. This fact makes it possible to use a laxative at the approach of an attack to expel the poison from the system and to prevent or moderate the severity of the attack.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, has been designed to be used with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the cure of this disease. A sample of Pinklets and a booklet on the treatment of sick headache will be sent free upon request.

The treatment of sick headache with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the preventive laxative treatment with Pinklets before an expected attack is all that can be done, as the stomach will not tolerate medicine during an attack.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, by the

GASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS.

NO HEADACHE, BAD TASTE, SOUR STOMACH OR COATED TONGUE BY MORNING

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset your feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

31 Warren street.
Late yesterday afternoon it was discovered that the woman up to three weeks ago had resided in a lodging house on Warren avenue. At that time it is said she attempted to take her life by jumping from the window and was saved only by the arrival of one of the officers from Station 5. She was arrested and on Jan. 31 sentenced to one month at Charles street jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Under the advice of Dr. Cilley, the jail physician, she was taken to the hospital.

When Mrs. McKnight was received at the jail her mind was not very clear as to her past life. She said that she was married and that her birthplace was Manchester, N. H.

She further stated that her father was a native of the same place and that her mother had been born in Portland, Me.

During the investigation yesterday in the South End it was discovered that a girl by the name of Whitney had married a man by the name of McKnight and that the couple separated some time ago. The husband, it is said, is at present in South America.

The hospital authorities have sent out telegrams to everyone they think might help in locating the relatives of the girl, but up to late last night no answers had been obtained.

Mrs. McKnight is about 35 years old and has worked at different times as a waitress in down town restaurants. At one time she worked in a Boston laundry.

THEATRE PARTY

Local Members of Knights of Columbus Attended Performance at Opera House Last Night

A theatre party composed of local members of the Knights of Columbus attended the performance of the Long-run Players at the Opera House last night and presented Stewart Fox with a handsome floral offering at the end of the third act of "The Man From Home." Miss Julia Booth, the popular leading woman of the company was also the recipient of a handsome floral offering during the performance.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

A membership frolic is being planned for Saturday evening, February 22, at 7:30. The home girls are to entertain and are advertising a cordial invitation to all the members, friends and games are being planned and a pantomime entitled "Wanted—A Wife," will be given.

A rousing talk will be given Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Miss Annie Ridgeway. Miss Alice Handley will be the soloist.

The basketball team will go after another victory Saturday afternoon when they play a team at Leominster.

CHAUFFEURS MET

The Lowell Branch of the Chauffeurs Federation of America held its regular meeting last night with President Cote presiding and several important matters were discussed. Plans were completed for the smoke talk and open house to friends and brother chauffeurs and this event will be held on Feb. 27. Preparations are also in progress for the fourth annual ball which is to take place on April 17. Everything points to a big success of this event. A social hour and smoke talk closed the meeting last evening.

Notes From the Y. M. C. A.

The High School Bible class at the Y. M. C. A. will hold a supper and entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. hall tonight at 6 o'clock. Rev. A. C. Ferrin will be the speaker of the evening and a good time is expected by the boys.

Plans are under way at the gymnasium for a bowling league and pool tournament to be held in the near future. All members wishing to take part in either are requested to leave their names at the office.

It is expected that a good basketball game will be played at the gym, tomorrow afternoon when the employed boys will play a team from the Lynn Y. M. C. A.

Graggers from Neighboring Towns Enjoy Fine Entertainment at Odd Fellows Hall

By far, the grandest affair of the season by the Chelmsford granges, was given last evening the Odd Fellows hall in Central square before a large audience representing granges from all the surrounding towns. The entertainment which was open for the public was largely composed of singing styles from the landing of the pilgrims to the present day. The program which was prepared by the worthy lecturer, Miss Eliza Spaulding, was as follows and was somewhat changed from the original:

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resorted themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless. The following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also an equal for restoring gray hair to its original color. It stops the hair from falling out, and destroying the hair root germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist. Buy Run. 6 ounces. Lavender Compound, 2 ounces. Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish to perfect your hair, add half a teaspoonful of Kalaon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

Automobile Repairing
A large number of industrial school students from Chelmsford Centre attended the last lecture of the evening course in automobile repairing which was given by the instructor, Mr. Lester at the Lowell Industrial school recently.

The subject was "The Construction and Operation of the Electric Automobile." A final examination in this course was held afterwards.

A number of entertainments are being arranged by various parties who will present them after the Lenten season. St. John's Catholic society will give a drama entitled "The Lion and the Mouse" at the North Chelmsford town hall.

The several high schools in town are preparing for dances to be given. The Mothers' club will give a social at the Chelmsford Boy Scouts' headquarters.

advantage to the people of the United States." The affirmative speakers were Messrs. Ralph Bickford and Charles Lougee. Those on the negative side were Messrs. Samuel Naylor and James Deek. As both sides were very well informed on the parcel post system some very good arguments were put forth, giving many new ideas to the public. Following the debate an enjoyable entertainment was given, in which the talented pianist, Miss Mary Dennelly, took part. The society is now rehearsing for a minstrel show to be given in the near future. Rehearsals are at the home of Mr. Ralph Bickford.

Many people in town recently attended the lecture given under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association in Grafton hall, Lowell.

Mr. Hideoout of Concord Junction, the brother of the substitute in the ninth grade and high school, Miss Gertrude Hideoout, was entertained yesterday afternoon.

The school committee spent yesterday in examining the school registers and reports in all the rooms.

MY FOURTH ANNIVERSARY

$5.00 TROUSERS FREE

When I opened my Lowell store on the 13th day of February, 1909, I made the people certain promises. As my anniversary rolls around each year, I like to recall those promises publicly so that you may judge as to whether or not I have departed from them during the past year. I look upon my anniversary also as a good occasion upon which to renew those promises for the year to come, so that old customers have always the positive assurance of getting at least as good service as that which pleased them so much in the past. To old and new customers alike, there is always the implied promise of the additional improved service that time must bring to every progressive business.

AS I START MY FIFTH YEAR in the city of Lowell, it is gratifying to me to know—

That I have stayed in Lowell four years at least, with further indefinite stay guaranteed, as I promised.

That I did not fizzle out in three months, six months or a year, as my competitors predicted from time to time, as I outlived their first and shorter guesses.

That I am still a live advertiser, able to use and able to pay for the same generous space I used when I opened in Lowell.

That the time did not come when the people would be so painfully aware of the impossibility of my promises, as predicted by competitors, that I could not get enough responses to pay for the ink the publishers used in those advertisements. I believe every merchant should be a newspaper advertiser. The bigger newspaper I help to make, the bigger city I help to make Lowell. I shall continue to do my share in making bigger newspapers.

That I am still giving the same beautiful worsteds, style and quality, that competitors said four years ago I would give only a short time, to get the people coming to me.

That I still have such confidence in my ability to fit you that I still can afford to make you a new suit every time my help make a mistake on anything you buy in my store.

AS A TOKEN OF MY REGARD—AS A MEMENTO OF THE HAPPY OCCASION OF MY ANNIVERSARY—AS AN INDUCEMENT TO THE OLD CUSTOMER TO FORCE HIS ORDER EARLIER, AND TO THE NEW CUSTOMER TO GIVE ME A TRIAL, I WILL GIVE EACH CUSTOMER ORDERING A SUIT THIS WEEK

mentary teachers $100, was read by the superintendent.

The applications of Katherine C. Early and Mary C. Flemings, to be placed on the list of teachers for Lowell, was referred to the committee on teachers. They passed the examination in a previous year, and have since had experience in teaching elsewhere.

Her Work Finished

Mr. Molloy read a letter from Principal Irish of the high school, notifying him that the teaching of delinquents, for which Miss Quirbach was appointed, is finished.

Mr. Thompson thought that the matter needed no action. Her work having been completed, it was the duty of the superintendent to drop the teacher from the list.

Mr. Farrington protested, and called for the reading of the records of the October meeting.

It was shown by the records, that Miss Quirbach was appointed by Dr.

O'Connor, then chairman of the high school committee, a temporary teacher in the high school.

Mr. Thompson moved, and Mr. Campbell seconded, that the superintendent be instructed to drop the teacher in question, inasmuch as the work for which she was appointed has ceased.

Mr. Farrington objected. He said he thought Miss Quirbach was appointed to take care of delinquents, and also to teach backward pupils. If, out of 1300 pupils, there were no backward ones, he thought our high school an exceptional one.

Mr. Thompson said that there are backward pupils, and neither the master of the high school nor the superintendent had said there were not. But Miss Severance, an elected teacher, is taking care of the backward pupils.

Mr. Farrington maintained that Miss Severance was not elected for that purpose, and that up to a week or two ago she has not done that work.

Mr. Molloy, being called upon, explained the schedule of work so far as he was able, and on the motion he put, it was voted to instruct the superintendent to drop the teacher, Mr. Farrington alone voting no.

Some New Suggestions

The superintendent put before the committee some of the matters which will consider. They include a definite plan for the housing of school children for several years to come; a system of penmanship in the schools; and the teaching of cooking, and girls' handwork.

Mr. Molloy recommended a corps of elementary grade teachers to be gotten together, who may be regarded as experts along the line of teaching writing. A special instructor in writing, he said, is not a necessary part of the plan, as the work will be done by the regular teachers. He also recommended a similar plan in the system of teaching, sewing or other handwork to girls. He thought, too, that a beginning might be made in cooking, and in some kind of handwork for boys. In the cooking department, the plant at the Industrial school could be used for the instruction of a corps of grade teachers. He hoped that the committee would be able to take up the matter of penmanship, especially so that the system could be organized and go into general operation in September.

Electees Unanimous

Under new business the committee then proceeded to elect a successor to William H. Dooley of the Industrial school, and to advance Mr. Seade to Mr. Fisher's position in the high school, as principal of the manual training department. The vote on these matters was unanimous, without discussion.

The proposition, made by Mr. Thompson, for putting the old typewriters in the high school in use in grammar schools, was referred to the committee on supplies.

Mr. Farrington raised the question of the possession of a certificate by Mr. Dakin, appointed temporarily to the advancement of Mr. Seade and it was voted to issue to Mr. Dakin the necessary certificate.

Adjourned.

HEAVY STORM IN CHICAGO

Wires Torn Down and Traffic Delayed

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—A rain and sleet storm began early this morning and the streets and sidewalks were soon covered with a coating of ice. Traffic was delayed on every surface and elevated line in the city.

It was reported that hundreds of telegraph wires leading north, south and west were down. Mails were from one to three hours late on a number of railroads.

Many minor accidents were reported.

Denounces Militants

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Millicent Fawcett, president of the National Union of Women's Suffrage societies, and one of the best known workers in the cause, delivered a speech this afternoon strongly denouncing the militant suffragists. She described their tactics as detestable outrages, harmful to their aims. Such crimes, she declared, would be excusable only among savages and were really a serious menace to civilization.

BATTLE AVERTED WIFE'S FRIEND SHOT MAN

Disposition of $10,- Merchant Gave Blood to 100,000 Estate Save Child

STANTON, Va., Feb. 21.—Luther B. Bosserman, a merchant here, lies in a critical condition in a hospital as the result of bullet wounds inflicted by A. D. Worth, a hotel clerk.

Returning to his home yesterday, Bosserman found Worth in the company of his wife. When he saw Bosserman, Worth drew a revolver and fired four shots, two of them taking effect. Worth was arrested, as also was Mrs. Bosserman, the latter as an accessory.

Last week Bosserman, in a vain endeavor to save the life of his only child, submitted to a blood transfusion operation. It is feared that owing to Bosserman's weakened condition from the loss of blood from the operation, his wounds may prove fatal.

Worth was appointed guardian of the child by President Taft, but died as he was about to sail for France.

TEWKSBURY

A Colonial party was held last evening in the vestry hall, a beautiful supper being served in the vestry from 6 to 8, followed by a farce in which the older members of the Embroidery club, assisted by H. J. Patten, Willard Henderson, George Miller and Franklin Spaulding gave "A Doll's Tea Party."

Miss Maud Gosling and Helen Patten delighted those present with their little Dutch dance, carrying out the Dutch idea in dress, even to the Dutch shoes. H. J. Patten sang three songs and made a hit as usual, as did Mr. Henderson as a sailor boy. George Miller gave a song which was appreciated and Franklin Spaulding made a remarkable "Lily" doll, even to the fascinating cry which he emitted at regular intervals. After this part of the entertainment refreshments were served and then an old fashioned sing was held. The costumes were quaint and added greatly to the success of the evening. A goodly sum was taken in at the door.

HELP FOR WORKING GIRLS

Two Girls Tell Story of Their Illness and How They Found Relief.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 15 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 613 Seventh Street, New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because my periods were suppressed and I had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."

—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 119 Thwing St., Saint Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

We challenge anyone to name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CHANNING COX TO SPEAK

House Leader to Address Board of Trade

Fortune still continues to smile upon the officials of the Lowell board of trade in the selection of the speaker for the midwinter meeting and banquet of the members and Mr. Channing Cox of the house of representatives of Massachusetts will be among those who will address the gathering on Monday evening in Assenote hall. Mr. Cox, who is the senior member of the house, is well known throughout the state and elsewhere as an accomplished orator and he is sure to have a treat in store for those who are present to hear him.

From the number who have already signified their intention of attending the event, an attendance of at least 400 is expected and it is quite probable that the number will be even larger than that figure. All notifications of intentions of being present should be mailed early this evening so as to be delivered tomorrow evening. The reception will start at six o'clock and the banquet at half past six sharp.

Recall of Police Judge

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Perhaps the first instance of a judicial recall election initiated entirely by women is expected to follow the announcement made here yesterday that a recall petition has been filed against Police Judge Charles E. Weller. The city registrar has ten days in which to ascertain if the number of petitioners is adequate and if it is the election will be held within 25 days after certification to this effect. The campaign against Judge Weller was started after he had reduced the bond of a man charged with an offense against a woman.

The man ran away.

Bowling Tournament

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 21.—The final arrangements for the opening tomorrow night of the 13th annual tournament of the American bowling congress were completed today. Secretary Langtry says the official list of prizes will be made up next week after the meeting of the executive committee. Thus far Peoria, Ill., is the only city that has put in a bid for the tournament in 1914.

Regulate Steamship Companies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Bernard Baker of Baltimore before the house shipping investigating committee today advocated an international conference to devise regulations for steamship companies. He favored legislation of shipping pools and elimination of rebates and he suggested divorcing railroads from water lines in the coastwise shipping traffic.

Princes to Start Training

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Prince Joachim, the sixth son of Emperor William, Prince Sigismund, son of Prince Henry of Prussia, the emperor's brother, and Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia will shortly begin active training in track and field athletics. The three young princes have just become members of the Berlin Sport club and this is taken as an indication of the interest shown by the imperial family in the next Olympic games, which are to be held in Berlin.

Government Refuses Settlement

BOGOTO, Colombia, Feb. 21.—The newspapers here today declare that the Colombian government has refused the settlement of the dispute between the United States and Colombia over the petition of Panama which was offered by the United States government. It was asserted that Colombia expects to get better terms at Washington.

March With Suffragists

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—From all appearances it will be nip and tuck March 2 whether the perturbed and perspiring sergeant-at-arms of the senate and house will be able to keep a quorum in congress during the passage of the suffragist procession on that day. A number of leading members of both branches, according to a statement circulated today at the national suffragist headquarters, announced that they would march in the parade "even if they had to hide from their representative sergeants-at-arms to do so."

Among those quoted as having made the declaration are Senator Poinsett of Washington and Rep. Victor Mendenhall of Kansas.

Wilson Made Trip to Dentist

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—President-elect Wilson made what he hoped to be his last trip to his dentist here before his inauguration. The governor was asked if the dentist talked politics to him.

"Yes," replied the governor, "but I never in a position to answer."

Mr. Wilson expects to be in the dentist's chair three hours, leaving for New York to attend the theatre with a friend. He had no engagements scheduled for the day.

BODY TO BE EXHUMED

For the Identification of Child

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—Deep grief came to one family and ecstasies of joy to another here today when a mixup in the identity of two children who had been sent to the Municipal hospital suffering from scarlet fever, was straightened out. Yesterday a family named Kaufman refused to accept a three-year-old child turned over to them because it was not their little girl. An investigation followed and today the hospital authorities sent for a mother who had been notified two weeks ago that her daughter had died. When she saw the child sent to the Kaufman family yesterday she instantly recognized it as her daughter and her joy knew no bounds. Two weeks ago she buried a child that was turned over to her in a sealed coffin. The parents of the Kaufman child have visited the hospital and after looking at all the children there did not recognize any of them as their daughter. The hospital authorities are now convinced the dead child is the Kaufman girl, but the body will be exhumed for positive identification.

Special Sale

As the Spring season is about upon us I have decided to dispose of all of my TRIMMED HATS at great bargain prices.

Trimmed Hats that sold all season for $3, $4 and $5, reduced to ..... 98c

Velours, worth $6.00 to $9.00, reduced to ..... $2.50 and $4.50

Also left over Felt Hats, untrimmed, that were 98c, now 25c

Pattern Hats, beautifully trimmed, to go at about 1-4 the regular prices, $2.98 and $3.98,

These hats, as everybody knows, are of the latest design and the best material, and were always considered low priced before this remarkable mark-down. We are unable to find room to carry these goods over, so that accounts for the wonderful reduction in price.

THE BALANCE OF OUR OSTRICH FEATHERS IN COLORS WILL BE SOLD FOR LESS THAN ONE-HALF THEIR REGULAR PRICES

Our Mourning Goods are the best to be seen in our city, for we have always made a specialty of this line of goods, and our exhibit is well worth anybody's time and attention.

Our PATTERN HATS of which we propose to dispose at this sale are actually going at the lowest prices ever offered by any dealer in this city.

The latter part of this week we are going to New York to select our spring goods, and we are more than desirous to make a complete clean-up of our present stock. This is a bona fide sale and means a wonderful saving for every lady in the city and suburbs who wishes to take advantage of it. Call and see us whether you wish to buy or not.

FIVE ALARMS FOR BOSTON FIRE

40 Streams Played on Burning Building—Elevated Tied Up for 3 Hours

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Boston's fire department had its hardest fight in months last night in the fire that gutted the big warehouse of Braman, Dow & Co. at the corner of Causeway and Medford streets in the lower part of the city.

This made the fire the biggest in point of apparatus, if not the largest, since the Albany street fire of nearly three years ago.

James, bursting through the roof, so seriously threatened the buildings across Medford street that the fifth alarm was ordered by Chief Mullen, and for a time the firemen were obliged to turn a large part of their efforts to shielding those other buildings with a curtain of water.

Pipe Works, composed of Henry A. Barrett, Harry W. Barrett and Frank M. Sheldon, who is general manager. They would not estimate the value of their stock on hand, but they carried insurance of $300,000.

That was at 6:52, five minutes later Chief Fox, who with Dist. Chief Fox, had responded to the first alarm, sounded the second, and in another minute came the third. Chief Taylor also called up the Boston firemen and notified them to cut out the service on the elevated structure on Causeway street.

At that time the fire had mounted high up through the building, and great sheets of flame were belching out into Causeway street. There an elevated train was standing, waiting for the signal to take the switch to the track to Charlestown, and the flames, coming so near as almost to scorch the paint, terrified the passengers and rendered some of the women almost hysterical.

Not until 7:30 was the fourth alarm given. In the meantime the firemen had been pouring water in from lines of hose on Causeway and Medford streets and from two water towers on the latter street. They had also taken hose up to the elevated structure and by long ropes had raised lines of hose to the roof of the tall Kearney Square building across Medford street.

The fire damage will probably not exceed $250,000, being confined to the one building, but to limit it to that required five alarms, bringing no less than 19 engines and three fireboats, and the flooding of the building for more than three hours with great quantities of water.

Forty Streams Required More than an hour and a quarter after the first alarm was sounded the Oil and Gasoline Feed Flames The building is a five-story brick structure, about 160 feet long and 35 feet deep, covering 13,245 square feet. It is owned by the James P. Thorndike estate, C. B. Wheelock and other trustees, and its assessed valuation was $54,000.

Elevated Train in Danger Ho ran to the fire alarm box at the corner of Causeway and Holyoke streets and met Joseph A. Verkumpen, Flame Nearly Crosses Street From Beverly street roofs, from the building at 20 and 24 Medford street and from the roofs of the tall factory buildings across Causeway street they poured water on the flames.

Needed reinforcements came with the arrival of the fireboats—beginning at 4:44 and then 4:45 and 4:46, which tied up near the Warren bridge, and from which big lines of hose were carried to the fire.

The back of the building and the end on Medford street were protected with 24-inch brick fire walls, and through these there was no danger of the fire spreading.

The firemen were able to drive the flames back from the windows on Causeway and Medford streets, so that there was at first little fear of spreading on those sides either, but the interior of the building was all flame, so that the firemen dared not fight it on the inside but had to be content with flooding it from without.

The greatest danger came when at 8:15 the flames burst through the roof. Until then, though the streets were thick with smoke, there was little flame to be seen, and it appeared almost as if the fire were under control. Then it blazed high. The wind drove the flames half way across narrow Medford street and sparks rained down on the buildings opposite.

Many Buildings Wet Down On the other side of the street was the nine-story Kearney's building, and next to it the lower building occupied by Thomas Ward, dealer in paper stock. Although both of these buildings are of brick, the Kearney's building also having a tar and gravel roof, the firemen covered the fronts of both with water, and only some of the corners were burned.

A large ladder truck and some other apparatus was forced out of Medford street by the outburst of flames.

On the other side of the buildings, however, on Beverly street, the buildings were of no such durable construction. Next to the Kearney's building a wooden one-story structure, occupied as a tobacco store, and on the corner of Beverly street was another wooden building, also unoccupied.

On Beverly street is the wooden stable of Joseph Myers, and next to the wooden hay and grain store of the Witley Grain Company. Next to that come two brick loft buildings, the first occupied by the Triumph Coach Bed Co. and other concerns, and the second by A. B. Kenney & Co., and other firms.

Although the wind was happily blowing the other way, the firemen kept the roofs of all these buildings, and especially of the wooden buildings, well soaked with water.

Next to the burning building on Medford street is a brick building occupied by G. W. Buckland, the Kensington Engineering Company, the Paris Paper Box Company and the J. O. Chase Confectionery Company. The roof of this was also well wet down, but there was comparatively little danger.

Sparks Fire Roof of Gasometer The only fire caused by the sparks was on the roof of the old gasometer on Causeway street, at the foot of Hull street. This was ignited by the command of the U. S. S. Chicago, and he sent his orderly with the information to Chief Mullen. A chemical engine was dispatched to the gasometer and the fire quickly disposed of.

The occupants of the Kearney's square building, though for a time in great danger, suffered no fire loss, but did suffer heavily with water. The engine in the basement, as well as the rooms of the state forester, of H. B. Smith, dealers in radiators, and of Sullivan & Daley, plumbers' supplies, were filled several feet deep with water.

Other concerns on the Medford street side of that building, which lost more or less from smoke damage, were the King-Petres Company, electrotypers, in the top floor; the Touraine Confectionery Company on the eighth; Tichner Bros. on the seventh; the municipal printing plant on the sixth; the New England Balneol Company, one of the firms of which the employees are now on strike on the fifth; the Emerson Apparatus Company and other firms on the fourth; the American Water Supply Company on the third and second, and Sullivan & Daley on the first.

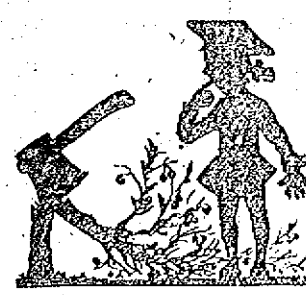

Water damage, however, was widespread for the flood of water poured into the building came out into the street in such quantities that the sewers could not take it away and filled Causeway street above its sidewalks for a block, besides flooding adjacent cellars on Medford and Beverly streets.

Roofs and Floors Crash Down At 8:15 the roof of the building fell in and from that time on the fire was largely under control, though still so dangerous as to keep all the apparatus occupied. During the next hour one floor fell after another, crashing down heavily with its great weight of iron and brass fixtures.

The press of engines, the dense smoke, the falling class and the greater danger of falling walls made it necessary to hold the crowds far back, and Causeway street was roped across from the sides of Beverly street and Washington street north farthest from the fire. Medford street, Beverly street and Washington street north were closed between Causeway and Trenchard streets, and the operation of the surface cars as well as that of the elevated was thus impeded.

Fully 100 police officers were employed guarding the fire under command of Sergts. Donovan and McTiernan of the Hanover street station. From that station every man available was summoned, and there were details also from stations 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12.

TOM M'NAMARA, CRACK BOSTON GOLFER,
PLANS TO PLAY IN TWENTY TOURNAMENTS

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Tom McNamara, the Boston professional golfer, who, with Michael J. Brady of Wollaston, will play in the British open championship and in France, is now in the south to play in a score of tournaments and in special matches. He will play in the north and south professional meeting at Pinehurst, and opposed to him will be many of the crack northern "pros" who have winter berths in the south and those who have made the journey to Pinehurst for the competition. Last year Mr. McNamara won this winter classic. Later McNamara will journey to Florida, and several matches will be arranged between him and some of the old guard. Brady will join McNamara in Florida, and the two will go to Cuba. The campaign on southern and Cuban courses will last about six weeks. J. J. McDermott, the American open champion, may meet McNamara and Brady in Florida. The three will leave the United States in May for England. Six weeks of steady playing ought to have the "pro" going in splendid form before he starts abroad.

Lowell to the front. The grammar school relay teams have been running relays of two hundred yards at the high school meets during the winter. Until recently the distance for the younger boys has been a hundred yards instead of two and the question arises whether the youngsters can stand the longer route or not. If the older boys are not allowed to run a three lap race on the high school track what becomes of the grammar school boys to run two hundred yards?

Hugh Duffy will go to Portland tonight for a final conference with the Portland aldermen and the board of trade. The latter have already opened negotiations for a ball park for Duffy's team and it is expected that a satisfactory agreement will be reached shortly. Duffy has certainly not jumped at any conclusions in the matter of a location. He wants to be shown just where the greatest number of fans reside before he makes a definite answer.

LURICH BREAKS ARM

Match With Zbysko Declared No Contest

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The match between Stanislaus Zbysko and George Lurich to determine who was to be the next opponent of Champion Frank Gotch, was declared to be no contest, when, after 46 minutes 50 seconds of wrestling, the two men crashed to the mat with Lurich underneath. Apparently the full weight of the two wrestlers, amounting to more than 450 pounds, was thrown on the right elbow of the Russian, which struck the mat and snapped, breaking the tip from his elbow and tearing the ligaments of the arm loose from the bone.

Match Very Even

Up to the time of the accident the match had progressed very evenly. Zbysko doing most of the offensive work, but neither man taking any great chances. The two held each other, and was made frequent use of by Zbysko, but with little effect upon Lurich, who kicked himself free from the dangerous hold sometimes almost as soon as it was applied. Once, when the men had been wrestling for about 40 minutes, Lurich secured this hold, and made Zbysko lie the canvas so great was the agony produced. How the burly Pole over-managed to escape is hard to tell, but he finally managed to kick himself free and both men came to their feet to start all over again.

Wrestled Cautiously

They were up and down a dozen times after this until the end of the contest, but nothing remarkable was accomplished by either man. Just before the end came, Zbysko arose, lifting his opponent by the leg and body, while Lurich threw his arm around the Pole's neck. The men toppled over and fell together, Zbysko uppermost and Lurich falling on his right elbow producing the fracture. In the first bout Joe Terrell of Boston held Peter Goulette of Worcester for a space of 30 minutes. The latter had contracted to throw the Boston boy inside the time. The semi-final was won in straight falls by Cyclone Burns of Cambridge from Haydar Yousof of Turkey. The first fall came in 15 minutes 12 seconds, as the result of a front body and scissor hold, while the second was accomplished in 5 minutes 4 seconds, from a far arm and clutch hold.

DIAMOND NOTES

The signed contract of Frank Metz, champion batsman of the Texas league, was received the other day by Secretary Nickerson of the Boston Nationals. Metz last year, as a member of the San Antonio club, batted for 223 in the 112 games he took part in last season. Metz went to bat 530 times, scoring 56 runs and making 171 hits for a total of .311 average. He made 23 two-baggers, seven three-baggers and 21 home runs, stole 22 bases, made one sacrifice hit and chatted sacrifice flies. He struck out 12 times and drew 41 bases on balls.

President Navin has notified the four Tigers holding Gold Crutcher, Dubuque and Starnes, that the need not report for the spring training trip unless they have signed their contracts, and that if they try to carry over from last year's deal, they will have to take the consequences, which means a suspension without pay until they get into condition.

"The time for a showdown is almost here," he said, "for the Tigers are due in camp next Monday. It is just as determined as ever not to grant a single demand that has been made. If any of them care to sign their contracts within a couple of weeks and report, that will be all right. If they hold out until late, and are not in condition to play respectable ball, they will be a bitter awakening for them."

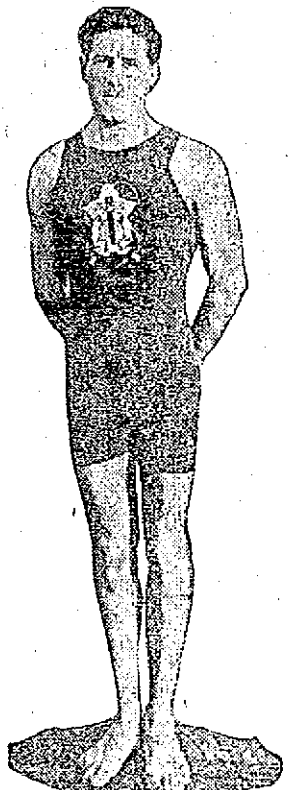

The baseball wheel makes some funny turns. Five years ago, in September, 1908, Al Bridwell made a hit against the Cubs that would have won the pennant for the Chicago team. Johnny Evers detected Fred Merkle's neglecting to touch second base. Roger Bresnahan tumbled on the same ground with Bridwell and neither to say neither Al nor Roger had much use for Evers at that time.

Now Bridwell will be called upon to fill Joe Terrell's shoes as assistant to Evers around the second base for the Cubs, and Al is delighted with the opportunity. Roger Bresnahan will act as Evers' first baseman in trying to put the Cubs in the race next season.

TO SWIM THE CHANNEL

Capt. Schlomberg Will Attempt It

Captain Ben. F. Schlomberg of Jonesboro, Ga., is now at Palm Beach, Fla., in training for an attempt to swim the English channel in May.

CAPTAIN SCHLOMBERG

To Meet Freddy Welsh
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—Young Jack O'Brien of this city was matched by cable yesterday to meet Fred Welsh, lightweight champion of England, in a 20 round bout at Pontiprid, Wales, on April 2. Eugene Cora of the National Sporting Club, London, will referee. A purse of $7,500, with a privilege of 60 per cent. of the gross receipts, 75 per cent. to the winner has been offered for the fight, which will be at the new English lightweight limit 155 pounds.

Joe Tucker, the new manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, believes that Mordecai Brown, the former star pitcher of the Cubs, now a member of the Reds will greatly strengthen the Cincinnati pitching department this year. Joe says that Brown is not all in by any means. He adds that Brown's poor showing last summer was due to a bad knee, from which he has fully recovered. Tucker also says that Brown's coaching to the young pitchers alone is worth the salary paid.

Overall May Quit Again
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—Overall will not sign the contract sent to him by Manager Evers of the Chicago Nationals and it required to rejoin Chicago he will remain out of baseball, according to a statement he made last night. Overall said he would play during the coming season if Evers would trade him to some other team. Otherwise he would remain in Los Angeles.

World's Record at Billiards
DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 21.—John Layton, of St. Louis, in a match game with C. Lawson, yesterday broke the world's record under the new style of scoring in pocket billiards by making a high run of 78. The former record of 74 was held by Morton Phillips of Chicago.

Blues Defeated Greens
The Blue team won the basketball game from the Green team in the C. Y. M. L. tournament last night by the score of 18 to 8. Captain Flynn of the winning team was the individual star of the game caging six baskets from the floor. The contest was closely fought throughout and was very interesting to a spectator's standpoint.

The line-up:
Blues—P. Flynn, Sargent, E. Flynn, Reynolds, J. Leavitt, J. Quinn.
Greens—L. Flory, K. Lively, J. Mahon, J. Randall, P. Flynn, B. Flynn, E. Flynn, J. Leavitt, J. Quinn. Time—Two 20-minute halves. Referee, McDermott; scorer, Clark; timer, C. Kelley.

MAN PERISHED IN FIRE

James Long Was Burned to Death

One Man With Suffragists

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Only one man aside from the train crew will ride on the special which will carry the Illinois suffragists to the March parade in Washington. The women hesitated for some time before making this concession but finally were convinced that there would be some duties to perform which would require the services of a man. The man will be utilized to shine shoes and perform all the menial tasks necessary. Girls will take the place of porters on the sleepers and in the dining car.

GIFTS TO TAFT AND WIFE

Reception at the White House Tonight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A magnificent set of pearl studs for President Taft and a diamond necklace of pure white stones for Mrs. Taft will be presented to them at the White House tonight as farewell gifts from a circle of close friends which the Tafts have made during their long residence at the national capital. The president and Mrs. Taft will give their last formal entertainment at the White House, a dinner, to be followed by a musicale and the presentation will be made then.

Thomas to Meet Sullivan

Joe Thomas, of this city, has been matched to meet Tunny Sullivan of Lawrence in the main bout at next Thursday night's meeting of the Unity club in Lawrence. The bout is scheduled to go 12 rounds. Thomas is in great condition and feels confident that he will stop the Lawrence boy before the limit is reached.

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVANCE

the said law mills might remain open without requiring their employees to work, but some of the mill men are of the opinion that the fact that mills are open is evidence that employees are required to work, and in order to avoid all possible conflict with the law it was deemed advisable to shut down.

The law affecting mills and factories is Chapter 151, Acts of 1911, which reads as follows:

Section 1.—No employee shall be required to work in any mill or factory on any legal holiday, except to perform such work as is both absolutely necessary and can lawfully be performed on the Lord's day.

Section 2.—Whoever violates the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Postoffice

The clerks and carriers at the local postoffice will be given a half holiday tomorrow. The office will be open from 8 to 10 a. m., while the carriers will make one delivery in the forenoon.

School Programs

In order to impress upon the minds of the school children the qualities of George Washington as a statesman and a warrior, exercises were held in all the local schools today.

Some of the programs were quite elaborate.

At the Green School exercises were carried out in each room, as the hall is occupied by two class rooms; likewise the Greenhedge, Bartlett and other schools. Fine programs were carried out and enjoyed at the Washington and Varuna schools. The programs:

Polburn School

The exercises for Washington's birthday were held in the class rooms, each teacher having prepared an interesting and instructive program of patriotic songs, recitation and stories of Washington.

Washington School

SEVERAL HEARINGS HELD

Before the Legislature This Morning

There were several important hearings before the legislature in Boston this morning. Bill number 1157, relative to dental work in schools, on which unfavorable report was returned last week, was up for rebuttal today. Many speakers were heard in opposition to the passage of the bill. It was brought out that in many instances unlicensed college students were engaged in the work and the speakers urged that a bill be passed making this a misdemeanor. A hearing on a bill relative to old

MAGNATE HAS WIFE IN NEW YORK

Manicure Girl Interrupted in Wedding Plans by Hall's Wired Confession

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 21.—Miss Sallie Louise Smith, the blonde manicurist of the Hotel Taft, is searching New York city for Frank R. Hall, the retired business man, who promised to marry her next week and take her to his orange farm in southern California for their honeymoon.

She received the following telegram yesterday noon:

"New York, Feb. 20.
"Am just leaving for Chicago with my wife. Am heartbroken. Can you forgive me?"

Selected Wedding Gown

Miss Smith had spent the morning picking out the material for her wedding gown and in doing other shopping in anticipation for the event. She was overcome temporarily by the telegram but revived and, calling a taxi, caught the 1 o'clock train for New York city to either find Hall or his relatives.

Her frame of mind was belligerent and her meeting with the relatives of Hall promised anything but harmonious dialogue and action. Till she received the telegram she had no reason to doubt the sincerity of Hall in offering her his hand.

Her mother, Mrs. Hiram Smith of Whalley avenue, and her brother, Milton Smith, said last night that Hall visited her home with her and last week announced his engagement to her. He gave a formal banquet Monday evening at which all of her family and several of his friends among

New Haven business men were present. On this occasion the engagement was formally announced and Hall received the congratulations of the guests.

Hall remained here till Wednesday morning. He spent Tuesday buying necessities for the approaching wedding and arrangements had been partially made for the ceremony to be performed at the home of the Rev. Frederick Saxton, rector of the Episcopal church in Westville. Mr. Hall begged the need of going to New York city to settle his business affairs and arrange for the proposed honeymoon trip to his southern California orange farm.

While Miss Smith was shopping yesterday morning her brother Milton says that he called up Hall at the Elks' club of New York city. Smith says of this interview:

"Hall had called up from the Elks' club before, I knew that he made his New York headquarters there. I asked him about the wedding plans, and he said that he was busy settling details. But the greenery might be deferred several days because of the fact that he was making elaborate preparations for the trip west. He said he would know more definitely tomorrow."

Miss Smith received his telegram an hour later.

Heard of Wife

Hall has become well acquainted with prominent members of the Elks' club here during his recent visits. An official of the club said last night:

"I have known Hall but a year. He was a member of the New York club and called frequently at the local club. He was a companionable fellow, a liberal entertainer and was often at our club. He always met his financial obligations and was a generous companion. When I heard on Monday that he was engaged to Miss Smith it occurred to me that I had heard Hall speak of having a wife. I met him on Tuesday and refreshed his mind in this matter. He replied that he had had a wife, but had been divorced for several years. I apologized for having misunderstood him, as I thought, last evening, however, after the announcement of the engagement had been made in the evening newspapers and after he had given his engagement banquet, two or three of us members of the club compared notes and we all recollected that he had definitely heard Hall speak of his wife in New York city."

Phoned to Club

"We called up Secretary Carroll of the New York Elks' club and asked him about the matter. He stated that we were right and that Hall had a wife living. We started to notify Miss Smith today and learned that she had started for New York city with blood in her eye. At the Elks' club we always called Hall the 'man of mystery.'"

"I cannot understand him, but he had many admirable traits. I think, however, that it is a case for the alienists to investigate. I firmly believe that Hall, in his peculiar mental state of the past few weeks, believed himself single and became engaged to Miss Smith in good faith. I imagine he had a rude awakening when he reached his home in New York city and that he will wind up in a sanitarium."

Renominated for Third Term

BATH, Me., Feb. 21.—Frank A. Small was renominated unanimously for a third term as mayor of this democratic caucus last night.

WILD CARS WERE STOPPED

Brakeman Averts Wreck of Express

FRANKLIN, N. H., Feb. 21.—Six runaway freight cars, speeding down a half-mile incline toward an approaching express train threatened scores of lives yesterday, and but for the quick action of Station Agent L. J. Sellers of Mills, who telegraphed to sidetrack the express at Garrish, a serious collision would probably have resulted.

Brakeman William G. Vallia, who boarded the runaway cars when they broke loose from a siding at Franklin, brought them to a stop at the foot of the incline, just before they reached the station, by applying the brakes.

Brakes Frozen

The brakes had been frozen and refused to work when Vallia first boarded the cars, but knowing the danger ahead he kept tugging with all his strength. Almost frantic when he heard the whistle of the express, he hurried himself upon the brakes and succeeded at last in getting them to work.

The passengers on the express were kept unaware of the incident, and not until an extra engine was procured to shove the cars on a siding did they know of the narrowness of their escape.

The cars, heavily loaded with pulp, had been backed on a siding at Franklin on the Franklin & Tilton branch of the Boston & Maine railroad and hardly had the engine been detached before they started down the incline.

Vallia quickly jumped on the rear end of the cars and when the runaway section passed the station at Mills, Agent Sellers saw that Vallia was unable to stop the rushing cars. He hurriedly sent the message to Garrish, which reached the station shortly before the express arrived there.

VENETIAN BLIND CORDS

Suggestions on How to Mend Them

The cord of the Venetian blind is mighty apt to break at a crucial moment when one wants the room in which it is placed to look particularly well. A woman in whose house an accident of this kind happened, realizing that there was no time in which to send for a workman to mend the blind, seized a pair of steps and went up to discover for herself what was wrong. To her joy she found the business of mending a simple matter.

Venetian blinds are only screwed to the top of the window sash and are easily undone with a screwdriver. The screws which hold the hand cord to the window must be unfastened. The blind can then be laid gently on the floor.

To take the old cord out undo the two pieces of broad tape which are nailed across underneath the bottom

lath and you will find a knot under each. Cut off these knots and draw out the old cord. You can then measure how long the new cord should be, allowing three inches for the knots. In withdrawing the cord you will have seen in the top plank four little pulleys. Take the two ends of your new cord and thread them up through the holes containing wheels 1 and 2. Then take the first cord over wheel 1 and along to wheel 3 and down through the laths, making a knot at the bottom of the blind.

Take the second cord over wheel 2 along to wheel 4, over it and down through the laths, knotting it as you did the other one. Repeat the piece of tape over the knots and the blind is ready to go up again.

When it is in place pull both cords as tightly as possible so that the blind goes up straight; then if you like, knot the cord so as to make it easily and evenly lowered.

The laths are held in place by being laid on little strips of tape and laid across from the two main pieces that run up the front and back. If any laths have fallen out of place you can easily readjust them.

While the cord is out of the blind it is the earliest possible thing to remove the laths, wash them and lay them back on the tapes again, ready for re-threading.

REVOLVER FOUND NEAR DEAD MAN

Testimony on Weapon Given at Trial of W. W. Dorr, Charged With Murder of Marsh

SALEM, Feb. 21.—Further testimony regarding the automatic revolver with which W. W. Dorr of Stockton, Cal., is alleged to have murdered George Marsh of Lynn on April 11 last, was given when the trial of Dorr was resumed today. Walter Anderson, shipping clerk at the firearms factory, testified that the revolver which witnesses said yesterday was found near the supposed scene of the murder was sent from the factory in the east to a San Francisco dealer in August, 1901. He was unable to give this information by the number on the weapon. He testified as to the manner of marking revolvers and declared it impossible to duplicate the weapons so marked.

Other witnesses called during the first hour included Belinda Hucks of Swampscott, J. B. Clark, Mary E. Leary and Jennie York of Lynn, all of whom testified to having seen or had dealings with the prisoners during the fortnight preceding the murder. Mrs. Leary said that Dorr roomed at her house, having an apartment overlooking the Marsh house from the first of March to the fourth of April. He lived in another house nearby until April 11.

Writing on leaves from a diary which were made an exhibit in evidence were declared by Carroll W. Brock of Stockton to be in the handwriting of Dorr. Brock testified that he was employed by Dorr as a bookkeeper for some time and that in March, 1912, he purchased Dorr's motorcycle business in Stockton. Under cross-examination Brock said that it was not unusual for men in California to carry firearms.

Testimony regarding the bullets recovered from the body of Marsh was given by Dr. Nathaniel Breed, who assisted in the autopsy and by Arthur E. Wells, a state police officer. A rifle, cleaning rod was identified by Mrs. Nellie O'Neill of Lynn as one found in the Marsh house covered with water. At 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the day that Marsh was killed, he said that one not familiar with tidal conditions might have mistaken the high

CHAINED TO CAR SEATS

Two Loads of Convicts Taken From Jail

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Chained to the car seats, one prisoner to each seat, two coach loads of federal convicts were taken under a heavy guard today from the District of Columbia jail to the Minnesota state penitentiary at Stillwater. The transfer of the prisoners was made at the instigation of the department of justice and their transfer was made necessary by the crowded condition of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and Moundsville, Va., to which district federal prisoners generally are transferred. The convicts will arrive at their destination Sunday morning.

J. P. Morgan Improving NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Advices from Cairo received by J. P. Morgan & Co. today in regard to the condition of Mr. Morgan's health continue favorable, according to a report of the firm. The firm discredited the report that Mr. Morgan had suffered an apoplectic stroke.

Spend $1,000,000 On Tennis It is estimated that since the offering of the Davis cup the contesting nations have spent more than $1,000,000 on the tennis matches waged for its holding. As the American cup is to be played, and the Westchester cup is to be played, it is probable that the highest tennis honors in the world.

Mustard's Quick Relief Without the Blister!

You remember the good old-fashioned mustard plaster. Your mother and your grandmother used to apply it whenever you had a cold, an ache or a pain. It burned like sixty, but it surely did the work.

Here is the old family remedy, greatly improved by science and put up in Twentieth Century form—

The quick and blessed relief without the blister—tard, or the blister and messiness of the plaster. MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. For MUSTEROLE, the oil of the highest grade of mustard is refined until it is as pure as human milk can make it.

You simply rub it on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone.

Not a blister is left even on tender skin! Instead it has a delicious, comforting effect.

You don't have to spread MUSTEROLE

Appleton Street

The revenue accountant and force and the district plant chief and force of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company today moved into their offices in the magnificent new headquarters of the company in Appleton street. This is the first step toward the establishing of the local plant in its new home and it is expected that by the 15th day of March the entire force will have moved into the other finely equipped building. The "ent-ent-ent" that is the changing over of the wires from the old building to the new, will be made on the evening of March 15.

The new home of the N. E. T. and T. Co. is one of the finest in this part of the country and is thoroughly up to date in every respect. There are numerous parlors, reading rooms and everything to insure comfort and pleasure of the employees. The switch board is a magnificent piece of workmanship and the business office is beautifully finished.

23 Nations to Participate

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Two years to a day before the official date of the opening of the Panama-Pacific exposition, Charles C. Moore, its president, issued a statement today to show that preparations already are further advanced than was planned, that 23 foreign nations have accepted the invitation to participate and that the exposition will be ready before the day set.

A. O. H. ANNIVERSARY

Division I Held Observance Last Night

The 46th anniversary of Div. 1 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held last night in the A. O. H. hall with a large number of members present. President Daniel E. Hogan was in the chair.

A large amount of business was transacted at the meeting and it was voted to take part in the parade to be held in this city on March 23. The Ephedra City band will be engaged by the division for that day.

After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed by the members in honor of the 46th year of the division. The division which was organized in 1857 is the oldest in this state, and all records of the society from its organization are in the hands of Secretary James A. Sheehan.

James Lyons, who became a member of the order in 1869, two years after it was organized, gave a very interesting talk on the early history of the society. Speeches were also given by Brother John O'Hell and Vice-President Michael Casey. The latter talked on the history of the society from 1901 to 1913. At the time Mr. Casey joined this division it had a membership of only 26, but with the help of Brother Henry Smith they succeeded in bringing the membership near what it is today. A resolution by Treasurer McCann concluded the program.

The division now has a membership of about 200 members and it is their wish to have a big celebration in 1917, in honor of their 50th anniversary. The officers of the society recently elected are: President, Daniel E. Hogan; vice president, Michael Casey; recording secretary, George Stewart; financial secretary, James A. Sheehan; treasurer, Thomas J. McCann.

Mrs. Lena Lalumiere of 226 Merrimack street and her milliner, Miss Irene have gone to New York, to look over the spring style of hats.

Boils Disappeared

"I was afflicted with many boils on my back and neck, causing me so much trouble I was hardly able to work. I knew of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier, and decided to take it. Gradually it purified my blood and the boils diminished and disappeared. It did me more good than anything else I have ever taken. I gladly recommend this good medicine." Monroe Wilson, Garland, Texas.

Woman Is As Old As She Looks

No woman wants to look old. Many in their effort to look youthful resort to the "beauty doctor's" prescriptions. Their mistake is that they visit the wrong department in the drug store. Beauty depends upon health. Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders, irregularities and weaknesses of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the falling step.

DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription

This famous medicine strikes at the very root of these enemies of your youthful appearance. It makes you not only look young, but feel young.

Your druggist can supply you in liquid or tablet form, and 50-cent and 10-cent sizes. Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., and retail box will be mailed you.

A man's home is his castle and with one of our beautiful dining room sets your home will look beautiful and your food will taste better and all the family will be happy. We supply almost everything in the household furniture from carpets to ranges and always at rock bottom prices, either cash or credit. Don't fail to call and look at our stock and our prices.

since upon him devolved the duty of keeping the army prepared for warfare and making plans for its use in case of war. He is not called the commanding general of the army, since that title was abolished in 1903, when the general staff was established, with office of chief of staff. The last commanding general of the army was Lieutenant General Young, now retired.

Some time ago it was reported that President Wilson had decided to name as head of the general staff Major General Thomas H. Barry, one of the best known officers of the army. He has been in command of the department of the east, in succession to the late Major General Frederick D. Grant. Before succeeding General Grant, on Governors Island, General Barry was superintendent of the United States military academy at West Point. He has an army record extending back from West Point.

In one sense, the incumbent of the office of chief of staff of the army is a personal appointee of the president, quite as much so as is the secretary of war or any of the other members of the cabinet. The term of the office of the chief of staff terminates automatically on the day after the inauguration of a president.

There is another provision that if at any time the chief of staff considers that he can no longer sustain toward the president and the secretary of war relations of absolute confidence and personal accord and sympathy it is his duty to apply to be relieved.

Of course President Wilson may decide to re-elect General Barry, in which case he would serve until July 18, 1914, the end of his four years' term.

Should President Wilson decide to appoint another general officer as chief of staff he is not limited in his choice, but may detail any major general, or brigadier general on the active list.

General Barry will not reach sixty-four, the age of retirement, until 1915, so that he has some years of good active service left. He had a long and honorable record in the army before 1907, but that year brought him most prominently before the world as commander of the army of pacification sent to Cuba.

Besides having the distinction of having been the first major general in command at West Point, General Barry is known as one of the handsomest among the good looking officers of the army. He is not very tall, but he is well built and has the military bearing that goes well with the title of general. He has iron gray hair and mustache and a complexion that tells tales of many years of service in the far west, in Cuba and the Philippines. He is a strict disciplinarian, as some of the students of West Point learned when they tried to get around the regulations of the academy.

There happened to be no gold spoon looking for a convenient resting-place in some one's mouth when Barry was born. That event happened in 1855 in the lower west section of New York city. As his name betokens, he is of Irish descent. He won his appointment to West Point from the hands of Congressman Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of the former president, by proving his scholarship.

WHO WROTE THE LETTERS?

the letters and that she was afraid of Miss Wilkins because of the threats which the missives contained against her. When asked what motive the defendant could have had for threatening her, she replied after several questions that some time ago a young man had been keeping company with Miss Wilkins and that afterward she (Miss Scraggs) had claimed the attentions of the young man. This, she said, might have been a motive for the threats. Miss Scraggs said that she and the defendant had for a long time been the best of friends.

Mrs. Thomas George Scraggs, mother of the plaintiff, took the stand and testified to the receiving of the letters. Some of them, it was said, had been handed to Miss Scraggs by another girl named Almina Levesque and the latter could not be located. A newsboy is also said to have delivered some of the communications to the plaintiff. Mrs. Scraggs testified that she had warned the defendant to stop writing the letters.

The statement of the defendant, Miss Wilkins, on the stand were to the effect that she had not written the letters and she denied all the material allegations made against her. Mr. Walter W. Cleworth, assistant cashier in the Traders National bank, was in court as a handwriting expert and qualified as such by the court. He examined the writing in the letters and as it was of the vertical style, said that in his opinion it could easily be imitated. Miss Wilkins was required to write at the dictation of one of the attorneys and afterward her writing was compared by Mr. Cleworth with that in the letters and he said that they were very similar, and still that the writing might be copied by another.

On the stand, Miss Wilkins said that she had no hard feelings against the plaintiff at all and that they had been the best of friends. She denied that she had ever threatened to "get even" with her for anything at all.

The mother of the defendant took the stand and said that her daughter had not written the letters for it was not her handwriting. She said further that her daughter had never uttered any word or threat against Miss Scraggs to her knowledge.

At the conclusion of the testimony,

Chas. C. Rothfuchs, M. D.

Judge Enright said that he would continue the case to try and locate the Miss Levesque who was mentioned in the trial. It is thought that she can throw considerable light on the facts of the case and so straighten matters out. The case was therefore continued until Wednesday, March 6.

Breaking and Entering

Thomas J. Burns and Martin P. Dunn were arraigned in court again this morning after having had a continuance yesterday of their trial for breaking and entering and larceny. Another continuance was granted in the meantime because the defendant, Burns, namely it was alleged that he broke into the home of Roman Van Dauppe and stealing a sweater, a watch and $2.60 in money. Burns pleaded not guilty.

The complainant, Mr. Van Dauppe, identified the sweater and a Middlesex street second hand dealer testified that Burns had sold him the sweater. Probable cause was found against the defendant and he was held for the superior court in $300. In regard to the other charges of breaking and entering and larceny from a Mr. Dube, Judge Enright found probable cause and ordered each of the defendants to be held in $500 for the superior court.

Two Charges Against Him

The two charges against John F. Blood were drunkenness, and larceny of a harness from Harry S. Hires, Mr. Hires who is general manager of the Salvation Army industrial home, took the stand and testified that he had "hired" the defendant recently for doing work. He later missed the harness and said that he had heard that Blood had tried to sell one. Witness identified the harness in court this morning.

A Mr. Robitaille testified that Blood had sold him the harness at the S. A. barn and this testimony was seconded by another who had been present. He said that he had paid $15 for the harness and had also treated the defendant to some whiskey.

Defendant stated that he did not sell the harness and that if the other man got it, he took it and did not buy it. Previously Officer Ganley had testified that the man had been staggering drunk. The man was found guilty and sentenced to three months in the house of correction for larceny. The drunk was filed against him.

THE ERDMAN ACT

The danger of the firemen's strike has been averted, and the tense situation which has existed for weeks has been relaxed. Concessions were demanded by the firemen, the justice of which in part was allowed by the railroad management. The point of contention was difference of opinion as to the method that should be pursued in adjusting the difficulties. Finally it was agreed to arbitrate. The railroad wished to have a board of arbitration composed of six or seven disinterested men of national importance. The firemen, on the other hand, stubbornly held to the determination to have the difficulty arbitrated under the Erdman act which was enacted in 1898 to meet such an emergency. By the terms of the act the arbitration board is to consist of three—one from each contending side and a neutral man selected by these two.

The railroad were determined in their opposition to the measure. They claimed that the Erdman arbitration becomes simply a question of the judgment of one man, whose vote can swing the decision in either direction. They parried and met the arguments of the firemen who were equally insistent that if there was to be arbitration it was to be under the Erdman act. Neither side showed any signs of weakening. Finally the leaders of the firemen called for a vote to determine how many of the men were ready to strike. The answer was quick and almost unanimous. Over thirty-four thousand men were ready to go out at the command of their leader.

Not until the strike became imminent did the full significance of such a danger dawn on the public. Suddenly from all sides the voice of the press and the people arose in protest against the stubbornness that threatened to cripple business, bring suffering and privation on thousands, empty the factories, cause food famine, scarcity of milk and coal, and in a hundred ways prove the most serious obstacle to industry and prosperity that this country has had to deal with for years. It is not the east only that would have been affected. A strike on the fifty-four eastern roads would mean cessation of traffic, blockades, and congestion at junction points that would have been felt through the whole of the United States. Facing this situation, therefore, the people, who were to be eventually the greatest sufferers, exerted their influence with the result that at the eleventh hour the railroad gave in to the firemen's demands and agreed to arbitrate under the Erdman act, protesting, however, to the last against its unfairness. The railroad have acknowledged being swayed by public opinion, saying in their statement, "the public would not tolerate a strike."

Through there seems to be some justice in the contention of the railroad managers that the Erdman act is defective, it is singular that such a law has been in existence for five years without an effort having been made to amend it. It was intended to be a means of peaceful settlement of disputes between corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employees. As such it has been resorted to effectively in past disputes and it is too late to cry "inadequate" and "defective" in the time of a great emergency. Both the railroad and the firemen stand on their merits before the bar of public opinion. Both sides have now agreed to arbitrate under the Erdman act. The decision of the board of arbitration must be final. The next step should be such changes or amendments in the Erdman act as will make it satisfactory to employer and employee, so that in future the unending public may not be in danger of extraordinary privation because of objection to a law enacted to promote industrial peace.

WASHINGTON

As sometimes in the musical compositions of the masters, the theme grows in magnitude and grandeur until all the minor harmonious chords are gathered into one wonderful burst of triumphant melody, so in the passing of the years do all the tributes to America and things American, swell into a grand paean of praise for our first great idealist—the ruler of His Country—George Washington.

The marble shaft that points to heaven in the capital city of his name is a symbol of our veneration. It typifies in stone the acclaim of a nation's reverence, that accords to his memory from the hearts of the trembling millions of this country for which he has done so much. Memories of other great men bring an atmosphere of unrest. They cannot be separated in thought from the burning issues that made their lives a turmoil. In the case of Washington it is different. The causes of his greatness, the magnitude of the struggle, the strength of purpose, are being gradually forgotten, and he takes on the aspect of sublime serenity. He ceases to be the Washington who established this Union by suffering and by rugged warfare. He becomes an ideal. He is not so much regarded in our hearts as the man who made America possible; he is its highest type of manhood.

Even in his own day the person of Washington was surrounded by this charm of nobility. In England where the war of independence was a sword-thrust to the heart, no shadow of suspicion ever rested on the motives or character of Washington. In that age when the world was seething after the unrest of the French revolution, when plot and intrigue enmeshed the earth in a network of treachery, the splendid figure of our founder stood out mentally and physically great, in breadth of vision, in nobility of soul. His fight was not for fame or personal gain. He fought for the liberation of the spirit of a nation—he fought for abstract right, for the freedom that has since served as a beacon light to the rest of the civilized world.

The America of today is not the America of Washington. Instead of the one great fight against foes from without, the ideal democracy he founded is fighting corruption that has grown within. The principles enunciated in his farewell address are being disregarded in high places. Oppressed millions have swarmed from all the ports of the world to seek liberty and prosperity under the flag he raised. They are being taught by violent leaders to abandon the path he made plain, the path of loyalty and devotion to duty. But through all our agitation and social unrest, the underlying spirit of the people is still the spirit of Washington. His memory is our greatest heritage. Cherishing that, our laws will gradually quell internal disturbances, harmony and prosperity will take the place of selfishness and distrust, and in the coming era of enlightenment a happier and more united America will still hold as her highest ideal the name and the fame of Washington.

A FEW PRESIDENTS

This is indeed a strenuous time for presidents. In America President Taft is getting his household effects ready preparatory to moving out of the White House. The democrats refuse to sanction his last batch of appointments to office; he is being cartooned and labelled "a man of straw." His troubles indeed are many, and he must be anxiously looking forward to the comparative calm of private life where he can teach his college students respect for the laws he has seen broken so frequently during the past four years.

Down in Mexico Madero has sunk in the quicksands of revolution. He tried to keep his head above the surface by standing, now on the one foot of appeal to loyalty, and now on the other, resource to arms. Both have proved unavailing, and the waves have closed over his head. Poet and idealist, he succeeded an iron-willed despot, but he has fallen by weakness where Diaz fell by severity.

Over in France Poincaré has written his name in the book of gold and has moved into the Elysee palace to take up the burden of the French presidency. For him, too, there are great problems to be faced. His country once went through the throes of a revolution beside which the horrors of Mexico are like the warfare of children. It is not so very long ago, and France has not yet forgotten. Thinking of that, Poincaré probably breathes a sigh of regret for Madero and faces the future calmly but thoughtfully.

There is still another president very much in the public view just now—a scholar, a teacher, and a dreamer. He hands President Taft his cap and gown, and accepts in exchange the reins of government. As a student of monarchies and systems of government, he is thoroughly familiar with the plight of Madero and the problems of Poincaré. In his own country he will face in part the difficulties of each. May Woodrow Wilson be wise enough to understand them and strong enough to overcome them.

CIVIL SERVICE PROMOTION

Our civil service laws, if not complied with, are worse than useless. Such a system was inaugurated to eliminate petty graft and favoritism, and to establish instead a system of promotion on merit alone. It is the nearest approach to direct legal supervision of appointments we possess, and breaches of it are a reflection not only on the parties responsible for such offences but, in a wider and more comprehensive sense, on the institution as a national issue.

From the viewpoint of the young man or woman who takes civil service examinations, breaches of the regulations that govern appointments are grossly unfair. The young people who seek to profit by such examinations are usually those who, possessed of ambition, were denied the means of attaining to high positions because of lack of opportunity. Many of them make sacrifices to educate themselves and secure a place on the civil service list. Having succeeded in their laudable desire they are frequently doomed to disappointment and disheartening failure because of the heartless unfairness and absolute disregard for honor and duty shown by those who make appointments.

If it be true that in our municipal government clerks are appointed to offices without a civil service standing, and over the heads of those who have taken the examinations and proved their worth, the matter demands immediate investigation. It is a situation in which the right and the wrong are so clearly defined that anyone with a sense of fair play can decide the issue justly.

Two of the names most persistently mentioned for the new cabinet are: William Jennings Bryan and Louis D. Brandeis. As men who have figured in public affairs it is to be expected that both have violent enemies, who make no secret of their dislike. Enemies of Bryan declare that he has always shown a tendency to stir up faction, and has an utter incapacity for understanding questions of finance and economics. On the other hand Mr. Brandeis, though active, has been too much of the student of economics and too little of the politician to suit a certain section. For our part we think that much of the criticism directed at Mr. Bryan is unjust and as for Mr. Brandeis he cannot be regarded as in Mr. Bryan's class.

Thus far the only Americans killed in the Mexican uprising have been killed by accident or by stray bullets not intended for them. Let America intervene and a great many will be killed deliberately. "Even so," you say, "our dignity is worth the sacrifice." Nothing is to be gained by this policy. Intervene, and the sacrifice of life, money, and domestic peace will be in vain. The revolution in Mexico is like the spontaneous combustion in a dark mine. It will eventually burn itself out.

Canada is now preparing to submit a parcel post measure to parliament. It is singular that though a parcel post system has worked successfully in England for years, it is to be introduced into Canada only after public opinion in America has sanctioned the measure. Even though reciprocity was so overwhelmingly defeated it may be that American influence is more potent in the Dominion than Canada cares to confess.

Miss Zelle Emerson, a rich Jackson, Mich. girl, has been arrested in England for a militant suffrage outrage, in assaulting a policeman and using insulting language in public. She has been sentenced to two months at hard labor. Zelle will regret during the next few weeks that she did not cast her lot with her American sisters and work off her surplus enthusiasm by marching onward to Washington, instead of helping her misguided English friends to break windows.

March, they say, comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Possibly wise people will be able to symbolize these qualities in the persons of two distinguished personages who are to change places on March 4th—one going in, and the other coming out. But who will be madder than a March hare on that date? Three guesses—you're right the first time.

Seen and Heard

Here is one that was launched by Senator Groom, illustrating the fine lines of distinction: "Out in Dakota," said the senator, "there were gladsome joy bells with a wedding cake as big as a half acre, and great was the happiness, but it was less than a year's scrappy domestic clouds began to darken the nuptial sky. You don't care for me any more than you care for that klondike!" declared the husband during one of the little disturbances. "You know that you married me only because I had money."

"Nonsense," was the prompt rejoinder of the wife. "My reason for marrying you was that I had no money myself."

Senator Cummins was reminded of the experience of a maiden lady in love. The lady, the senator said, could not bear to see negligence. Dust was an abhorrence, and lint, or anything that marred a suit or gown almost drove her to distraction.

At church one Sunday evening while kneeling in prayer the good lady saw a small raveling protruding from the collar of the man in front of her. Everybody was praying. Nobody was looking. It would be so easy to do it, and at the same time it would be performing a kindness for the man who did not suspect the raveling's presence.

In another second she had held and was drawing gently, but it was longer than she had supposed. Before she could realize it she had two yards of slack hanging over the back of the pew, and the end was not yet.

It was too late to pause now, so the maiden lady kept on drawing, drawing, drawing, and finally her commendable

No gasoline, carburetor, engine or other things that go to make the automobile an expensive vehicle are used by 17-year-old James P. McGovern of Brooklyn to make his sail wagon, Flying Dutchman, a success. All he requires is wind to enable him to speed along the roads of Long Island for some weeks in this machine, the envy of every small boy who sees them.

McGovern and his chum, Richard Kellman, 12 years old, have been testing the roads of Long Island to speed along the roads of Long Island for some weeks in this machine, the envy of every small boy who sees them. "I call the Flying Dutchman my aeroplane," said McGovern. "It's a wonderful success. Dick and I have got more enjoyment out of it than we would out of an automobile. We set up early mornings, ride the eight-foot sail, a gust of wind comes along and away we go."

McGovern has patented his invention and he says that within a year it will be sold in sizes to accommodate boys of any size.

SOMEWHERE

"Somewhere the wind is blowing," said I, and toiled along. In torrid heat of noontide. The fancy made me strong; Somewhere the wind is blowing. Though where I gasp and sigh, No breath of air is stirring. Nor cloud in burning sky.

Somewhere the thing we long for Is on this earth's wide bound; Somewhere the sun is shining. When winter locks the ground, Somewhere the flowers are springing. Somewhere the corn is brown, Ready unto the harvest. To feed the hungry town.

Somewhere the twilight gathers, And weary men lay by The burden of the day. And wrapped in slumber lie Somewhere the day is breaking. And gleam and darkness flee; Though storms and harks are tossing, Somewhere's a placid sea.

And thus I thought, 'tis always In this mysterious life; There's always somewhere a splinter of his pain and strife; Somewhere the sin and sorrow Of earth are known no more, Somewhere we wear our spirits Shall find a peaceful shore.

Somewhere the things that try us Shall all have passed away And doubt and fear no longer Blinder the perfect day. O, brother, tho' the darkness In from the next room, The earth is rolling, onward, And light shall come at last.

Fitzsimmons, Veronica Lucinda's parent, runs the cars of the street railway which wind the good town of Lowell. Now the racket naturally arising from the passing back and forth of the trolleys, the racket of all the most pronounced racket of the peace and calm which forever and ever prevail in that sequestered community—has many a time disturbed the sleep of Veronica Lucinda as she lay in her bed near the window of the sleeping chamber on the south side of the house. But Veronica Lucinda—being a patient, sweet tempered little girl, a distinguishing trait of all the girls, little or big, of N. C.—does not mind the occasional racket of the trolleys as much as she does the stirring about in the next room of her big brother, Benjamin Augustus. At any rate he makes a deal of noise during these nocturnal hours which disturb her sleep. And, being a very, very young lady, Veronica Lucinda has often wondered why Benjamin Augustus has grown so unaccountably fond of Lowell, why he stays there till such a late hour, and why he grows confused and sometimes nettled when her sisters (who wear long skirts)

Agricultural School Bill
FIGHT

Middlesex School Hitting the Same
Hard Road Traversed by the Essex
Agricultural School

The committee on education, yesterday, for the second time, returned the Middlesex vocational agricultural school bill to the senate with its leave to withdraw, but this time with four dissenters—Senators Samuel Ross of New Bedford, who is chairman of the committee and Dennis E. Halley of Lawrence, with Reps. Chas. H. Morrill of Haverhill and Charles S. Lawler of Ward 24, Boston.

The bill providing for an agricultural school in Middlesex county was introduced by Rep. Williams of Billerica and it will have to buck the tiger just as hard as the Essex school bucked it. The Essex school bill went to the governor four times and was three times vetoed before it was signed by Gov. Foss.

Committee Reports

These committee reports were read in the house:

Fisheries and game—A bill providing that the open season on gray squirrels shall begin on Oct. 15, instead of Oct. 15.

Municipal finance—Leave to withdraw on petition of mayor of Cambridge asking that the city be permitted to tax the Boston Elevated for use of squares, etc.

Legal affairs—Leave to withdraw on bills providing for state election and primary days shall be legal holidays.

Street railways—Bill to extend the corporate powers of the Boston & Providence Interurban Street Railway Company until Jan. 1 next.

Education—Next general court on bill providing that all text books used in the public schools shall be published by the state board of education.

Labor—Leave to withdraw on bill to establish a state board of labor and to require arbitration of industrial disputes.

Federal relations—Resolutions asking congress to empower the commission on commerce and industry to regulate the price of coal.

Military affairs—Bill to extend the law relative to soldiers' relief to veterans of the war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection.

Education—Bill authorizing Boston to establish an independent agricultural school.

The Stevens order, asking for an investigation of the publicity campaign in connection with the Western Trolley bill, was referred to the joint committee on rules.

Military Affairs—Reference to next general court of petition of Little St. Thus for an appropriation of $5000 for compiling the record of Massachusetts privates in the war of 1812.

Social Welfare—That the committee be discharged on these bills and that they be referred to the committee on public service; petition of Peter J. Donoghue to establish a minimum wage; petition of the American Federation of Labor, Massachusetts branch, for the establishment of a minimum wage.

Street Railways—Leave to withdraw to Beriah H. Underwood on his petition that the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company shall guard its third rail.

Public service—A bill on Mayer Fitzgerald's petition that Boston lamp lighters losing appointment without fault may be appointed as laborers or skilled laborers in the labor department. The committee has cut out as "mechanic or craftsman" from the bill and applies it to any person "at present engaged" in lighting lamps.

Municipal finance—A bill to authorize Sherborn to pay a note of $1375 made payable to the trustees of Swain academy; also a bill for restoration by Sherborn of certain funds for perpetual care of cemetery lots.

Other Hearings

Citing the fact that 27,000 votes were cast at the recent election in Kansas by persons not in the state as an argument in favor of his bill, Representative David F. Sullivan appeared before the committee on election laws in support of his measure for voting by proxy of persons absent from their home towns at election times.

The bill to amend the law regarding ice cream selling licenses for Sunday by providing that such licenses may be granted at any time but shall expire on the 30th day of the ensuing April was advocated by Rudolphus A. Swan of the New Bedford licensing board before the committee on legal affairs. The bill was opposed by Martin J. Kinsland of the Sabbath Protective League.

Two bills relating to the use of firearms were heard before the committee on legal affairs. John F. McCarthy will be given an opportunity to be heard later on his bill to penalize persons under 16 who carry in public places firearms whether openly or concealed. A number of prominent persons opposed the bills as being too sweeping.

Two bills relating to the use of firearms were heard before the committee on legal affairs. John F. McCarthy will be given an opportunity to be heard later on his bill to penalize persons under 16 who carry in public places firearms whether openly or concealed. A number of prominent persons opposed the bills as being too sweeping.

Owls "a-hooting." Miss May Rynga, in a most pleasing manner sang several songs. She was ably assisted on the piano by Miss Evelyn Berry.

His Honor, Mayor O'Donnell was to have spoken but was detained at home by sickness, and President Dowers gave a brief address.

At the close of the concert whist was enjoyed, for the remainder of the evening and several high scores were made and the prizes, 15 in number, donated by members of the Nest, were presented by Chairman MacCallum.

Refreshments, consisting of cake, coffee and sweets, were then served under the direction of Mrs. Ladue.

The event was one of the most successful of its kind ever conducted by the Lowell Nest of Owls.

The committee in charge: J. E. MacCallum, chairman; J. P. McManus, Wm. Hollingsworth and Cornelius Harrington. The committee was ably assisted by several ladies.

After a few well chosen words of welcome to the guests of the evening, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the Owls, who were addressed as "Owlnesses" or owlites, the toastmaster called upon Mr. Joseph Hurley, who rendered several most pleasing piano solos. Mr. James Sullivan then sang selections and was encored. A violin solo was given by Miss Katie Burke, with Miss Margaret Kiernan as accompanist. These young ladies charmed all who heard them, and must have been tired out when they were finally allowed to take their seats.

Finally Mr. "Bully" Looney, comedian with "Prof." Emerson as accompanist, then entertained, and was a whole team for a while. Miss Margaret Moran sandwiched in a vocal solo, and it proved to be a very appetizing and well too, for all enjoyed it immensely.

Mr. Patrick Malloran gave a flute solo and proved himself to be master of the instrument. Mr. J. J. Mahoney, in his characteristic style entertained with recitations that brought out much favorable comment. Miss Helen Smith delighted all with her sweet voice, and was a great favorite. Miss Mary Conroy gave a reading that set all the

Two Thousand Workers, Police and Sympathizers in Clash—Several Arrested

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Shrieking, scratching, kicking and hitting, unrelenting of the cuts and bruises on their faces, and of rents in their garments that exposed bare bodies to the blows of their adversaries, 2000 angry men and women made the second day of rioting in the garment workers' strike in East Boston so chaotic that it took all the reserves of the East Boston station and all officers on duty to restore order in Central square yesterday afternoon.

Three men, two of them suffering from concussion of the brain and one with his hand nearly severed from his wrist by being thrown through a plate glass window by a mob of rioters, are at the hospitals today. Scores of others are nursing broken heads and cuts and bruises in the East Boston police station.

Electric Cars Held Up
Clubs of all kinds, pieces of lead pipe, bottles, bricks and other missiles filled the air during the height of the riot. Electric cars were stalled while policemen, strikers and rioters rolled between the wheels, fighting madly.

Women and children were compelled to leave the cars and seek places of safety as the desperate mob surged across the center of the square.

The streets from Central square to the two East Boston ferries were the scenes of desperate running fights between the retreating strikers and the police.

The three men most seriously injured are Max Schlager, 21, of 181 Chelsea street, East Boston, at the East Boston Relief hospital, suffering from a punctured wound in the head, lacerated lips, and probable concussion of the brain; Morris Zatz, 25, of 65 Salem street, at the same place, suffering a battered head and probable concussion, and Rokas Depshabs, 22, of 12 Athens street, South Boston, is at the Haymarket square relief station, suffering injuries from being thrown through a window. His right hand was nearly severed from his wrist.

At the East Boston police station Wolf Spellman, 32, of 11 Minot street, West End, and Salvatore Pascaleo, 24, of 23 Dwight street, were treated by the police surgeon for severe scalp wounds and then placed in cells.

Start of Trouble

The trouble started shortly after 4 o'clock, when 2000 marching strikers, sent over from Boston to picket the factory of R. H. Evans at 99 Border street, drew the special guard of thirty police drawn up in front. For a minute there was confusion, for the police would allow none to loiter. Then a moving picket line was formed, and up and down the street the strikers, many of them women and girls, paraded.

Suddenly two small boys discovered an enormous club under the coat of one of the strikers. They raised the cry and he broke and ran, pursued by the police. After a short chase and a sharp tussle he was captured.

For a short time there was quiet.

Save Your Money Traveling to the West

A lot of money is wasted traveling just because people don't "know the ropes." Now I am paid by the Railroad Company to be of service to you. I can tell you about cheap special tickets, about the most comfortable way to go and how to see most on your trip. I will give you maps and pictures of the country without cost, and if there is some information about your trip that's lacking, I can probably get it for you, and he glad to do it. That's what I'm here for. Why not make use of me? Just call at the office, or write and let me know what is wanted. It makes a whole lot of difference if you start right, and a little friendly help from reliable people is worth while. Alex Stocks, New England Passenger Agent, C. & N. Y. R. ## IF YOUR CHILD NEEDS A PHYSIC.

If Cross, Feverish, Tongue Coated, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean the Stomach, Liver and Bowels

Look at the tongue. Mother! It coated. It is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged up with purifying waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is listless, drooping, pale, doesn't sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of his little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste. Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed. A little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elix of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, lasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

BEST CATARRH DOCTOR

Has Benefited Thousands—Will Do the Same for You or Money Back

This is the HYOMEI Inhaler, the little doctor that has cured many thousands of sufferers of catarrh, sniffles, bronchitis, coughs and colds.

It's easy and pleasant to cure yourself with HYOMEI. Just pour a few drops in the Inhaler, and breathe it in. The healing, soothing and antiseptic air will reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat; will stop the irritation almost immediately; will allay the inflammation, drive out the foul odor; kill the germs and banish the disease.

My wife has been using HYOMEI for two months for catarrh and pulmonary trouble. She has received more relief and benefit than from any other treatment." E. S. Parrett, Jeffersonville, O.

"HYOMEI has cured me of terrible catarrh and buzzing in the head. I would not be without it in the house for a single night." Mrs. S. F. Fuller, Columbia, S. C.

Druggists everywhere sell HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mei). A complete outfit, including Inhaler, only costs $1.00, and an extra bottle, if afterwards needed, is but 50 cents. Carter & Sherburne guarantee it.

When the shutting down whistle blew the strikers congregated in front of the factory to meet the fifteen city operatives. The police and about forty friends and relatives formed about the door and surrounded them as they came out, started to escort them to Central square. They were followed by the strikers.

Just as the square was reached a man in overalls was seen to strike another. The man behind him raised a club, and as he felled the one in front of him, he was felled in turn. In an instant the whole square was a seething mass of madly fighting men and women.

Police Reserves Called Out

Scorus fell, and the fighters surged across the central grass plot, onto Bennington and Meridian streets, where they encountered and stalled several electric cars. Reserves of police were called up and in less than ten minutes the patrol wagon had made two trips to the station, loaded with prisoners. Followed by a mob that seemed to have sprung from nowhere, the strikers retreated to the ferries. The strikers landing one was thrown through the window and rescued by friends who carried him to Haymarket square.

Smart Dressing Gown

IN ROSE COLORED FIGURED FLANNEL

Here is a kimono that is not a kimono—a contradiction in terms, to be sure, but one in this case that justifies the means. The salient point of the model is the kimono, the difference showing itself in the shaped underarm seams and general close lines. Of the garment, which, however, has the real kimono sleeve. The material used is a lightweight figured flannel in a lovely shade of rose. Cream satin ribbon binds the square neck and bell shaped sleeves.

HOW TO BATHE BABY

Water Should Always be Tested

When you bathe baby, see that the temperature of the room is not under 60 degrees F. To undress and bathe an infant in a cold room is a risky proceeding.

Always test the water carefully before putting the baby into it.

The best thing to use is a bath thermometer, which can be bought for a small sum.

If, however, you have to do without one, bare your elbow and try the heat of the water with that instead of with the hand, as it is more sensitive than the latter.

For a young baby the water should feel comfortably warm to your elbow. For a newborn baby the temperature of the bath thermometer should register 100 degrees F.

Before undressing the child have everything necessary for both bath and dressing ready by the side of your chair, so that you need not be obliged to get up to look for anything while the child is undressed.

Remember the importance of expedition in bathing baby. Colds and chills may be the result of dawdling over this business.

Always lock the door before undressing the little one, and do not unlock it until the child is dried and clothed again. Very serious chills have resulted through draught from the opening and closing door striking the baby in its bath.

A screen to enclose mother's chair and shelter the bath is a very useful piece of nursery furniture.

Always put some cold water in the bath first, then add the hot.

This should be a standing rule in nurseries where there are toddling children, as serious accidents have happened when the nurse, having poured boiling water into the bathtub, has gone to an adjoining room to fetch cold water to add to it.

Never use highly colored or strongly scented soap for washing babies or young children. The skin is very sensitive in early childhood, and what would not affect an adult may very seriously affect the skin of a child.

Highly scented violet powder should not be used for dusting babies' bodies. The safest thing to use is a mixture of two parts either of starch powder or fuller's earth and one part of boracic powder.

These should be sifted together so as to be thoroughly mixed. The whole can be scented by pouring

Locomotive Engineer Has Remarkable Experience

I have been thinking that word from me would benefit those who may be suffering as I was before I began taking your Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I am a locomotive engineer, employed on the Tyrone & Clearfield Branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Three years ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble so bad that I was compelled to lay off duty from my engine and was in the care of two doctors. However their medicine did not benefit me. One day, I noticed your advertisement, to send name and address for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root. At this time my trouble had reached a serious stage. I sent for the sample bottle and in three days received a small bottle of Swamp-Root, which I took according to directions, and by the time I had taken the contents, I could pass water more freely. I was so pleased with my experiment that I sent my wife to the drug store at W. H. Miller, Phillipsburg, Pa., and secured a one-dollar bottle. I continued taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I was entirely cured. Now whenever I feel any pain or soreness after being exposed to bad weather or hard work, I take a dose or two of Swamp-Root. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly, especially to brother engineers who are more or less troubled with their kidneys (more than any other class of men).

Yours truly,
T. J. VAN SCOYOC,
1226 Lincoln Ave., Tyrone, Pa.
Station of Pennsylvania
County of Blair

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, T. J. Van Scoyoc, who being duly sworn, doth depose and say that the foregoing statement is true. Sworn and subscribed to before me this 15th day of July, A. D. 1909.

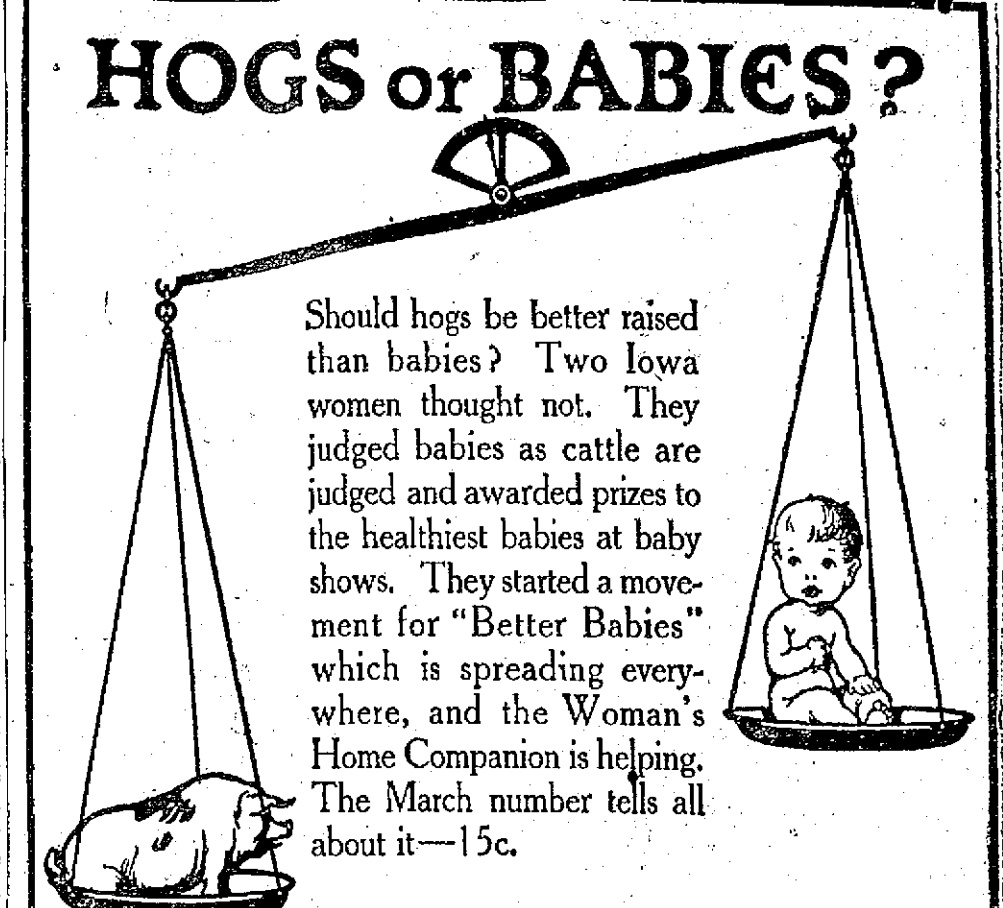

H. B. CAMPBELL,
Notary Public.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Lowell Sun. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

HOGS or BABIES?

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION

Should hogs be better raised than babies? Two Iowa women thought not. They judged babies as cattle are judged and awarded prizes to the healthiest babies at baby shows. They started a movement for "Better Babies" which is spreading everywhere, and the Woman's Home Companion is helping. The March number tells all about it—15c.

ing over the powder in its box a little eau de cologne. The box should then be closely covered.

Remember the great importance of thoroughly drying the skin after bathing and washing.

Many people forget that neglect of this is very apt to cause chafing. Little children often suffer severely from chafing in cold weather because they are not well dried after washing.

Chapped hands in winter are generally the result of incomplete drying. If your washing water is very hard it can be, to some extent, softened by adding a handful or two of bran to the bath or by keeping a muslin bagful of oatmeal in the washing pitcher.

The bag must be refilled about three times a week.

Babies should not be bathed soon after being fed. At least an hour should always elapse between a meal and a bath. This holds good at all ages—from the breast fed infant to the grownup man or woman.

Always have a needle threaded with white cotton at hand when bathing babies and stitch the "binder" on with a few quick stitches. It should never be pinned on, as even safety pins are uncomfortable so close to the skin, and there is always a risk of their becoming unfastened.

When bathing baby near the fire in winter be careful that its head and eyes are never exposed to the glare of a big fire. The head should always be directed away from the fire.

A bath is most soothing to a baby's nerves. One who is inclined to sleep badly should be bathed at night. Its cot should be ready to put it into directly bathing operations are finished.

ECONOMY IN THE HOMES

Hints on How it Can be Accomplished

Economy of strength is of as great value to the housewife as the actual saving of pennies on provisions and general expenses. A housekeeper who takes this practical viewpoint of the matter says that she keeps a couch in her dining room and throws herself upon it for a few minutes while she is waiting for the kettle to boil or her husband to come home or in other odd moments.

And she says one is surprised to find how much real rest is gained in these few minutes. If the couch had not been handy the restless moments would not have materialized.

Another woman keeps up her current reading in spite of an enormous mending basket, simply because she has a book tucked in her basket, and, although the sewing is not neglected, she stops for a few minutes every hour or so and reads for awhile. The book is never of so absorbing a nature that it cannot be dropped when recess time is over, but the subject is one that may be thought over while the next batch of sewing is being attacked.

Every woman who wants to and is systematic about planning her household work may find time to take care of herself so that the age of dowdy women may soon become a "has-been."

Whist Social
A very enjoyable whist party was held last night in the school hall by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Patrick's church. The affair was well patronized and the returns will go to aid the charitable work of the church. The winners of the prizes were the following: First prize, for women, Miss Winifred Lyons; second prize, Mrs. J. P. Noble; third prize, Mrs. J. P. Noble; first men's prize, G. Mullin; second prize, G. H. Hobden, and third prize, M. J. Monahan; men's bonny prize, John Hogan; women's bonny prize, Mrs. J. L. Cronin.

I reckon you never thought of using the furnace heat as a means of reducing household expenses, but it can be done very successfully. What you do is to use the furnace heat for cooking. Steaks, chops, bacon and fish can be broiled to a turn over the furnace coals.

Potatoes are deliciously roasted by putting them on the ledge inside the furnace door. They must, of course, be watched so they will not burn and should be turned once or twice while they are baking.

Baked beans, too, may be cooked with furnace heat. Put them in a covered earthen bean pot just inside the furnace door and let them stay there all night or all day, removing the pot from the ledge whenever it is necessary to coal the fire. The beans in perhaps ten hours will be cooked to a turn—firm, yet tender, and juicy as they should be.

When many dishes are to be washed much time may be saved if three pans are used. Wash the dishes in water with sufficient soap to make good suds and place them in a second pan. When this is full, rinse with hot, not boiling, water and drain in the third pan. By the time the rinsing pan is again filled the dishes in the draining pan will be practically dry, and it will require little effort to complete the task. Re-

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES.

Time! No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Papa's Diapiesin"

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Papa's Diapiesin costs only fifty cents and will probably cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspepsia troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapiesin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite, but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

Have Color in Your Cheeks—Be Better Looking—Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after-effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

HIGH STREET CHURCH
W. C. T. U. Will Hold
Jubilee Tomorrow

Middlesex County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will observe the fortieth anniversary of its existence tomorrow, Saturday, with a jubilee, in High Street Congregational church, this city, the meeting opening at 10 a. m. and continuing all day.
The leading speaker will be Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, the president of the National W. C. T. U., who will take for her subject, "Temperance Jubilees of Today, and Their Significance."
This is the first time Mrs. Stevens has spoken in this city, and there is much interest manifested in her for that reason.
The vice-president-at-large of the National will also be present and speak; she is Miss Anna A. Gordon, for so many years the companion and secretary of Frances E. Willard when she was the National president.
There will also be prominent speakers from our own state, among them Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, president of the Mass. W. C. T. U., Mrs. Susan S. Benson, former president, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, acting president while Mrs. Stevenson made her trip around the world in 1909, and others who are well known to Massachusetts.
Hon. J. B. Lewis and Prof. John Nichols are expected, also Rev. Alfred Noon of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence society and Arthur H. Davis of the Anti-Saloon league.
The first meeting of the Temperance women of Middlesex county was in Ayer, February 22, 1873, thus antedating the Crusade a few months, and from this meeting the W. C. T. U. came, and the first convention was in the same church in which this jubilee is being held to celebrate the fortieth anniversary.
There has been but one president during these years, this being Mrs. Abby F. Rolfe, of Concord, who has ably filled the office. The secretary

For twenty-five years from 1855 was Mrs. Abby D. Saxe, of Medford, who died in 1909, and Mrs. Augusta H. Brigham, of Malden, was elected in her place, and still holds the position. She will read a short history of the county work of the jubilee.
Mrs. Alfred Boynton of Pepperell was treasurer for twenty-five years, resigning in 1909 on account of feebleness, and Miss G. A. Richardson of Stoneham was elected in her place and is yet in office.
The meeting is open to the general public, and it is hoped that a large number from the city will be present, as there will be many addresses during the day that will interest all.

EARLY TEACHING OF FRENCH
Credit is given to Catholic Missionaries for the first teaching of French in America by Bureau of Education.
Credit is given to Catholic missionaries for the first teaching of French in America in a bulletin on modern languages just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. Dr. Hauschkin, author of the bulletin, shows that even before the English settlements were fairly started, the Jesuits were bringing their language and civilization into the valleys of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi. In Louisiana French was first taught by the Ursuline nuns, who came from Rouen, France in 1727. In their convent school they anticipated the demands of present day language teachers by insisting that instruction both in French and English be not only "in theory, but practice, the pupils being required to converse daily in both languages."
French was a favorite subject in the private schools of Colonial days and later. Thomas Jefferson studied French in the school of a certain Mr. Douglas. In Franklin's "Academy of Philadelphia" it was taught as a private outside tutor until 1761, when a professor of French and German was appointed. In 1780 "The Boarding School (in Bethlehem, Pa.) for the Education of Young Misses" offered instruction in French, stating that "a lady well versed in this language, has arrived from Europe with the intention of giving lessons in the same." An extra charge of "five Spanish dollars per annum" was made for French.
In New England the early academies of French and German were also taught. French frequently as an incidental study with a special fee attached. The numerous Ohio seminaries of the first half of the 19th century, especially those for girls, taught it as an optional study, on a par with music and drawing.

It was some time before French proved its right to a place in the college curriculum. In 1733 the Harvard authorities gave permission to a native Frenchman named Languetier to teach the language to such students as desired it, but this privilege was taken shortly afterwards because of the "dangerous opinions" of the teacher. It continued to be taught intermittently until 1780, when it became a regular subject; and in 1782 French had so grown in favor that permission was given to substitute it for classical and sophomoric Hebrew. Although William and Mary college established a professorship of modern languages in 1773-80, according to Dr. Hauschkin, was the first institution in America to introduce a thorough-going modern language course.
In the early days of the republic French grew rapidly after 1850. In 1855-57 11 per cent. of the students in the public schools studied the language. The latest figures cited by Dr. Hauschkin shows that over 100,000 students in public and private high schools are now taking it. French is little taught in the elementary schools except where there is a large French population, as in Louisiana.

Mrs. Katherine Casey, mother of Hon. James H. Casey, former mayor of Lowell, who has been quite ill at her home in Summer street, is reported as showing signs of improvement.

We are still refining muffs with good quality satin for 50c., and repairing and refitting all kinds of partly worn fur at equally low prices. Fur Dept. main floor, Colonial store. Telephone.

The members of the Lowell Guild are cordially invited to attend a sewing tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Frank S. Bean, 26 Elmwood street, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Esther Greene will sing and she will be accompanied by Mrs. Dunham.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur of 59 South Whipple street held a formal observance of the tenth anniversary of their marriage recently and there was present a large gathering of friends and relatives. The couple received many beautiful and costly gifts as tokens of esteem from the guests and the evening was very pleasantly spent in games and music.

Card of Thanks

At this time we desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors and others whose tender words of sympathy, floral tributes and other kindly acts endeavored to assuage our grief at the loss of our beloved one, the late Timothy J. Jones. We long to assure all of that beautiful evidence of friendship and solicitude for the bereaved, that our hearts are comforted and our souls are sustained in the days to come.

Mrs. Margaret Hennessy and family.

Injured Thumb

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN

You had better stop at once or you'll lose your job. Every line of business is closing its doors to "drinking" men. It may be your turn next. By the aid of ORRINE thousands of men have been restored to lives of sobriety and industry.

We are so sure that ORRINE will benefit you that we say to you that if after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use, your money will be refunded.

When you stop "drinking," think of the money you'll save; besides, sober men are worth more to their employers and get higher wages.

Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORRINE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and talk it over.

Richard-Jaynes Co., 119-123 Merrimack street.

TRY GYARCOL FOR RHEUMATISM

The first few doses will convince you of its merit. Gyarcol contains no alcohol—it neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism and enables the system to get rid of this poison. Prompt relief and speedy cure follow the use of Gyarcol. Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure
Absolutely has no substitute

Many mixtures are offered as substitutes for Royal. No other baking powder is the same in composition or effectiveness, or so wholesome and economical, nor will make such fine food.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

this forenoon, and at 11 o'clock the cortege left for the Northern station, where the body was placed aboard the 11:35 train for Troy, N. Y. The remains were accompanied by several close friends of Mr. Revilo and by his son, Harry of Troy. There were many floral offerings, among them being a mammoth wreath from E. H. Hunt, Roy, Riley, Firth, John W. Lyman and E. W. Lachance, standing wreath on base, friends from the Richardson hotel. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

Itching, Crusted Eczema Is Cured
By a Single Jar of Resinol After Many Remedies Had Failed

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 27, 1912—"It would be very wrong not to tell you what Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap have done for us. My baby boy was born with a rough skin. It kept getting worse all the time. It became a weeping eczema and at times a thick crust would form. He would cry and howl most all the time. I cannot tell you all the remedies and salves I used, before I sent for Resinol samples. "At once I washed him with Resinol Soap and put on Resinol Ointment. He slept for three hours. When he awoke I washed him again and, like a miracle, the scabs dropped off and have never returned. You would not have known him. Then I bought Resinol Soap and a large jar of Ointment, but before it was all used, baby was well. I would not be without Resinol Ointment and Soap. I have recommended them to all my friends." (Signed) Mrs. Katie Markert, 176 Ralph street.

If you or any of your little ones were suffering from eczema, rash, letter, ringworm, or other itching, burning skin eruptions, there is only one better proof of the value of Resinol. That is, try it yourself and see! You can buy Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap at any druggist's, or can get samples free by writing to Dept. S-T, Resinol Chem. Co., Baltimore, Md. Resinol stops itching instantly. Prescribed by careful doctors for fifteen years.
